Integrationist Sit-Ins Loom At Baltimore

Non-Violent Action Group Plans Mass Demonstrations

By The Associated Press

The Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, a national integrationist group, unveiled plans Thursday night for a mass demonstration called "Project Baltimore."

Reginald Robinson, field secretary for the organization, sent a plea to non-violent action groups in several eastern states to participate in the proposed drive against the segregation policies of Maryland restaurants and hotels.

"Project Baltimore has as its goal the total elimination of racial injustice in the Free State of Maryland, beginning with a full and open accommodations policy for the entire state," Robinson said.

"Battle Just Beginning"

"The die has been cast, the battle is just beginning."

He urged all students and interested adults to support the Baltimore area demonstration, which will involve sit-in activities each week. The first demonstration is scheduled Saturday.

Robinson indicated the demonstrations planned by his group would be separate from those conducted by other student groups Nov. 11 and Nov. 18. Those demonstrations at restaurants in Baltimore and nearby Annapolis, the state capital, resulted in the arrests of 47 persons.

Pastor Led Past Sit-Ins

The Rev. Dr. Logan Kearse, pastor of a Negro Baptist church in Baltimore, led the sit-ins both days.

"Our friends have been arrested and jailed," Robinson said in his reference to previous demonstrations here.

Robinson said his organization had received requests for a mass demonstration from the Baltimore Civic Interest Group and the District of Columbia Non-Violent Action Group, both student organizations.

Russian Veto Blocks Kuwait Entry Into U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union split with the United Arab Republic Thursday and vetoed a U.A.R. resolution recommending admission of Kuwait as the United Nation's 104th member.

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin cast the only negative vote in the 11-nation Security Council against admission of the oil-rich desert sheikdom. All other members voted in favor. It was the Soviet Union's 98th veto.

A proposal by Zorin to postpone consideration of the application was defeated when only he voted for it. The other 10 members abstained.

Omar Loutfi, the U.A.R. delegate, said he could not accept Zorin's proposal. Loutfi expressed regret the Soviet Union had killed the resolution, which he said had the support of all Arab states.

The lone negative vote by Zorin constituted a big power veto, and the resolution was defeated.

Francis T. P. Plimpton of the United States expressed regret that the Soviet Union had gone against the wishes of all other council members. He said Kuwait's independence has been recognized by 62 nations.

Prison Isle 'Bombed'

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Prison officials said Thursday an unidentified plane showered Communist and Fidel Castro propaganda leaflets last Saturday on the prison island of Gorgona.

Some of the leaflets explained how to make bombs and organize revolts, the officials said.

Truck Hangs On Bridge Wall

Truck driver Willis K. Barker, 45, Kalamazoo, Mich., was hurled to his death early yesterday when he ran a barricade on the Willow Run Expressway at Detroit and his semi-truck and trailer soared 20 feet through the air and crashed down on a concrete wall. The bridge is under construction. While the truck remained balanced atop the wall, its load of metal auto parts shot forward, ripped off part of the cab and carried the driver through the air another 40 feet into a concrete pillar. (AP Photofax)

U.S. And British Chief Delegates Quit Atom Talks

GENEVA (AP)—The chief delegates of Britain and the United States decided Thursday to quit nuclear talks here and report to the U.N. General Assembly of the Soviet Union refusal to discuss a controlled test ban.

The Soviet refusal was a complete reversal of the policy professed by the Kremlin since early 1958, and led to a seemingly insoluble deadlock at the three-nation talks.

It prompted the chief U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean, and British Minister of State Joseph Godber to hand over the dead conference to their deputies. In deference to sweeping world opinion for a test ban, however, the West is not walking out of the conference.

"No matter how hopeless it may seem, we cannot refuse to stop talking," one Western official said.

But the deputies may meet only once or twice a week and may have nothing to discuss even then.

The Soviet refusal became apparent Tuesday, the first day the talks resumed here after a nine-week recess that was called when the Soviet Union abruptly broke a moratorium on nuclear testing.

Dean and Godber are leaving Geneva Friday. They are to resume the East-West disarmament negotiations at the United Nations with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin.

Officials said the British-American report to the General Assembly, which is due Dec. 14, will tell the full story of how the Soviet Union kept the two Western powers negotiating patiently for nearly three years—while secretly preparing its big series of tests of bombs and superbombs in the atmosphere.

Then when the tests were completed, the Soviet Union repudiated all previous steps toward agreement on a control system and demanded that the West stop all testing forever without any controls at all. Controls, said the Soviet delegate, Semyon K. Tsarapkin, are nothing but military espionage.

Archbishop Is Stricken

BALTIMORE (AP)—Archbishop Francis P. Keough of Baltimore was stricken with a heart attack at his office here late Thursday afternoon and was rushed to Georgetown University Hospital in Washington, D. C.

A spokesman at the archbishop's office said Archbishop Keough apparently suffered a recurrence of a coronary thrombosis he suffered in 1953. He was taken to the Georgetown hospital, the spokesman said, because his personal physician, Dr. George Shiner is connected with that institution.

There was no immediate report on the archbishop's condition.

Elevated to the episcopacy in 1934, Archbishop Keough was named Archbishop Assistant at the Pontifical Throne in 1959 by Pope John XXVIII. The appointment came on the 25th anniversary of his election to Archbishop.

Soviets Charge Troop Convoys "Provocations"

BERLIN (UPI)—The Soviet Union charged Thursday that U.S. troop movements along the superhighway to Berlin are "provocations . . . fraught with dangerous consequences." U.S. officials dismissed the charges and ordered another U.S. infantry company to roll through the Soviet Zone to Berlin Friday.

The Soviet warning was issued by the official Tass news agency in a Berlin dispatch as East German Communists erected new barriers and watchtowers on the East-West Berlin borders.

It was feared the Russian charge could signal the beginning of fresh Communist harassment on the West's vital access routes to Berlin.

Tass said the U. S. troop convoys are a "trick . . . to cover up U.S. determination to maintain uncontrolled communications between West Berlin and West Germany."

American officials promptly brushed aside the Russian allegations.

Churchill, Tears In Eyes, Marks His 87th Birthday

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill, blinking back tears of emotion, celebrated his 87th birthday Thursday with his family and in the affection of the Parliament he roused to fighting fervor during World War II.

The old warrior fortified himself with a luncheon of oysters, a big cigar and nips from a bottle of fine old brandy, presented by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, before going to Parliament for the welcoming cheers of his colleagues.

Churchill looked fit and perky—except when the tears blurred his eyes—throughout a busy day which included an almost hysterical reception in his old domain, the House of Commons.

Leaning on a stick, head bowed but smiling, Churchill walked through a crescendo of cheers from government supporters and Laborites alike to take his place on a front bench in the mother of parliaments.

Everyone forgot the rules—even the public gallery erupted in applause.

Deeply moved by the tributes from all sides of the House, the old man rose slowly to his feet and said simply: "I am very grateful to the House."

He had to choke the words out. Suddenly it seemed a long, long time ago since Churchill last spoke to the House as prime minister on the day he resigned—April 5, 1955.

Fifty minutes after entering the House, Churchill left to join a family dinner party at his London home—an intimate affair with his son and daughters.

A cascade of letters, telegrams, flowers and other gifts awaited him at home.

Sen. Proxmire Denies 32nd 'Lost Division'

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., took the Army to task Thursday for its handling of Wisconsin's 32nd Infantry Division, but said there's nothing wrong with the outfit "information won't cure."

"The men of this tough, proud division want to know precisely why they were called up, how long they must serve and why they were sent to Ft. Lewis instead of Camp McCoy in Wisconsin," he said.

"The Army hasn't provided the answers the way it should."

Proxmire said in three days of living and talking with the 14,000 Wisconsin National Guardsmen and Army Reservists at Ft. Lewis he found "more things right than wrong."

He said there are some serious equipment shortages, but these are being overcome. Barracks, although of World War II vintage, are comfortable and warm. Food is excellent, even though prepared under difficult conditions. And morale is high.

The Democratic senator's findings, reported at a news conference before flying back to Wisconsin, were in sharp contrast to those of Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski, R-Wis., who spent five days at Ft. Lewis during the Thanksgiving holidays.

O'Konski, who charged criminal Army negligence in treatment of the Wisconsin guardsmen, called the 32nd a "lost division," said the men were being intimidated and silenced, and accused the Army of starting a "whitewash."

Proxmire refused to comment directly on O'Konski's statements, but said he found no evidence to support such sweeping charges.

With Proxmire's departure, the VIP probe of conditions at Ft. Lewis was in the hands of Maj. Gen. Edward H. McDaniel, Army inspector general. He will report directly to Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr., who sent him to the post Tuesday.

White House Yule Party Set For Dec. 13

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Kennedy are planning an early Christmas party for several hundred White House staff members and their families. It will be on Dec. 13, and the guests will receive a special Christmas remembrance from the Kennedys, the First Lady's press secretary said in announcing the party.

The President is tentatively planning a visit to Venezuela and Colombia in December and, if he goes, Mrs. Kennedy will go along.

The Dec. 13 date for the traditional White House staff Christmas party indicates the Kennedys anticipate they may be leaving soon thereafter.

West Loses In U.N. Move To Curb A-Arms Spread

Plan Provides No Stockpiling By "Have Nots"

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Over Western objections, the U.N. Political Committee Thursday called for action to organize a "non-nuclear club" of nations pledged not to acquire, build or stockpile atomic or hydrogen bombs.

The United States and most of its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies voted against the move for fear it might affect NATO's nuclear defenses against Soviet attack.

The resolution spearheaded by Sweden with Soviet and neutralist backing, was passed 57-12, with 32 abstentions. This assures ratification by the General Assembly later.

U. S. Backs Irish Resolution

Instead of the neutralist proposal, the United States threw its support behind an Irish resolution that would have the nuclear powers draw up a treaty with inspection provisions to block the spread of nuclear secrets or weapons beyond Britain, France, the United States and the Soviet Union, current members of "the nuclear club."

The Communists also supported the Irish resolution, but Luka F. Palamarchuk of the Soviet Ukraine indicated Moscow is primarily interested in a treaty to keep nuclear weapons from the West German armed forces. He said it is "masking the argument" for the United States to insist that nuclear weapons stockpiled in West Germany actually are under U.S. control.

Foreign Minister Frank Aiken of Ireland said his proposal, which appears certain to be approved, is aimed at keeping "local wars and civil strife" from detonating nuclear war. He feels the Middle East presents a particular danger.

Survey By U Thant

While Aiken's idea starts with a treaty signed first by the nuclear powers and then by the small nations, the neutralist resolution works from the opposite direction.

It asks acting Secretary-general U Thant to poll all non-nuclear nations and see how many would be willing to "enter into specific undertakings" not to manufacture nuclear weapons, accept them for their own arsenals, or stockpile them "in the future" on behalf of other nations. U Thant was asked to report the results of his survey by next April 1.

U.S. Red Leadership Reduced To 'Troika'

NEW YORK (AP) — A Communist party spokesman said Thursday there has been a reduction in the number of the party's officers in the United States. The disclosure came hours before the midnight deadline for party leaders to register as agents of the Soviet Union.

A party spokesman said the number of officers had been reduced to three but declined to disclose how many officers there had been previously.

The party has announced its officers will refuse to register.

Although the party spokesman declined to name the three remaining officers of the group, Claude Lightfoot, a former party official, was quoted by the Chicago American as listing the officers as:

Gus Hall, general secretary; Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, chairman, and Benjamin Davis, national secretary, all of New York.

Manned Orbit Flight This Year Possible

Missile, Capsule Arrive At Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — U.S. space scientists went briskly back to work Thursday as if determined to hurl a man around the world by year's end despite only partial success of their chimp shoot.

No one connected with the Project Mercury space program would come right out and say so, however, but they wouldn't deny it flatly either.

Indeed, the spokesman for the program always held out the possibility that the next U.S. space passenger might be another chimpanzee like Enos.

Enos, a 37½-pound native of the French Cameroons, was rocketed twice around the world Wednesday but his planned third trip was canceled because of spacecraft troubles — and they were minor.

Everything else connected with the earth-girdling flight of the chimp worked perfectly—booster, tracking and communications.

In any event, a new, 360,000-pound thrust Atlas booster, earmarked for the man-in-space project, arrived here Wednesday night and began undergoing hangar checks. It will be erected on the launch pad Saturday.

A "man-rated" space craft has been undergoing extensive checks at this vast missile complex for the past several weeks.

This space craft already has been modified in anticipation of one of the problems encountered on Enos' jaunt.

Certain parts of the electrical system on Enos' space ship were designed to be air-cooled, but in the absence of air in space they overheated.

The latest of the two-ton space capsules has had coolants provided to overcome the heat problem.

Whether the manned flight comes this year or next, the pilot already has been selected by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Project Mercury Director Robert R. Gilruth announced Wednesday that the pilot would be Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., who, at 40, is the oldest of th astronauts.

The backup pilot for Glenn is Navy Lt. Cmdr. Scott Carpenter, 36.

As for Enos, the beaver-busy passenger on Wednesday's 17,500-mile-per-hour flight, he was resting in a hospital at St. George's Bermuda.

Enos and his space craft were plucked from the Atlantic Ocean by the destroyer Stormes and raced to Kindley Air Force Base for a physical examination.

Upon arrival at Bermuda, Enos appeared bright and calm though tired. He was permitted short walk in the hospital's corridors and then returned to his second-floor hospital room.

All Three Nike-Zeus Motors Test Fired

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP)—The first test firing of all three solid-fuel rocket motors of the Army's Nike-Zeus antimissile missile was successful here Thursday.

Ignition of the relatively small third-stage reaction motor was carried out as planned. The motor is used to maneuver the business end of the antimissile missile at very high altitudes by means of rocket exhaust blasts.

It was the first test of the third-stage motor which also serves the secondary function of propulsion.

The Zeus missile's main propulsion system—a solid-fuel booster and sustainer rocket motors—has been tested successfully many times in previous firings at the south-central New Mexico missile range.

Berlin Joke Of Week

BERLIN (UPI) — This week's joke among East Berliners, according to a letter from one published in a West Berlin newspaper Thursday:

Judge Intervenes, Prisoner Gets Teeth

NEW YORK (AP)—A prisoner stood in State Supreme Court Thursday, fixed the justice with a steady gaze and bared his teeth.

His punishment? None at all. He got a benign nod of approval from the justice, instead.

If this seems odd, wait till you hear the rest of it.

The prisoner was James Barrett, 30, serving six months for attempted petty larceny.

He first showed up in court two weeks ago on a writ of habeas corpus. It wasn't that he was trying to gain freedom. No, sir. He wanted a "show cause" order.

Show cause for what? asked Justice Samuel Hofstadter.

"I want them to show cause why they refuse me teeth," replied Barrett.

The astonished jurist asked for a bit better explanation.

Well, said Barrett, in prison they had pulled all his teeth and then refused to give him any substitutes. Prison officials said it wasn't a matter of refusal, just that many other prisoners were on the waiting list ahead of Barrett. Barrett had asked that his teeth be removed because they were diseased, officials said.

The justice figuratively hit the ceiling, anyway.

"You can't extract a man's teeth and leave them that way," declared Hofstadter. "Are they all out?"

"Yes," answered Barrett.

"You can't take all of his teeth out, 36 teeth out, and leave him high and dry," snorted the judge. "Oh, no. They have to give him dentures."

Hofstadter ordered that it be done—and pronto.

And so, that was why Barrett bared his teeth at the judge, flashing his plates in a big shiny white smile, back in court again Thursday.

"Do they work all right?" asked Hofstadter.

"Yes, judge," said Barrett.

"Are you satisfied with them?"

"Yes, judge."

"Yours was a very just position. No substitute for teeth is in a sense cruel and inhuman treatment."

Case closed, added the justice.

Balaguer's Foes Reject Junta Plan

President Supports Military's Proposal; Rioting Continues

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—President Joaquin Balaguer Thursday night threw his support behind a proposal by the armed forces for a solution to the national crisis. It would grant virtual autonomy to the military.

Opposition parties immediately rejected the proposal.

Balaguer's move was the latest effort to thwart opposition demands that he step down to make way for a provisional government without him. Antigovernment political parties had said this was their final offer.

The armed forces entered the boiling picture with their proposal in the midst of the most violent demonstrations against Balaguer in a week of antigovernment disorders. Troops and police clashed with Dominicans in the third day of a general strike designed to force Balaguer and other remnants of the Trujillo era out of office.

Mob Tries To Storm Palace

While the nation awaited word from Balaguer on whether he would bow to demands that he clear out, a screaming mob shouting anti-Balaguer slogans surged up to the gates of the national palace. Troops hurling gas grenades and noise bombs hurled back the rioters. One youth was killed by a machine gun shot in the day's violence.

Hours after Balaguer received what the opposition called its final proposal, the nation's military chiefs called on him at the palace and put forth their plan.

Among the conditions set by the military chiefs, who hold the balance of power in this crisis-ridden Caribbean country, was a provision that Balaguer would preside over a seven-man junta. Another was that only the president could give orders to the military—and only through the secretary of state for armed forces.

The military also demanded that in case of the president's death, he would be succeeded by the present armed forces secretary, Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria. He is the air force general who launched the recent military action that quashed an attempt to restore Trujillo rule and broke the back of the Trujillo dynasty.

Would Dissolve Congress

The proposal also recommended dissolving of Congress—currently made up only of members of the old official Dominican party that hung on after the assassination of Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo last May 30—and vesting all legislative powers in the junta.

General elections would, be called in two years, the military leaders said, and added: "The government could not be Communist."

Even before Balaguer made his declaration of the military's stand the feeling grew that he would not accept the conditions laid down by the opposition.

The three opposition parties—the National Civic Union, the 14th of June Movement and the Revolutionary party—envisaged a provisional governing council to be made up of five or seven members. The council would elect a chairman by simple majority and Balaguer would be excluded.

Police Strengthened After Race Violence

MCCOMB, Miss. (AP)—Mayor C. H. Douglas ordered the city's police force strengthened Thursday and said the "Camellia City of America" is determined to halt violent racial disputes.

The mayor's announcement came at a news conference scarcely 24 hours after a group of white youths attacked five Negro "Freedom Riders" at the Greyhound bus terminal.

Douglas said four white men had been arrested in connection with the beating of the three Negro men and two Negro women. The four were released on $100 bond after being charged with fighting and disturbing the peace.

The five riders arrived in New Orleans Thursday. One of them, Jerome Smith of New Orleans, said he was hit by a white man wearing brass knuckles.

"The law regarding our bus and railroad terminals is a federal law," Douglas said. "We did not make it at the local level, but it is our purpose to enforce it. We are determined to this end."

Leaning on a stick, head bowed but smiling, Churchill walked through a crescendo of cheers from government supporters and Laborites alike to take his place on a front bench in the mother of parliaments.

Everyone forgot the rules—even the public gallery erupted in applause.

Deeply moved by the tributes from all sides of the House, the old man rose slowly to his feet and said simply: "I am very grateful to the House."

He had to choke the words out. Suddenly it seemed a long, long time ago since Churchill last spoke to the House as prime minister on the day he resigned—April 5, 1955.

Fifty minutes after entering the House, Churchill left to join a family dinner party at his London home—an intimate affair with his son and daughters.

A cascade of letters, telegrams, flowers and other gifts awaited him at home.

Plan Provides No Stockpiling By "Have Nots"

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Over Western objections, the U.N. Political Committee Thursday called for action to organize a "non-nuclear club" of nations pledged not to acquire, build or stockpile atomic or hydrogen bombs.

The United States and most of its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies voted against the move for fear it might affect NATO's nuclear defenses against Soviet attack.

The resolution spearheaded by Sweden with Soviet and neutralist backing, was passed 57-12, with 32 abstentions. This assures ratification by the General Assembly later.

U. S. Backs Irish Resolution

Instead of the neutralist proposal, the United States threw its support behind an Irish resolution that would have the nuclear powers draw up a treaty with inspection provisions to block the spread of nuclear secrets or weapons beyond Britain, France, the United States and the Soviet Union, current members of "the nuclear club."

The Communists also supported the Irish resolution, but Luka F. Palamarchuk of the Soviet Ukraine indicated Moscow is primarily interested in a treaty to keep nuclear weapons from the West German armed forces. He said it is "masking the argument" for the United States to insist that nuclear weapons stockpiled in West Germany actually are under U.S. control.

Foreign Minister Frank Aiken of Ireland said his proposal, which appears certain to be approved, is aimed at keeping "local wars and civil strife" from detonating nuclear war. He feels the Middle East presents a particular danger.

Survey By U Thant

While Aiken's idea starts with a treaty signed first by the nuclear powers and then by the small nations, the neutralist resolution works from the opposite direction.

It asks acting Secretary-general U Thant to poll all non-nuclear nations and see how many would be willing to "enter into specific undertakings" not to manufacture nuclear weapons, accept them for their own arsenals, or stockpile them "in the future" on behalf of other nations. U Thant was asked to report the results of his survey by next April 1.

U.S. Red Leadership Reduced To 'Troika'

NEW YORK (AP) — A Communist party spokesman said Thursday there has been a reduction in the number of the party's officers in the United States. The disclosure came hours before the midnight deadline for party leaders to register as agents of the Soviet Union.

A party spokesman said the number of officers had been reduced to three but declined to disclose how many officers there had been previously.

The party has announced its officers will refuse to register.

Although the party spokesman declined to name the three remaining officers of the group, Claude Lightfoot, a former party official, was quoted by the Chicago American as listing the officers as:

Gus Hall, general secretary; Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, chairman, and Benjamin Davis, national secretary, all of New York.

Manned Orbit Flight This Year Possible

Missile, Capsule Arrive At Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — U.S. space scientists went briskly back to work Thursday as if determined to hurl a man around the world by year's end despite only partial success of their chimp shoot.

No one connected with the Project Mercury space program would come right out and say so, however, but they wouldn't deny it flatly either.

Indeed, the spokesman for the program always held out the possibility that the next U.S. space passenger might be another chimpanzee like Enos.

Enos, a 37½-pound native of the French Cameroons, was rocketed twice around the world Wednesday but his planned third trip was canceled because of spacecraft troubles — and they were minor.

Everything else connected with the earth-girdling flight of the chimp worked perfectly—booster, tracking and communications.

In any event, a new, 360,000-pound thrust Atlas booster, earmarked for the man-in-space project, arrived here Wednesday night and began undergoing hangar checks. It will be erected on the launch pad Saturday.

A "man-rated" space craft has been undergoing extensive checks at this vast missile complex for the past several weeks.

This space craft already has been modified in anticipation of one of the problems encountered on Enos' jaunt.

Certain parts of the electrical system on Enos' space ship were designed to be air-cooled, but in the absence of air in space they overheated.

The latest of the two-ton space capsules has had coolants provided to overcome the heat problem.

Whether the manned flight comes this year or next, the pilot already has been selected by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Project Mercury Director Robert R. Gilruth announced Wednesday that the pilot would be Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., who, at 40, is the oldest of th astronauts.

The backup pilot for Glenn is Navy Lt. Cmdr. Scott Carpenter, 36.

As for Enos, the beaver-busy passenger on Wednesday's 17,500-mile-per-hour flight, he was resting in a hospital at St. George's Bermuda.

Enos and his space craft were plucked from the Atlantic Ocean by the destroyer Stormes and raced to Kindley Air Force Base for a physical examination.

Upon arrival at Bermuda, Enos appeared bright and calm though tired. He was permitted short walk in the hospital's corridors and then returned to his second-floor hospital room.

All Three Nike-Zeus Motors Test Fired

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP)—The first test firing of all three solid-fuel rocket motors of the Army's Nike-Zeus antimissile missile was successful here Thursday.

Ignition of the relatively small third-stage reaction motor was carried out as planned. The motor is used to maneuver the business end of the antimissile missile at very high altitudes by means of rocket exhaust blasts.

It was the first test of the third-stage motor which also serves the secondary function of propulsion.

The Zeus missile's main propulsion system—a solid-fuel booster and sustainer rocket motors—has been tested successfully many times in previous firings at the south-central New Mexico missile range.

Judge Intervenes, Prisoner Gets Teeth

NEW YORK (AP)—A prisoner stood in State Supreme Court Thursday, fixed the justice with a steady gaze and bared his teeth.

His punishment? None at all. He got a benign nod of approval from the justice, instead.

If this seems odd, wait till you hear the rest of it.

The prisoner was James Barrett, 30, serving six months for attempted petty larceny.

He first showed up in court two weeks ago on a writ of habeas corpus. It wasn't that he was trying to gain freedom. No, sir. He wanted a "show cause" order.

Show cause for what? asked Justice Samuel Hofstadter.

"I want them to show cause why they refuse me teeth," replied Barrett.

The astonished jurist asked for a bit better explanation.

Well, said Barrett, in prison they had pulled all his teeth and then refused to give him any substitutes. Prison officials said it wasn't a matter of refusal, just that many other prisoners were on the waiting list ahead of Barrett. Barrett had asked that his teeth be removed because they were diseased, officials said.

The justice figuratively hit the ceiling, anyway.

"You can't extract a man's teeth and leave them that way," declared Hofstadter. "Are they all out?"

"Yes," answered Barrett.

"You can't take all of his teeth out, 36 teeth out, and leave him high and dry," snorted the judge. "Oh, no. They have to give him dentures."

Hofstadter ordered that it be done—and pronto.

And so, that was why Barrett bared his teeth at the judge, flashing his plates in a big shiny white smile, back in court again Thursday.

"Do they work all right?" asked Hofstadter.

"Yes, judge," said Barrett.

"Are you satisfied with them?"

"Yes, judge."

"Yours was a very just position. No substitute for teeth is in a sense cruel and inhuman treatment."

Case closed, added the justice.

President Supports Military's Proposal; Rioting Continues

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—President Joaquin Balaguer Thursday night threw his support behind a proposal by the armed forces for a solution to the national crisis. It would grant virtual autonomy to the military.

Opposition parties immediately rejected the proposal.

Balaguer's move was the latest effort to thwart opposition demands that he step down to make way for a provisional government without him. Antigovernment political parties had said this was their final offer.

The armed forces entered the boiling picture with their proposal in the midst of the most violent demonstrations against Balaguer in a week of antigovernment disorders. Troops and police clashed with Dominicans in the third day of a general strike designed to force Balaguer and other remnants of the Trujillo era out of office.

Mob Tries To Storm Palace

While the nation awaited word from Balaguer on whether he would bow to demands that he clear out, a screaming mob shouting anti-Balaguer slogans surged up to the gates of the national palace. Troops hurling gas grenades and noise bombs hurled back the rioters. One youth was killed by a machine gun shot in the day's violence.

Hours after Balaguer received what the opposition called its final proposal, the nation's military chiefs called on him at the palace and put forth their plan.

Among the conditions set by the military chiefs, who hold the balance of power in this crisis-ridden Caribbean country, was a provision that Balaguer would preside over a seven-man junta. Another was that only the president could give orders to the military—and only through the secretary of state for armed forces.

The military also demanded that in case of the president's death, he would be succeeded by the present armed forces secretary, Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria. He is the air force general who launched the recent military action that quashed an attempt to restore Trujillo rule and broke the back of the Trujillo dynasty.

Would Dissolve Congress

The proposal also recommended dissolving of Congress—currently made up only of members of the old official Dominican party that hung on after the assassination of Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo last May 30—and vesting all legislative powers in the junta.

General elections would be called in two years, the military leaders said, and added: "The government could not be Communist."

Even before Balaguer made his declaration of the military's stand the feeling grew that he would not accept the conditions laid down by the opposition.

The three opposition parties—the National Civic Union, the 14th of June Movement and the Revolutionary party—envisaged a provisional governing council to be made up of five or seven members. The council would elect a chairman by simple majority and Balaguer would be excluded.

Police Strengthened After Race Violence

MCCOMB, Miss. (AP)—Mayor C. H. Douglas ordered the city's police force strengthened Thursday and said the "Camellia City of America" is determined to halt violent racial disputes.

The mayor's announcement came at a news conference scarcely 24 hours after a group of white youths attacked five Negro "Freedom Riders" at the Greyhound bus terminal.

Douglas said four white men had been arrested in connection with the beating of the three Negro men and two Negro women. The four were released on $100 bond after being charged with fighting and disturbing the peace.

The five riders arrived in New Orleans Thursday. One of them, Jerome Smith of New Orleans, said he was hit by a white man wearing brass knuckles.

"The law regarding our bus and railroad terminals is a federal law," Douglas said. "We did not make it at the local level, but it is our purpose to enforce it. We are determined to this end."

Syria Closes Lebanon Border On Election Eve

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Syria closed its borders with Lebanon Thursday to keep out troublemakers after two bomb explosions marred an otherwise peaceful campaign for Friday's parliamentary election.

The election is the first since an army coup two months ago pulled this country out of its Union with Egypt in Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic.

Mamoun Kuzbari, who resigned as provisional president to run for Parliament, said the bomb explosions "were the work of the men of Nasser. We were expecting worse."

Other political leaders said it was obvious the bombs were meant as a harsh warning for the people to stay away from the polls. Pro-Nasser forces probably would claim Syrians do not really want an independent republic if the voting should be light, even though traditionally only 30 to 40 per cent of Syrians normally bother to vote.

One of the bombs exploded Wednesday night outside the house of Sabri Assali, premier before the merger with Egypt. Two people in a nearby house were injured.

Assali had a narrow escape, having just left the living room when it was sprayed by splintered glass. Assali is running with Kuzbari for Parliament.

The other bomb exploded outside the Damascus Officers' Club.

Despite the large number of candidates—1,750 for the 172 seats—there was little real debate on basic issues, such as how far the country should go in nationalizing industry in the Nasser pattern.

Candidates ran on an individual basis, as parties are still banned under a law passed during Nasser's rule.

Eisenhower "Mess" Draws Truman Fire

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Former President Harry Truman said on Thursday the administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower made "the worst mess since the days of U.S. Grant and Harding."

The former Democratic President, in an obvious jibe at Eisenhower, said President Kennedy "has done more in one year than the other man did in eight."

Truman lambasted the Eisenhower administration in a news conference and a speech prepared for delivery at a Democratic fund raising dinner.

New Christmas Mail Delivery Plan Adopted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The postman may not call more than once a day during the pre-Christmas rush but the Post Office Department says delivery will be as quick as ever—maybe quicker.

A department spokesman said Thursday a new scheme of setting up mail deliveries and breaking up delivery routes will be tried on a nationwide basis for the first time this holiday season.

He told of it in comment on a story published by the Meriden (Conn.) Journal which learned of it from the New England regional director of the Post Office Department.

"We'll save substantial amounts of money without curtailing service," the spokesman said.

He said the system would make possible delivery of the usual mountains of Christmas mail by fewer carriers.

The key to the plan, he said, is the sue of the regular carrier on a route to break up the route, help assign temporary extra carriers to the route fragments, "case" or sort the mail, and dispatch the temporary carriers with the entire day's accumulation of mail addressed to their route fragments.

The spokesman said the plan saved about 12 per cent of delivery costs when tried on an experimental basis in some areas last year, and is being adopted nationwide in keeping with President Kennedy's call for economies in government.

Church Policy Group Elected

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The World Council of Churches elected a new Central Committee Thursday which reflected the council's growth in Asia, Africa and Latin America and gave a big boost to the representation of Eastern Orthodoxy.

Seventeen Eastern Orthodox churchmen were named to the committee, an interim policy-making body, compared with 12 before.

The 100-member Central Committee governs operations of the world church body between world assemblies which are held every six or seven years.

Among the 17 Orthodox churchment were five from the Russian Orthodox Church, which was admitted to the council at this assembly.

Lutherans received the next largest number of seats, 16. Presbyterian and Reformed groups received 15, Anglicans 12, Methodists 11, United Churches 10, Baptists, 5, Congregationalists 4 and other groups 1 or 2.

Little Boy Dies Knowing There Is A Santa Claus

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Jimmy Barrett died at the age of 10 Thursday and one thing he knew for sure: There is a Santa Claus.

For Santa Claus had come to Jimmy.

Since there is no fireplace in the Barrett fourth-floor apartment where Jimmy lived with two sisters and a brother and his mother, Santa had entered miraculously and convincingly—right through a window four stories from the ground.

Maybe September was a little early for Christmas. But Santa Claus understood. He had a private communication from Jimmy's mother who was able, also, to explain matters somehow to Jimmy, his sisters and brother.

For Phyllis Barrett had learned from doctors that Jimmy had an incurable brain disease—and that Christmas must come early.

Word of Mrs. Barrett's decision had spread through the neighborhood—and into the newspapers.

And because Santa Claus lives in the hearts of good people everywhere, Christmas greetings came from people all over New England, and New York, and even from some in England.

Collection boxes appeared in the neighborhood—in stores and taverns—for the pennies, dimes and nickels of those who wanted to help Santa come to a dying boy. Gifts arrived from friends, neighbors, policemen, firemen and others Jimmy never knew.

So, when, Santa Claus arrived through the fourth-story window—stepping from a fire department aerial ladder—it was, in a way, Jimmy's biggest Christmas. And he was still well enough to enjoy it.

The doctors were right: Jimmy died Thursday with Christmas 26 days away.

Edgar Allan Poe Sr. Dies At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Edgar Allan Poe Sr., great-nephew and namesake of the 19th century writer of poetry and prose died Wednesday night at his home in Chestnut Hill, a suburb of Philadelphia. He was 90.

An attorney who practiced in Baltimore, Poe moved here after his retirement several years ago.

He served terms as state's attorney and city solicitor of Baltimore City, and attorney general of Maryland before his career in public office ended in 1916.

Poe, a native of Baltimore, was the son of John Prentiss Poe, who also served a term as attorney general of Maryland.

Monkeyshines Taboo As Enos Meets Press

KINDLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Bermuda (AP) — Chimponaut Enos, back on dry land after his double orbit of the earth, met the press Thursday with a humility and dignity worthy of his achievement.

In his first public audience since roaring into space Wednesday at the head of an Atlas rocket, the 5½-year-old chimpanzee plainly acted like a fellow who's been around.

Propped up on an examination table in his private, second floor room at the Kindley Field hospital, Enos showed himself to be a cut above the circus performing chimp by refusing to mug for the camera, do cartwheels or otherwise debase his position as the first two-legged American to orbit the earth. But his bashful grin, rimmed in freckles, was in the best tradition of the Wright brothers landing at Kitty Hawk or a Lindbergh at Le Bourget.

"He's really quite a cool guy and not the performing type at all," said Capt. Jerry Finneg, the Air Force veterinarian who was part of a medical team that put the chimp through a complete medical check up.

Full results won't be known until after he returns to Cape Canaveral Friday.

Interracial Commission Head Deplores 'Ride' Plan

By The Associated Press

The chairman of the Maryland Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations expressed disappointment Thursday at the decision of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) to stage a "freedom ride" along U.S. 40 next month.

"This comes as quite a blow to us, since we had hoped to work this thing out without any demonstration whatsoever," said the chairman, William C. Rogers Sr.

Rogers had said he would release a formal statement later in the day after he talked with other commission members.

But he said Thursday evening the statement would not be forthcoming. "We're holding it up in the hope that the restaurants along the route will integrate," Rogers said.

CORE originally scheduled a "freedom ride" along U.S. 40 in Maryland and Delaware for Veterans Day, but it was called off in exchange for partial desegregation.

The action was taken after 35 restaurants on the Maryland section of the highway and 12 in Delaware announced they would change their segregation policies by Nov. 22.

The local CORE officials wired the Maryland commission saying nine of the 35 eating places had not lived up to their promises.

"On Nov. 28 and 29, final tests were made by members of CORE only to find service refused to to them by nine establishments, after your commission had released information that the nine had been included in the list of 35 establishments representing a significant proportion of Rt. 40 restaurants," the wire read.

The telegram, signed by Solomon Baylor and Walter Garter, co-chairman of the Baltimore chapter of CORE, said the refusal of the nine restaurants to keep their promises prompted the decision to hold a "freedom ride" Dec. 16.

Fugitive Stops To Rescue Four, Is Recaptured

CURACAO, Netherlands Antilles (AP)—John Cathalina, 25, on trial for burglary, skipped out of the courtroom Wednesday and outraced pursuing guards.

As he fled past the harbor zone, he heard a woman and children screaming from the water. Cathalina jumped in and rescued three children, ages 4, 8 and 9, and their mother, who had fallen in accidentally.

Police caught up with Cathalina there and put him back in jail.

Interracial Commission Head Deplores 'Ride' Plan

By The Associated Press

The chairman of the Maryland Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations expressed disappointment Thursday at the decision of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) to stage a "freedom ride" along U.S. 40 next month.

"This comes as quite a blow to us, since we had hoped to work this thing out without any demonstration whatsoever," said the chairman, William C. Rogers Sr.

The action was taken after 35 restaurants on the Maryland section of the highway and 12 in Delaware announced they would change their segregation policies by Nov. 22.

The local CORE officials wired the Maryland commission saying nine of the 35 eating places had not lived up to their promises.

"On Nov. 28 and 29, final tests were made by members of CORE only to find service refused to to them by nine establishments, after your commission had released information that the nine had been included in the list of 35 establishments representing a significant proportion of Rt. 40 restaurants," the wire read.

The telegram, signed by Solomon Baylor and Walter Garter, co-chairman of the Baltimore chapter of CORE, said the refusal of the nine restaurants to keep their promises prompted the decision to hold a "freedom ride" Dec. 16.

Fugitive Stops To Rescue Four, Is Recaptured

CURACAO, Netherlands Antilles (AP)—John Cathalina, 25, on trial for burglary, skipped out of the courtroom Wednesday and outraced pursuing guards.

As he fled past the harbor zone, he heard a woman and children screaming from the water. Cathalina jumped in and rescued three children, ages 4, 8 and 9, and their mother, who had fallen in accidentally.

Police caught up with Cathalina there and put him back in jail.

Various games will be played and prizes awarded.

Reservations are to be made by December 5, with Mrs. Shirley Brinkman or Mrs. Wilhelmina Shockey.

Mrs. Shockey is general chairman for the party with Miss Patricia Twigg, cochairman. Miss Barbara Hoan is in charge of decorations.

Newcomers Cancel Meeting

The Newcomers Club has cancelled its monthly meeting for December. Instead it will hold the annual Christmas dinner-dance, on December 8.

It will be held at the Ali Ghan Country Club with dinner at 7 and dancing from 9 until 1, with music by The Cavaliers. There will be entertainment and prizes.

Reservations are to be made or cancelled by December 4. Tickets may be obtained from card captains or Mrs. Shirley Loomis, PA 4-2610.

The canasta and 500 groups will meet December 6 and 20, while the bridge group, December 7 and 21.

YOUTH TAKES THE LEAD—Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Schwab, Cumberland, left, were among the 140 young Jewish community leaders from the United States to visit Israel to study its resettlement. Above they are shown being presented to Itzhak Ben-Zvi, president of Israel, by Rabbi Herbert Friedman, executive vice chairman of the United Jewish Appeal. Mr. Schwab will be toastmaster for the kickoff dinner of this year's campaign, December 3, at the Shrine Club. Israel Amitai, Israeli army captain, author and journalist will be the speaker. Dr. Benjamin Feldman, Harvey Dezen and Sanford Edelman are in charge of the drive.

Junior Civic Safety Belt Campaign Starts Dec. 11

Announcement of the safety belt campaign and reports were made at the monthly meeting of the Junior Woman's Civic Club executive board, Wednesday evening at the club house. Mrs. Raymond Lapp, Jr., presided.

Reports were given by Mrs. Richard Dailey, Mrs. Ronald Chapman, Mrs. Wesley McGraw, Mrs. Bernie O. Coberly, Jr., Mrs. Glen Brant, Mrs. Stanley Goodrich and Mrs. Joseph Pellerzi.

Mrs. Pellerzi, civic chairman, announced the safety belt campaign will begin December 11 and continue through January 10, ending with a safety belt film and speaker for the January meeting. Posters will be distributed to auto dealers throughout the town. Also four large billboards will stress the campaign. Two seat belts are to be awarded at the January meeting, which also will be "Senior Guest" night.

Mrs. Lapp announced that the December 6 meeting has been postponed until December 13. At that time Mrs. Jeanette Miller will discuss "Mosaics." Each member is requested to bring a guest.

Annual AAUW Art Show, Membership Discussed

Chairmen reports were made at a meeting of the executive board of the Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women, and recognition given to the fact that Mrs. Aden Everstine has certified as a member of the Academy of National Association of Social Workers. She qualified by her graduate work which just has been completed at Washington School of Psychiatry and Smith College School of Social Work.

Mrs. Howard L. Tolson conducted the meeting at her home, Braddock Road, Wednesday morning. She appointed Miss Nan Livingstone chairman of a committee to study the by-laws. She will be assisted by Mrs. Everstine and Miss Lillian Boughton.

Plans for an art show, which will be sponsored by the AAUW, were outlined by Mrs. Richard Winer. Beginning March 1, it is to be held throughout the month, at the Allegany County Public Library. Entries must be framed and at the library a week ahead.

A discussion on the possibility of new members, now that Frostburg State Teachers College has been approved by AAUW, was led by Mrs. James Lutton. Any potential members are asked to call her or Mrs. John Thomas.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Everstine of a rummage sale to be held December 1 from 6 to 9 p. m., and December 2 from 9 a. m., until 1 p. m., at 79 North Centre Street. Mrs. William A. VanOrmer reported the fellowship committee is selling hand silk screened cards for the benefit of the fellowship fund.

It was announced that the Christmas meeting will be held December 13, at the home of Mrs. A. J. Mirkin, Schley Street, beginning at 8 p. m. The program will be a discussion of Christmas arrangements by Mrs. E. E. Loar. The next board meeting is to be held at the library, February 10, at 10:30 a. m.

Garden Club Exhibit To Be Dec. 4, 5

December 4 and 5 will be the Christmas exhibit, presented by the Garden Club of Cumberland. It is to be held at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Baltimore Street. Entitled, "Deck the Halls" the show will be open 9 a.m., to 3 p.m., both days, plus 6 to 8 p.m. Monday.

There will be arrangements for the dinner tables, coffee tables and side tables; in addition to wall and door decorations and wooden plaque decorations. Entries by the Junior Club members will be Christmas packages and Christmas tray favors.

During the hours of exhibition the public will vote for prize winning arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Duff, Shortest Day Road, LaVale, have returned from a vacation in Florida.

Rev. Chaney Is Guest Speaker

Rev. Connell T. Chaney, pastor of the Living Stone Church of the Brethren, gave a short talk at the fellowship meeting of the Community Church of the Brethren held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Hasselrode, Woodlawn Avenue, LaVale, Monday evening. His topic was "The People Had a Mind to Work."

There also was group singing and Scripture reading.

The next meeting will be December 11 at 7:30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Broadwater, 709 National Highway, LaVale.

Visit VA Center

The Ladies Auxiliary to Barracks 1125, Veterans of World War I, held its annual Christmas party at Baker VA Center, Sunday. Thirty six patients were visited and each received desk calanders, all kinds of fruit, cigarettes, writing paper and pocket size books. A poem was read by Mrs. Chloe Reynolds and Mrs. Myrtle Brode spoke of the auxiliary's hospital work.

Ward 206 B and patients from Cumberland are visited by the group. The next trip will be the last of January.

Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Pearl Darling are co-chairmen. They were assisted by Mrs. Brode, auxiliary president; and Mrs. Margaret Baker.

The Rubber Workers Auxiliary will meet with the entertainment committee of the union, tonight at 7 at the union hall, to complete plans for the Christmas party.

Officers of McKinley Chapter, OES, will be elected at the meeting tonight at 8 at the temple.

Medal Of Honor Winner Sentenced To Two Years

BALTIMORE (AP) — Junior James Spurrier, whose World War II exploits earned him the nickname "one-man army," was sentenced Thursday to two years in the Maryland House of Correction.

Winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross, Spurrier was convicted on a deadly weapon charge several weeks ago by a Baltimore Criminal Court Jury.

He was acquitted on more serious charges of robbery and assault with intent to kill. The charges stemmed from a shooting last Sept. 5 after Spurrier and a friend had quarreled while drinking.

Witnesses told the court the argument was over a proposed trip to Virginia for a supply of moonshine whisky.

Spurrier, 35, who grew up at Bluefield, W.Va., after his family moved from Castlewood, Va., has had frequent brushes with the law since his honorable discharge from the Army in 1951.

A former staff sergeant with the 36th Army Division, Spurrier was awarded the Medal of Honor in 1945 for single-handedly liberating the French town of Achain. He was credited with killing 25 Germans and capturing 16.

Judge Joseph Carter heard the latest case against Spurrier. Before sentencing Thursday, he told the defendant the time had come when his behavior must conform to normal conduct if he expects to keep out of serious trouble.

The judge noted that psychiatric examinations showed Spurrier suffers from feelings of inadequacy which help make him troublesome while drinking.

Dr. Manfred S. Guttmacher, psychiatrist for the Baltimore Supreme Bench, pointed out that Spurrier's inadequacy troubles were increased by his hero's role, and the fact that he was called upon frequently to make speeches and public appearances after the war, Judge Carter said.

NEW YORK (AP) Many investors are wondering whether stock prices have gone too high.

Whether the rise has excessively outdistanced earning power and yield.

Questions on this subject top the list of inquiries received by Kenneth Ward, analyst for the brokerage house, Hayden, Stone & Co.

His reply is that the market seems high in terms of certain individual stocks and the Dow Jones industrial, rail and utilities averages but that's only half the answer.

He points out that lots of stocks, such as the oils, for example are selling at only 9 or 10 times earnings. In fact, he says, there are so many divergent trends existing simultaneously that an investor shouldn't try to visualize or forecast the whole market's action in terms of any set of averages or various groups of stocks.

Ward is of the opinion that the market at this time is entitled to a minor correction or at least a period of consolidation after moving ahead 45 points in a straight line on the industrial average. He considers any setback to around 720 on this average as quite normal and would not damage the technical pattern in any way.

Another frequently asked question:

Is the bull market approaching a final peak?

Ward gives a flat "no."

In terms of "the confusing averages," he says he expects a further advance to 760-770 by the industrial average, which now is near 720.

"Since individual stocks and groups never seem to reach their highs and lows at the same time," he adds, "you have to consider each issue separately in the light of its prevailing technical and fundamental background.

"No immediate tops are in evidence as yet and a strong overall uptrend remains in force for selected issues."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will miss the parade or Annapolis midshipmen and West Point cadets at the Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia Saturday.

The White House, announcing Kennedy's schedule for the football classic, said Thursday he would arrive at Philadelphia's municipal stadium at 1:15 p.m. That is 15 minutes before the game and after the grand entry of midshipmen and cadets.

The president, a Navy veteran of World War II, will sit in the box a few rows up from the field on the Army side during the first half and cross over to the Navy's side for the second half.

Deaths Due To Faulty Heating Systems High

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Substandard heating systems caused fires in which 19 persons have died this year in Anne Arundel County.

Harry W. Klasmeier, chief of the Fire Prevention Bureau, cited the figure before the Board of County Commissioners. Four other persons have died in fires not attributed to heating systems, he said.

Klasmeier urged regulatory action to reduce "the high percentage of building fires caused by substandard chimneys and flues, and substandard and faulty heating systems."

Leftwingers Seized

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—At least four persons have been killed, a dozen wounded and more than 100 arrested in a police roundup of Communists and other leftwingers, it was reported Thursday.

The roundup was ordered as a sequel to Monday's hijacking of a Venezuelan airliner by five young Communists. Police said the hijacking was part of a campaign to overthrow the government because of its break in relations with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

WHO Director One Of Three Prize Winners

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Marcolino G. Candau, director-general of the World Health Organization (WHO), was named Thursday to receive one of three Bronfman Prizes for Public Health Achievement from the Johns Hopkins University.

Others receiving the prizes for "outstanding ... creative work leading directly to improved health for large numbers of people" were Dr. James E. Perkins, 56, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, New York, and Dr. James Watt, 50, director of the Division of International health of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Dr. Candau, 50, a native of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, joined the United Nations health unit in 1950. His offices are at Geneva. Dr. Watt was director of the National Heart Institute at Bethesda, Md., before he moved to the Public Health Service.

All three recipients are graduates of the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — A South Carolina man injured in a highway accident Monday died in a Baltimore hospital Wednesday. His death brought Maryland's 1961 traffic toll to 398, compared with 471 for a corresponding period ast year.

Robert Bradley, 39, of Myrtle Beach, S.C. was struck by a car in Baltimore County Monday. He died at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

SALISBURY (AP) — The electricity rates for residential customers of the Eastern Shore Public Service Co. will drop an average of 18 per cent after Jan. 1.

Benefitting from the reduction will be the company's customers on Maryland's Eastern Shore and those in Kent and Sussex counties in Delaware.

George M. Nelson, president of the utility, said reductions would be made in the rates now charged commercial and industrial consumers, but no percentage was given for them.

Nelson said the rate changes, which must be approved by the Public Service Commission in each state, would mean an annual savings of more than $1 million in Maryland and some $658,000 in Delaware.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Patrolman Harold J. Ainsley of the Baltimore County police was awarded Wednesday $5,000 for damages blamed on a vagrant bee.

Ainsley won the damage verdict for neck and spinal injuries he received when his car was struck in the rear by another motorist more than three years ago.

Henry Fischer, driver of the car which struck Ainsley's, testified a bee inside his car caused the accident. A jury under Judge Joseph R. Byrnes entered the verdict after a 2½-day trial.

SALISBURY (AP) — Officials of Wicomico and Somerset Counties have decided to seek releases from watermen of oyster beds which might be affected by dredging of the Wicomico River channel.

Commissioners from the two counties were told by an Army Corps of Engineers spokesmen that oyster beds as far as one-third of a mile from the dredging could be damaged.

Fitzhugh L. Insley, Salisbury Harbormaster, will contact the owners of 36 beds in the area where the channel will be deepened.

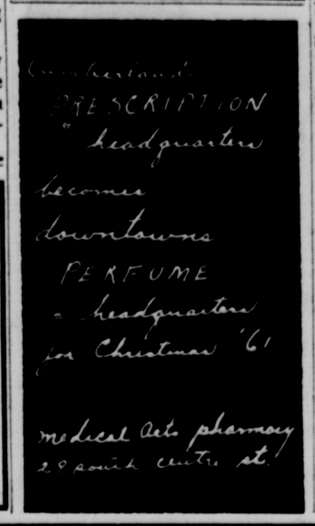
Ohio Trucker Killed In Turnpike Crash

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Theodore Pydynkowski, 36, of Elyria, Ohio, was killed early Thursday when his tractor-trailer crashed into the rear of another rig on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

State Police said Pydynkowski apparently fell asleep at the wheel and his vehicle crashed into the other rig operated by Hubert Stevens of Hanover, Pa. Stevens escaped injury. Both rigs were traveling east.

Battle Creek in western Michigan is the home of the nation's breakfast food industry.



Deported To China

HONG KONG (UPI)—Former Hong Kong Police Superintendent John Tsang and four other men were deported to Communist China Thursday in connection with the breakup of a massive espionage ring.

Tsang was arrested last month when British security forces discovered the spy network feeding secret information to the Communists.

Must Contain Peanuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government ruled Thursday that peanut butter users must not be short changed on peanuts. The spread, it said, must contain 90 per cent roasted peanuts.

The ratio was contained in new purity standards issued by the Food & Drug Administration (FDA).

Medal Of Honor Winner Sentenced To Two Years

BALTIMORE (AP) — Junior James Spurrier, whose World War II exploits earned him the nickname "one-man army," was sentenced Thursday to two years in the Maryland House of Correction.

Winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross, Spurrier was convicted on a deadly weapon charge several weeks ago by a Baltimore Criminal Court Jury.

He was acquitted on more serious charges of robbery and assault with intent to kill. The charges stemmed from a shooting last Sept. 5 after Spurrier and a friend had quarreled while drinking.

Witnesses told the court the argument was over a proposed trip to Virginia for a supply of moonshine whisky.

Spurrier, 35, who grew up at Bluefield, W.Va., after his family moved from Castlewood, Va., has had frequent brushes with the law since his honorable discharge from the Army in 1951.

A former staff sergeant with the 36th Army Division, Spurrier was awarded the Medal of Honor in 1945 for single-handedly liberating the French town of Achain. He was credited with killing 25 Germans and capturing 16.

Judge Joseph Carter heard the latest case against Spurrier. Before sentencing Thursday, he told the defendant the time had come when his behavior must conform to normal conduct if he expects to keep out of serious trouble.

The judge noted that psychiatric examinations showed Spurrier suffers from feelings of inadequacy which help make him troublesome while drinking.

Dr. Manfred S. Guttmacher, psychiatrist for the Baltimore Supreme Bench, pointed out that Spurrier's inadequacy troubles were increased by his hero's role, and the fact that he was called upon frequently to make speeches and public appearances after the war, Judge Carter said.

NEW YORK (AP) Many investors are wondering whether stock prices have gone too high.

Whether the rise has excessively outdistanced earning power and yield.

Questions on this subject top the list of inquiries received by Kenneth Ward, analyst for the brokerage house, Hayden, Stone & Co.

West Virginia Unemployment Trends Downward

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Department of Employment Security reported Wednesday that only slightly more than 10 per cent of the state's labor force of 626,900 was without work at mid-October.

The total of unemployed was 63,300, about 2,600 less than the number reported at mid-September and 6,200 less than last year's figure.

The department reported 554,600 persons held jobs in October 2,400 more than in September.

However, most of the employment boost was in farm work as a result of fall harvesting.

Non-farm employment showed a drop of 900 from September to a total of 448,300. Manufacturing industries registered a net gain of 100 to 124,200 or 1,600 above a year ago.

Coal mine employment showed an over-the-month increase of 500 to boost the October total to 41,400.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Before You Seek Beauty, See To Your Health!

Is your hair brittle and lacklustre no matter how much you have brushed and creamed it? Is your skin STILL dry and flaky, despite all those expensive emoilients?

Are you still so tired that you cannot relax enough to get the rest you need and want? Are you irritable, antagonistic, even angry over things that wouldn't have bothered you a bit a few years ago?

See your doctor.

Have you found that you are more prone now than ever before to colds, eye infections, facial blemishes? Are you afflicted oftener with backaches and headaches that you cannot explain away?

See your doctor.

There's a good chance that you have a nutritional deficiency, without knowing it.

That old saw, "You are what you eat!", is the same as it always has been.

If you're not the same as you once were, check your nutrition with a reputable physician. Coupling your other characteristics—basic health, age, occupation, stress—with what you eat, he and you will be able to decide just what is lacking.

We all need to pay more attention to the methods used in cooking food. We all need more raw foods. We all need more to chew on . . . including food for thought concerning our health.

People who will not or cannot seek medical advice, whatever their reasons . . . and these are usually thoughtful people. . . are more familiar than most of us with the benefits of good nutrition. They don't look to the cosmetic jar nor to the pillbox to provide themselves with what natural foods and common-sense health habits can give.

Perhaps all the rest of us can take a leaf from their book . . . and study nutrition just as we would trace the fashion column, cosmetic ads, and newspaper and magazine stories on the life-and-times of movie queens. There's no need today for anyone to look old, to feel old, to be old . . . whatever the calendar age may be.

Organic problems. These are possible. Functional quirks? These, also. limitations? Of course . . . every persons has her share. What are yours?

See your doctor.

Whatever he recommends for you individually, he will surely prescribe BETTER NUTRITION, in addition. There's no substitute for natural food.

When you can be assured that nutrition is up to par and that you are measuring your daily schedule to your own personal physical and emotional limitations, THEN . . . ask the cosmetic and clothes for help. And don't be afraid to ask me. Your questions help me compose these columns.

But, first, see your doctor.

Ask him what he thinks of the suggestions offered in my pamphlet, "Your Beauty Diet." He's had plenty of sad experience with women who have sacrificed health to the calorie-conscious vision of an impossibly-slim silhouette. I believe he will consider his own advice a happy combination with "Your Beauty Diet." Send for your copy now. . . by writing me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper. Enclose just 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Delivery will be made within two weeks.

Judge Manley Is Reappointed

Judge Michael J. Manley, native of Midland, Wednesday was reappointed to a new term on the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City by Gov. J. Millard Tawes.

Judge Manley has served on the Supreme Bench since the middle 1940s.

Also reappointed was Judge Charles E. Moylan. Both appointments are interim ones since the 1962 general election at which time the two jurists will seek reelection to full terms. Their 15-year terms expired early this month.

The governor also announced that he also has reappointed Judge William L. Henderson to the Court of Appeals, effective next month.

Another Allegany County native is also serving on the Supreme Bench of Baltimore, Judge Joseph Carter, who is from Eckhart.

West Virginia Unemployment Trends Downward

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Department of Employment Security reported Wednesday that only slightly more than 10 per cent of the state's labor force of 626,900 was without work at mid-October.

The total of unemployed was 63,300, about 2,600 less than the number reported at mid-September and 6,200 less than last year's figure.

The department reported 554,600 persons held jobs in October 2,400 more than in September.

However, most of the employment boost was in farm work as a result of fall harvesting.

Non-farm employment showed a drop of 900 from September to a total of 448,300. Manufacturing industries registered a net gain of 100 to 124,200 or 1,600 above a year ago.

Coal mine employment showed an over-the-month increase of 500 to boost the October total to 41,400.

Great Britain abolished slavery in 1833.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Before You Seek Beauty, See To Your Health!

Is your hair brittle and lacklustre no matter how much you have brushed and creamed it? Is your skin STILL dry and flaky, despite all those expensive emoilients?

Are you still so tired that you cannot relax enough to get the rest you need and want? Are you irritable, antagonistic, even angry over things that wouldn't have bothered you a bit a few years ago?

See your doctor.

Have you found that you are more prone now than ever before to colds, eye infections, facial blemishes? Are you afflicted oftener with backaches and headaches that you cannot explain away?

See your doctor.

There's a good chance that you have a nutritional deficiency, without knowing it.

That old saw, "You are what you eat!", is the same as it always has been.

If you're not the same as you once were, check your nutrition with a reputable physician. Coupling your other characteristics—basic health, age, occupation, stress—with what you eat, he and you will be able to decide just what is lacking.

We all need to pay more attention to the methods used in cooking food. We all need more raw foods. We all need more to chew on . . . including food for thought concerning our health.

People who will not or cannot seek medical advice, whatever their reasons . . . and these are usually thoughtful people. . . are more familiar than most of us with the benefits of good nutrition. They don't look to the cosmetic jar nor to the pillbox to provide themselves with what natural foods and common-sense health habits can give.

Perhaps all the rest of us can take a leaf from their book . . . and study nutrition just as we would trace the fashion column, cosmetic ads, and newspaper and magazine stories on the life-and-times of movie queens. There's no need today for anyone to look old, to feel old, to be old . . . whatever the calendar age may be.

Organic problems. These are possible. Functional quirks? These, also. limitations? Of course . . . every persons has her share. What are yours?

See your doctor.

Whatever he recommends for you individually, he will surely prescribe BETTER NUTRITION, in addition. There's no substitute for natural food.

When you can be assured that nutrition is up to par and that you are measuring your daily schedule to your own personal physical and emotional limitations, THEN . . . ask the cosmetic and clothes for help. And don't be afraid to ask me. Your questions help me compose these columns.

But, first, see your doctor.

Ask him what he thinks of the suggestions offered in my pamphlet, "Your Beauty Diet." He's had plenty of sad experience with women who have sacrificed health to the calorie-conscious vision of an impossibly-slim silhouette. I believe he will consider his own advice a happy combination with "Your Beauty Diet." Send for your copy now. . . by writing me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper. Enclose just 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Delivery will be made within two weeks.

Judge Manley Is Reappointed

Judge Michael J. Manley, native of Midland, Wednesday was reappointed to a new term on the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City by Gov. J. Millard Tawes.

Judge Manley has served on the Supreme Bench since the middle 1940s.

Also reappointed was Judge Charles E. Moylan. Both appointments are interim ones since the 1962 general election at which time the two jurists will seek reelection to full terms. Their 15-year terms expired early this month.

The governor also announced that he also has reappointed Judge William L. Henderson to the Court of Appeals, effective next month.

Another Allegany County native is also serving on the Supreme Bench of Baltimore, Judge Joseph Carter, who is from Eckhart.

Toy Ads Checked For Fraud

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government and the broadcasting industry acted Wednesday to make certain that toys stuffed into Christmas stockings live up to their performance in TV commercials.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) announced it was scrutinizing printed toy ads and televised commercials for any misleading or deceptive advertising by toy makers "who would push the Christmas spirit too far." The commission said it had several firms under investigation.

At the same time, the National Association of Broadcasters asked advertising agencies producing toy commercials to send it demonstration toys so it could check their performance against the TV spots.

The NAB's New York Code Authority office also announced that as of Nov. 1 it had evaluated 97 commercials under the association's voluntary toy advertising guidelines. It said four commercials were rejected as misleading and 43 others were revised at the NAB's request.

In New York, Stockton Helffrich, director of the code authority office, declined to identify the four rejected commercials. He said it would be unfair to the toy makers since they had altered the ads.

A spokesman said the NAB was trying to eliminate any deception from toy commercials because the "public image" of the toy and TV industries slipped last Christmas as a result of certain spots.

Daniel J. Murphy, director of the FTC's Bureau of Deceptive Practices, said most toy advertising was "quite proper."

But he added that the commission had received enough complaints from the public "to warrant taking a hard look at those toy sellers who would push the Christmas spirit too far."

Murphy issued these four precautions for toy shoppers this Christmas:

—Examine the pieces of multiple-part toys to make sure they are not just a disappointing portion of what has been displayed in ads.

—Ask for a demonstration of mechanical toys.

—Don't be misled by models which may require more than one kit of tools or materials to put together.

—Don't hesitate to ask a sales clerk to explain questionable advertising claims.

Acquires Firm

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)— Reynolds International Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Reynolds Metals Co., has acquired the Canadian fabricating firm of Aluminum Extruders Ltd. for an undisclosed amount of cash.

Acquires Company

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (UPI)— Clary Corp. has acquired Miller-Trojan Co., of Troy, Ohio, makers of lithograph and off-set printing plates. Terms of the acquisition were not announced.

Directors Named

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The appointment of directors for the Baltimore and Charlotte branches of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond was announced Wednesday by Alonzo G. Decker Jr., chairman of the bank's board of directors.

At the Baltimore branch, Martin Piribek of Morgantown, W. Va., executive vice president of the First National Bank of Morgantown, was named to succeed John W. Sout of Parkersburg, W. Va., president of the Parkersburg National Bank. Harvey E. Emmart of Baltimore, senior vice president and cashier of the Maryland National Bank, was reappointed for another three-year term.

Science At Work

By The Associated Press

One bright flash of atomic light and the damage it causes, an envious eye toward nature and a warming trend in weather are subjects for science at work:

WAKE OF BOMB

In the bright flashes of atomic light, some survivors of the Hiroshima and Nagasaki A-bomb blasts received 100 to 400 roentgens of radiation. An average X-ray picture takes 1-10 to 1-25 of a roentgen.

Even so, these survivors being carefully watched have not shown an increase in deformities among their first generation newborn, says Dr. John C. Bugher of the Rockefeller Foundation.

This, and the fact that most birth malformations are not determined by genetics, makes it difficult to believe various estimates of the number of malformed infants expected from fallout, he told a recent scientific meeting.

GREEN EYES

Scientists are casting envious eyes at nature's commonplace wonders.

"Evidence now at hand suggests that the rattlesnake possesses an infrared sensor so responsive it can detect temperature changes of a thousandth of a degree," said John L. Burns, president of Radio Corp. of America.

He also cited the hornet which navigates accurately, even on cloudy days, by sensing polarized light. The mosquito talks with other mosquitoes 100 feet away through a seemingly unjammable communications system. The bird flies thousands of miles from a tree branch in the backyard to return to the same branch perhaps by star navigation.

WARM TREND

The next five years should see a warming trend in the general weather, says Dr. Charles Abbot of the Smithsonian Institution. Dr. Abbott, who makes his predictions by studying the averages and ranges of temperatures for 1,000-month periods, says he can't "hit the nail on the head," but the method can be valuable in predicting weather extremes.

Chamber Will Hold Dinner For Teachers

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will hold a "Teacher Recognition" dinner program, according to Robert C. Petersen, manager, who said the affair will be held Wednesday, December 6, at 6:30 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Sponsored by the chamber's Business - Education Committee, the program is being sponsored to give the 53 new teachers in the Allegany County school system an opportunity to meet some of the business leaders of the community and, at the same time, give recognition to the importance of the teaching profession and the schools to the business and industrial life of the community.

William F. Cowherd, chairman of the business-education committee, said the speaker will be Clifford C. James, dean of the University of Baltimore School of Business, Industry and Management.

Petersen said it is hoped to make the Teacher Recognition program an annual affair. He added that it also is contemplated that a Business-Industry-Education Day be held each fall.

Such programs, Petersen pointed out, will tend to insure that schools receive the support and interest they deserve, and also be a guarantee that the educational system turns out the calibre of students educated to the needs of the community's business and industrial requirements.

To Launch Rocket

NAGOYA, Japan (UPI)—Japanese scientists plan to launch a rocket with a monkey in its nose cone for a space probe early next spring, the Science and Technology Agency said Thursday.

Cumberlands' Debit Gain Is Leader In Maryland

The financial barometer of Banking News, publication of the Maryland Bankers Association, revealed that Cumberland banks had a greater debit gain in the first nine months of this year compared with similar 1960 figures than did banks in any other Maryland city.

The checks handled by local banks, according to figures furnished by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, were up $28,090,000 for the first three quarters as compared to last year's figures.

In September 1961, Cumberland banks showed a greater increase of debits over its September 1960 total than did banks in any other city.

During September 1961, total debits here were $37,597,000 as compared to $33,657,000 for September 1960, a gain of $3,940,000.

In the first nine months of 1960, debits here were $306,287,000, but they went up $28,090,000 to $334,377,000 for the three quarters of 1961.

Hagerstown's debits in September 1960 were $48,483,000, but they dropped slightly by $151,000 to $48,332,000 for September this year.

The Hub City banks' nine-month debits as of the end of this September were $434,869,000,—down $3,234,000 from the $438,103,000 total for the similar period last year.

Frederick debits in September were $37,832,000 up $1,973,000 from the $35,859,000 total of September 1960.

The total nine-month total for this year was $320,246,000 at Frederick, an increase of $19,806,000 from the same period last year when $300,440,000 was handled.

Salisbury's banks went from nine-month figures of $383,155,000 in 1960 to $397,533,000 this year, an increase of $14,378,000.

There in the Eastern Shore's rapidly developing area, debits decreased in September 1961 $577,000 from $44,406,000 last year, to $43,829,000 this year.

Baltimore's debits took a nose dive of $21,681,134 in comparative figures of this September's total with last September's.

Debits in the largest city of the state dropped from $2,070,563,434 in September 1960, to $2,028,872,300 for the same month this year.

The total for the first nine months of 1961 was $18,997,627,454 as compared to $18,991,184,298 for the same period last year. This was an increase of $6,443,156.

Man Injured In Auto Crash

A 22-year-old Oakland area man escaped serious injury early yesterday when the car he was operating ran off U. S. Route 220 and crashed about 3½ miles north of McCoole.

Earl Clinton Kight, of RD 2, Oakland, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital following the one-car accident with a fractured left collarbone and possible chest injuries. His car was demolished.

The hospital reported his condition as "satisfactory."

Trooper D. J. Kerr, of the Maryland State Police, said Kight was operating his vehicle south when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel. The car ran off the highway and crashed.

Trooper Kerr said Kight was traveling alone when the accident occurred at 2:40 a.m.

The first United States federal taxes to be introduced were import duties and an excise on distilled liquors.

'Messiah' To Be Presented December 10

The Cumberland Choral Society will meet the halfway mark of its twenty-first season on Sunday, December 10 at 3:30 p. m. by presenting the traditional pre-Christmas gem, "The Messiah" by George Frederic Handel. This work will again be directed by Charles I. Sager and accompanied by Anne Fisher Gormer, organist.

On behalf of the choral society, Francis Verdery, president, concluded arrangements with St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Frederick Street, to present this program in their sanctuary. Previous concerts have been given in St. Paul's Lutheran Church and Centre Street Methodist Church, as well as in both of the local high schools.

Of added interest to the community will be the participation of choral members from both Allegany and Fort Hill high schools. The students will combine their talents and enthusiasm with the Society members in singing the immortal "Hallelujah Chorus" in the concert.

Local and area public school music teachers who are members of the Choral Society include Miss Dorothy Willison, Allegany; Miss Anita Dicken and Miss Rosemarie Houck, county music resource teachers; Miss Mary Robb, Beall High, in Frostburg; Harold Hanson, Fort Hill, and R. Monroe Harris, Flintstone.

Chamber Will Hold Dinner For Teachers

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will hold a "Teacher Recognition" dinner program, according to Robert C. Petersen, manager, who said the affair will be held Wednesday, December 6, at 6:30 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Sponsored by the chamber's Business - Education Committee, the program is being sponsored to give the 53 new teachers in the Allegany County school system an opportunity to meet some of the business leaders of the community and, at the same time, give recognition to the importance of the teaching profession and the schools to the business and industrial life of the community.

William F. Cowherd, chairman of the business-education committee, said the speaker will be Clifford C. James, dean of the University of Baltimore School of Business, Industry and Management.

Petersen said it is hoped to make the Teacher Recognition program an annual affair. He added that it also is contemplated that a Business-Industry-Education Day be held each fall.

Such programs, Petersen pointed out, will tend to insure that schools receive the support and interest they deserve, and also be a guarantee that the educational system turns out the calibre of students educated to the needs of the community's business and industrial requirements.

NAGOYA, Japan (UPI)—Japanese scientists plan to launch a rocket with a monkey in its nose cone for a space probe early next spring, the Science and Technology Agency said Thursday.

Cumberlands' Debit Gain Is Leader In Maryland

The financial barometer of Banking News, publication of the Maryland Bankers Association, revealed that Cumberland banks had a greater debit gain in the first nine months of this year compared with similar 1960 figures than did banks in any other Maryland city.

The checks handled by local banks, according to figures furnished by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, were up $28,090,000 for the first three quarters as compared to last year's figures.

In September 1961, Cumberland banks showed a greater increase of debits over its September 1960 total than did banks in any other city.

During September 1961, total debits here were $37,597,000 as compared to $33,657,000 for September 1960, a gain of $3,940,000.

In the first nine months of 1960, debits here were $306,287,000, but they went up $28,090,000 to $334,377,000 for the three quarters of 1961.

Hagerstown's debits in September 1960 were $48,483,000, but they dropped slightly by $151,000 to $48,332,000 for September this year.

The Hub City banks' nine-month debits as of the end of this September were $434,869,000,—down $3,234,000 from the $438,103,000 total for the similar period last year.

Frederick debits in September were $37,832,000 up $1,973,000 from the $35,859,000 total of September 1960.

The total nine-month total for this year was $320,246,000 at Frederick, an increase of $19,806,000 from the same period last year when $300,440,000 was handled.

Washington County Damage Suit Moved To Allegany County

A damage suit originally filed in Washington County Circuit Court at Hagerstown and removed to Allegany County Circuit Court involves alleged injuries to an employe of a firm in Hagerstown.

Through his attorney, Raymond G. Hixon, of RD 2, Thurmont, filed the damage suit against James Carraccio, an employe of the Mack truck plant and Darin and Armstrong Inc.

On May 9, 1961 he was working at the plant when a truck of the corporation being driven by Carraccio was backing up and hit the plaintiff causing injuries to his back. Hixon required medical attention, the damage suit indicated.

Farm Economy Is Featured At Conference

Delbert Davis, a native of Garrett County and now senior vice president of the Maryland National Bank, addressed some 100 Garrett and Allegany County representative leaders of agriculture yesterday at the Will of the Wisp Motel near Oakland.

This Maryland Bankers Association agricultural conference was sponsored by Group 1 of the association, which embraces the two western-most counties of the state. The theme of the one-day conference was the expansion of agricultural profits in the two counties.

"Wake Up And Live" was the topic of Mr. Davis' remarks.

Willis T. Hancock of Salisbury on the Eastern Shore was general chairman of the conference. He is agriculture committee chairman of the Maryland Bankers Association.

Other speakers were Dr. George Stevens of the agricultural engineering department of the University of Maryland and Conrad Liden, assistant to the dean of agriculture at College Park.

A panel discussion on financing agriculture also was included in the program. Participating were J. Thomas Vandenburg, vice president of the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, and B. Beeson Snyder, area representative of the Farmers Home Administration.

Wedding Tags Sales Ahead Of Last Year

The number of marriage licenses issued between January and November this year at Allegany County Court House exceeds by 15 the number issued during the 11-month period in 1960.

Up until closing time yesterday some 2,189 licenses had been issued for the 11-month period this year in comparison to 2,174 licenses issued January-November last year.

The total number issued in November this year overshadowed the number of licenses issued in the same month last year. During the 30-day period ending yesterday 194 licenses were issued and 171 were issued during the same period last year.

Zoning Changes

Also discussed last night were some proposed changes in zoning laws. It was pointed out that before they were adopted two public hearings would be held.

Proposed changes in the population report prepared by Mr. Tarrant were discussed and incorporated in the minutes as corrected.

Discussed also was the publishing of the revised population report as well as the economic base and land use survey compiled by Mr. Tarrant.

These reports would be distributed to various officials of the county and its communities as well as to state agencies and other interested groups including development concerns, business, utilities and Chambers of Commerce.

It was decided that Mr. Renaud look into the matter of the cost and report back at the next meeting. Also suggested was a tentative list for distribution by members of the commission.

The financial report for the month, a director's report and the consultant's report were also given at the meeting last night.

James A. Perrin acted as chairman of the meeting in the absence of Richard Winer. Carl O. Belt and Ralph Rice also attended the meeting.

Parking Switched To Equalize Wear On Central Ave.

The Police Department today will institute a trial program under which parking will be reversed to equalize wear and tear on a number of streets.

Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming said the program will begin today on Central Avenue, between Park Street and Maryland Avenue.

Parking will be allowed, he said, on the right hand side, going east. Former red lines have been painted black and curbs on the opposite side have been painted red.

Mr. Fleming said the area was selected to start the program since it is on a bus route and is used a great deal by heavy equipment.

He said the department may extend the program to other heavily traveled areas if the plan proves feasible.

Also discussed last night were some proposed changes in zoning laws. It was pointed out that before they were adopted two public hearings would be held.

Proposed changes in the population report prepared by Mr. Tarrant were discussed and incorporated in the minutes as corrected.

Discussed also was the publishing of the revised population report as well as the economic base and land use survey compiled by Mr. Tarrant.

These reports would be distributed to various officials of the county and its communities as well as to state agencies and other interested groups including development concerns, business, utilities and Chambers of Commerce.

It was decided that Mr. Renaud look into the matter of the cost and report back at the next meeting. Also suggested was a tentative list for distribution by members of the commission.

The financial report for the month, a director's report and the consultant's report were also given at the meeting last night.

James A. Perrin acted as chairman of the meeting in the absence of Richard Winer. Carl O. Belt and Ralph Rice also attended the meeting.

WVU Research Specialist Urges More Coal Research

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— An all-out drive to promote "defensive coal research" in West Virginia was urged Wednesday by a West Virginia University research specialist.

"Research is like a game of chess," Dr. J. W. Leonard said. "You have defensive research and offensive research. A business that is firmly established, like West Virginia's coal industry, must continually be active in defensive research. "West Virginia is constantly subjected to offensive research from other energy sources."

Leonard made the statements at a meeting in which the West Virginia Scientific Advisory Council on Uses of Coal recommended that a state coal research bureau be established at West Virginia University, directed by a four-member advisory committee with legal status. The Scientific Council would be replaced by this setup.

The council, headed by Dr. James V. Murray Jr., South Charleston, also asked legislative leaders who attended the meeting to give WVU $60,000 for the next fiscal year to start operating the proposed bureau. The council said that by the fourth year of operation, the bureau should be getting about $200,000 annually.

With that money, Leonard said, the bureau, using existing facilities at the University, could continue its present research into use of coal in blast furnaces to compete with gas and oil.

Other research projects suggested by Leonard were coal gasification, so - called coal-by-wire and studies aimed at speeding up railroad electrification to compete with diesel fuel.

The coal-by-wire theory envisions the sale of large quantities of coal to electric power companies.

Leonard's plea for extensive coal research received support from Michael F. Widman Jr., Washington, director of the research and marketing for the United Mine Workers union, and Joseph Pursglove Jr., vice president of Consolidation Coal Co., Pittsburgh.

"West Virginia must get in step and help the coal industry help itself," Widman said. "By doing this, we will be helping West Virginia improve its economy."

Pursglove told the group that "the peculiar problems of West Virginia's coal industry must be solved by West Virginians." He said the state cannot rely solely on research conducted by the U. S. Bureau of Mines station near Morgantown.

Pursglove used as an example of the work that West Virginia should do, the results obtained by a similar council in Pennsylvania. He said that group worked for years trying to build up new foreign markets for Pennsylvania anthracite until it finally managed to displace all German anthracite coal used by federal government facilities overseas at a rate of 500,000 tons a year.

Among legislative leaders present at Wednesday's meeting were Senate President Howard Carson, House Speaker Julius Singleton, Senate and House Finance Chairmen Hans McCourt and Ivor Boiarsky and Majority Leaders William Moreland and W. T. Brotherton Jr.

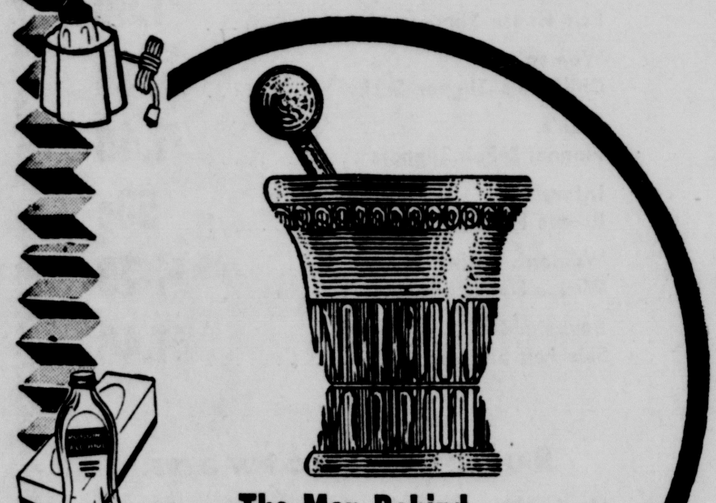
A Story of Why Record Keeping Is Important



A Pharmacist's careful records may suddenly become important in wholly unexpected ways. Suppose a child swallows a handful of tablets from an old forgotten bottle? Are the tablets harmless—or dangerous? If there is a prescription number on the bottle label, a call to the drug store that dispensed the tablets, perhaps many years before, will quickly identify the nature of the tablets and ascertain whether or not emergency treatment is indicated. The pharmacist needs a little of your time when filling your prescription to keep his records accurate. Walsh-McCagh prescription files date back to 1920, which indicates the thoroughness and care given to every prescription filled by our pharmacists. It's a reassuring feeling to know that at Walsh-McCagh, you get the BEST pharmaceutical care for your prescription—and always at extra low prices. Why not find out for yourself.

Hazelwood Gets Contract For ABL Expansion Work

The George F. Hazelwood Company has been awarded contracts totaling more than $500,000 for construction work at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, according to Duard H. Little, plant manager.

The Hazelwood firm, Little said, was the low bidder on four contracts totaling $560,090 during the past two months. The bids were accepted for work on additions to existing buildings, construction of a new inspection building and additional water facilities.

The most recent contract, awarded last week to Hazelwood Company on a bid of $118,670, is for construction of an addition to Building 181, control house for the plant's internal inspection building; a saw room addition to Building 105, and construction of a decontamination facility.

Little explained that the last item is for decontaminating components that are used in explosive service so that the materials may be reused.

Hazelwood also has work underway on an addition to Building 106-A, which will cost $20,860, and on construction of an inert components inspection building, the cost of which will be $297,940. The ABL plant manager said the inspection building is primarily an addition to the Polaris facilities at the plant.

The blasting of 3,500 cubic yards of rock on the mountain behind ABL's X Range has been started. The site, adjacent to a 200,000-gallon water tank, will be used for a 500,000-gallon water tank, Little said.

That work, and installation of a 1,000 cubic foot-per-minute air compressor in the new Polaris Machining Building will cost $122,620, according to the plant manager.

The Hazelwood firm recently completed construction of a cover for a blasting pit on the mountainside above X Range. The pit is used for sensitivity tests of explosive materials, it was explained, and the cover is a safety measure to keep flying material inside the pit during tests. The work was done at a cost of $21,839.

County Work Is Outlined

John J. Rowan, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday outlined this county's planning program in a number of activities at a meeting of Western Maryland county commissioners in Hagerstown.

Rowan detailed the county's plans for financing school and education projects, and urged that the commissioners of the five counties establish a combined policy on teachers' pay. He noted that all of the counties presently are competing in that matter with metropolitan areas that have a richer tax base and higher per capita incomes.

Of particular interest to the host Washington County Board was an explanation of the operation of the Allegany County Infirmary, since that county next year will open operation of a similar institution.

Tours of industrial plants, including the new Mack Truck Company facility in Hagerstown, were featured yesterday.

Local Church Will Conduct Dedication

Zion United Church of Christ will hold a dedication service at the 10:45 a. m. worship Sunday, according to Rev. George A. Hazen, pastor.

The service will dedicate several major improvements that have been completed, including a new social lounge and installation of a new furnace, Rev. Mr. Hazen said.

The congregation recently observed its 15th anniversary at its present location on North Mechanic Street. The pastor noted that Zion Reformed Church organized its first congregation here in 1867, and purchased a church site on North Liberty Street in 1871. Greenmount Cemetery was purchased and incorporated that same year, records reveal.

In 1911, the congregation moved to its North Mechanic Street location, according to Rev. Mr. Hazen, who said the North Liberty Street site was the later location of the recently-razed Liberty Theatre.

The pastor said the Women's Guild of the church recently donated 100-place settings of dishes and silver to the church, and that furnishings for the lounge have been donated by various organizations and individuals of the congregation.

A coffee social hour will follow the dedication service, according to Rev. Mr. Hazen, who has served the congregation since 1959.

REDS READ KENNEDY INTERVIEW—A resident of Moscow reads with unusual interest a copy of the government newspaper Izvestia which contained a complete report of the interview given by President Kennedy to Russian editor Alexei Adzhubei, son-in-law of Premier Khrushchev. There were no deletions, it was stated, although the President told the Soviet people that the Red effort to Communize the world was a basic threat to world peace and the root of our differences.

Sports Car Club Conducting Drive For Members

The Western Maryland Sports Car Club has instituted a membership drive, according to George Hast, president.

Hast pointed out that despite the name of the club many of the local group do not own sports cars and that membership is open to any auto enthusiast.

To open the membership drive, a free shrimp feed will be served in the rathskeller of Cas Taylor's Restaurant Friday, December 8, at 8 p. m.

In addition to refreshments, movies of interest to those enjoying motoring activities will be shown.

Further details may be obtained by calling Hast at PA 4-2569.

Rancher Pays Record $102,000 For Third Of Bull

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Nevada rancher Wednesday bought one-third interest in a New York bull for $102,000. Cattlemen said the price was a world's record.

The bull, an Angus, is named Ankonian Ballott 57th. It won the junior championship at the 62nd International Livestock Exposition and went on the auction block in the Chicago stockyards.

The $102,000 for the one-third interest was bid by Double Diamond Ranch, Reno, owned by Wilbur May.

According to exposition officials, possession of the bull will be retained by its exhibitor, Ankony farm, Rhinebeck, N.Y., until after next year's international, when the bull will go to May.

The exposition officials said the highest previous price for a one-third interest in a bull was $101,000, set last September.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: All my life I've been heavy. The fellows considered me the jolly type. Period. Two years ago I went on a diet and lost 75 pounds. I bought a new wardrobe, changed jobs and lightened my hair. I hate to sound immodest, but I'm a real dish now.

Men have discovered me, but I seem to have a knack for attracting the wrong kind. My following consists of two married men whose wives don't understand them, one semi-separated musician who smokes crazy cigarettes, a 22 year-old law student who "just loves older women" and a 55-year-old lecher with a Mercedes-Benz.

I know you'll say I'm a naughty girl but after sitting home dateless for 29 years I enjoy being noticed. How can I attract some decent men and get out of this rat race?—NEW ME

DEAR NEW YOU: Rat-race is right—and it sounds as if the rats are winning.

No decent fellows will ask you out if you continue to run with this weird assortment of characters.

Call a halt and be willing to stay home until someone worthwhile invites you out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This problem will be of particular interest to people in the Seattle area, but I think it can mean a lot to readers al lover.

Next Spring Seattle will be host to thousands who will be attending the Century 21 Exposition. Already we've received letters from relatives and friends informing us that they are coming out to stay with us.

We have a three bedroom home, and two children. My husband uses the third bedroom as an office. It doesn't even have a bed in it—just a couch.

We are not set up for house guests. But what can we say when they write and tell us they are coming?

Also, are we expected to accompany our friends and relatives to the Exposition each time they go? Are we expected to buy their tickets and meals? Help! Please! — UNINTELLIGENT INTELLIGENCERS

DEAR INTELLIGENCERS: If you are not set up for house guests—SAY SO. Offer to get your out of town friends and relatives accommodations at a hotel or a motel.

You are not expected to accompany your visitors to the Exposition every time they go. It would be nice to buy their tickets on the first visit, as well as dinner once or twice. But Seattle residents should not feel that they are obligated to pick up the tab for floating travelers — particularly those who come to visit uninvited.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a grown woman with a family. A friend (?) of mine has a cutting sense of humor but is considered very "entertaining."

For three years she has been sending me small gifts and studio cards—all with biting references to my morals. She signs some of them but others are simply from "You know who" etc. I recognize her handwriting on packages and envelopes, however.

She's terribly sweet to my face and I always acknowledge her remembrances with a smile. But I am irritated and hurt. Shall I tell her off?—SPOKE-ANNE

DEAR SPOKE: Throw her "remembrances" out — unopened. Make no reference to them whatever. If she asks, you can truthfully tell her you've not seen her needlework.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wiley Ford Church To Hold Program

Rev. H. Harvey Hendershot, district superintendent of the West Virginia district of the Church of the Nazarene, will speak today at 7:30 p.m. at the Church of the Nazarene in Wiley Ford.

Rev. Mr. Hendershot will also meet with the church board to discuss the erection of a new church in the near future.

Louis XVI of France is responsible for square handkerchiefs. Because he did not like the oblong ones in use, he issued an edict that all handkerchiefs must be square.

Permit Needed For Explosives

Operators of quarries and persons who load shells are required by state law to obtain a license.

Jesse E. Jacobs, state fire investigator, said that he has been checking into the licensing in the four Western Maryland counties.

All quarries and shell loading operations must be licensed by January 1, Jacobs said.

Requirements of the state law affect the storage of explosives and the proper usage of such materials.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: All my life I've been heavy. The fellows considered me the jolly type. Period. Two years ago I went on a diet and lost 75 pounds. I bought a new wardrobe, changed jobs and lightened my hair. I hate to sound immodest, but I'm a real dish now.

Men have discovered me, but I seem to have a knack for attracting the wrong kind. My following consists of two married men whose wives don't understand them, one semi-separated musician who smokes crazy cigarettes, a 22 year-old law student who "just loves older women" and a 55-year-old lecher with a Mercedes-Benz.

I know you'll say I'm a naughty girl but after sitting home dateless for 29 years I enjoy being noticed. How can I attract some decent men and get out of this rat race?—NEW ME

DEAR NEW YOU: Rat-race is right—and it sounds as if the rats are winning.

No decent fellows will ask you out if you continue to run with this weird assortment of characters.

Call a halt and be willing to stay home until someone worthwhile invites you out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This problem will be of particular interest to people in the Seattle area, but I think it can mean a lot to readers al lover.

Next Spring Seattle will be host to thousands who will be attending the Century 21 Exposition. Already we've received letters from relatives and friends informing us that they are coming out to stay with us.

Glenn, "Old Man" Of Astronauts, Soon Will Get Long-Awaited Crack At Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—When the seven-man Mercury astronaut team was first revealed to the public in 1959, each was asked why he had volunteered for the hazardous mission. John Herschel Glenn Jr. replied:

"We stand on the verge of something as big and as expansive as when the Wright brothers stood at Kitty Hawk 50 years ago, pitching a coin to see who was going to shove the other off the hill. We are very fortunate that we have been blessed with talents good enough to be picked for something like this."

Later, in a more jocular mood, Glenn, a Marine lieutenant colonel, said:

"I figured it would probably be the nearest I'd ever get to heaven. I thought I ought to make the most of it."

Whatever his reason, Glenn—at 40 considered the "old man" of the astronauts—soon will get his long-awaited crack at space flight. He was named Wednesday as the prime pilot for the United States first manned orbital flight, expected within a few weeks following Wednesday's successful recovery of a chimpanzee from orbit.

Wednesday, Glenn said he was "very, very happy" about his selection and he would be ready to go before the end of the year if he got the word.

Glenn was backup pilot for the suborbital space rides made earlier this year by fellow astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom.

Danger is no stranger to Glenn, a powerful athletic type with balding reddish hair and green eyes. He has more than 5,100 hours of flying time, 1,600 in jets. He flew 59 fighter-bomber missions in the Pacific in World War II and 100 missions in Korea, shooting down three Communist MIGs near the Yalu River in the last nine days of fighting. He holds five Distinguished Flying Crosses and an Air Medal with 18 clusters.

Religion plays an important part in the life of Glenn, a Presbyterian. When he was being considered for Project Mercury, he and his wife, Anna, had some questions about possible religious blocks to human space flight. Their friend and family minister, Rev. Frank Erwin, assured them there were none.

Despite the demands of his profession, which frequently have kept him away from home for weeks at a time, Glenn has maintained close ties with his family.

Anna and their children, John David, 14, and Carolyn, 13, live in Arlington, Va. When his training brings him to Cape Canaveral, the family often accompanies him.

Glenn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Glenn, still live in New Concord, Ohio, where they moved from Cambridge, Ohio, after John was born July 18, 1921.

Communists Defy Registration Act

The Communist Party in the United States insists it will not register as an agent of a foreign government, thus defying the Internal Security Act of 1950 which has now been upheld by final court decisions.

Furthermore, the party's officers have decided not to sign up as individuals. George Meyers, native of Lonaconing and acknowledged leader of the Communist Party in Maryland, said Wednesday that he will not register.

The challenge to authority is thus squarely laid on the line. Attorney General Kennedy would be derelict if he did not promptly undertake prosecution of the offenders.

Any claim the Communist Party may have to being a domestic political organization has been dissolved by history. That it serves only Moscow is evident in the manner it slavishly pursues the Kremlin line no matter how damaging that might be to this country's interests. The only party convention it knows is the international congress that convenes in Russia.

The Communist Party has had the opportunity to operate in the way other political parties have operated in the U. S.—openly and above board. Instead it chose secrecy and subversion. If domestic Communists are now to be treated like saboteurs, they can blame only themselves.

The Cabinet

Theoretically, the American Cabinet does not consist of ministers of state. Rather, its members are secretaries to the President. The difference is that a minister is a political personality in his own right; a secretary is an assistant to the President. For instance, every British or French Minister is elected to Parliament and is chosen not only for whatever administrative ability he may possess but also because of his political significance; no member of the American Cabinet is elected to any office, his appointment being due solely to the President's wish and choice.

Members of the British or French Cabinets have political status of greater or lesser significance, members of the American Cabinet may be men of major political significance as Elihu Root or William Jennings Bryan were or they may be totally unknown to the American people as most of President Kennedy's Cabinet is. George Washington's Cabinet consisted of the leading men of the country; Abraham Lincoln's consisted of men who were, at the beginning of his term, politically superior to him. Woodrow Wilson had a hard-working Cabinet of distinguished men. President Harding, with two exceptions, had one of the most competent Cabinets of recent years.

President Kennedy apparently sought men of administrative ability but without political stature. His chief Cabinet officer, the Secretary of State, Dean Rusk, had served in the State Department in the Truman Administration and had been the head of the Rockefeller Foundation. In the Truman Administration he was not particularly notable. To assist him, President Kennedy appointed a galaxy of talent, including a former candidate for the Presidency, Adlai Stevenson, three former governors, Chester Bowles, "Soapy" Williams and Averell Harriman, and a number of academic experts.

The State Department which suffers from a conflict between President appointees and the permanent deskmen is always in a state of confusion. President Eisenhower appointed Herbert Hoover, Jr., to straighten out the situation, but he failed because the deskmen are like a labor union, or perhaps a college fraternity might be a better example.

They sabotage their chiefs as a matter of practice and fail to accept policy as it comes down to them from the White House. None of the deskmen can be dismissed. The Cuban fiasco is a disastrous example of how evil the deskmen system is.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Douglas Dillon, was in the State Department and before that he was a banker. He is undoubtedly a capable administrator but whether he possesses breadth of view, imagination and economic foresight is yet to be discovered. His father, Clarence Dillon, was one of the cleverest men in Wall Street. On the whole, it can be said that Dillon knows what a dollar is and understands what should be done about it. He ought to make a competent Secretary of the Treasury and the minor appointments in that office are not unsatisfactory, although there is no Ogden Mills or Arthur Ballantine in this outfit.

It is generally held that the Secretary of Defense, Robert S. McNamara, is the most competent administrator in the government. He came to it from the Ford Company. He lacks political smoothness and finesse which are essential for any official.

His handling of the Walker case was amateurish, but that was to have been expected from a businessman in public life. When McNamara learns how to operate politically as well as administratively, he will become a top-notch public official.

Robert F. Kennedy, the Attorney General, is an all-around competent Cabinet officer and thus far has made no serious mistakes. He is politically astute, has a broad understanding of American history and acts as a defense for his brother. He will emerge as the leader in the Cabinet as he may become the leader of his party.

Arthur Goldberg, the Secretary of Labor, is emerging as a major political figure. He serves the President admirably as a propounder of Presidential policies beyond the metes and bounds of his office.

The Kennedy Administration has made more of the White House staff than any former President. It is a large staff of mixed capabilities. From one standpoint, it is superior to most Presidential staffs: it is capable of gathering and communicating data. This is very important because too often, Presidents are left in the dark by their assistants and discover too late that they were uninformed or misinformed.

'What I Couldn't Do With Some U.S. Wheat'

Mexican Farmers Given Certificates Of Land Ownership By Government

By Drew Pearson

GUERRERO, Mexico — On a platform built outside this dusty rain-thirsty city, President Adolfo Lopez Mateos stood handing out certificates to Mexican farmers.

Wearing blue jeans and wide sombreros, their gnarled faces bronzed by the hot winds that show no mercy to man, crops, or live stock, they shook hands with the President of Mexico, eagerly clutched certificates of agrarian land ownership, and passed on.

Some of them reached out and shook hands with the President of Mexico twice. Once before receiving their certificate, once afterward. For this was the biggest day of their lives. Hereafter they were the owners of their own land. It might be rocky and hilly, it might be drought stricken, but it was their land — to have and to hold, to keep and to cultivate — their land.

No wonder they shook hands twice with the President of Mexico.

Later that evening I talked with President Lopez Mateos about that ceremony. He was sitting in the rear of his private car as the Presidential Special chugged over the only new rail line built in North America in the past 50 years — the Chihuahua-Pacific Railroad, connecting North Central Mexico with the sea.

Interview With President

"I am glad you are seeing this part of Mexico," he said. "Its people are strong and silent. They helped to win the revolution that changed the course of Mexican history."

He referred to the long years of social revolution, beginning in 1910, when Mexico experienced some of the upheavals Cuba is undergoing today.

"I watched you give out certificates of land ownership to the farmers this morning," I told Lopez Mateos. "It was quite a touching scene."

"They were emotional," replied the President, "and you can understand why. They had worked hard for their land, some of them 25 years: So it was a great day. We gave away a total of 240,000 acres today.

"We feel that the backbone of Democracy is to have the people own their own land," the President continued. "If this policy was followed in other Latin-American countries, there would be no danger of Communism. Unfortunately, in many Latin countries, those who have the power to govern, also own the land. So it is difficult to bring about land reform."

"I noticed that you were also giving the farmers checks," I said. "What were they for?"

"They were payments on the use of the forest land and the mountains," Lopez Mateos explained. "Under our Mexican law, the people also own the forest land around them and the mountains. So if the timber is cut or minerals extracted from the mountains they receive a royalty. I was paying them their royalty."

"How often are they paid?"

"Once a year."

Alliance For Progress

President Kennedy's proposed "Alliance For Progress" is aimed at bringing about identical land and social reforms in other Latin-American countries; and since Mexico has been ahead of the Alliance For Progress, I asked President Lopez Mateos whether any of his Latin neighbors had asked Mexico for advice.

"Venezuela and Honduras have asked us for agrarian advisers, and we have sent them," was the reply.

"We will be delighted to share our experiences with any country interested in land reform. This is the best way to prevent Communism."

Lopez Mateos is a former schoolteacher who hasn't let high office go to his head. He still has a sense of humor. "How do you like our toy train?" he asked at one point, referring to the Presidential Special, which is not exactly a toy. When we were about to have our pictures taken, he told the photographer: "Stand back, or all you will get will be our navels."

When I complimented him on how well he looked, he replied: "I wish that were true. But I was reading a Tijuana newspaper the other day which noted that two young statesmen had come on the Latin-American scene at the same time — Janio Quadros of Brazil and Lopez Mateos of Mexico.

"'Now,' said the editorial, 'Quadros has gone and Lopez Mateos has gray hair.'"

Recalling his early career as a schoolteacher, I asked what he was doing about promoting better schools for Mexico.

"Our educational budget is 22 per cent of our entire national expenditure compared with only 6 per cent for the military," he replied.

"I doubt if any other country is spending as much proportionately on education and as little proportionately on the military. I believe we have the smallest army per capita of any country in the world. The fact that we save on the cost of our army is why we can spend money on education and agrarian reform."

The fact that Mexico needs no large army is in itself a tribute to trust in the United States, to the new era of Mexican-American friendship, and to the 1,600 miles of border with not one sentry on guard.

I came away from the interview feeling that Mexico, under Lopez Mateos, would continue to be a leader in the Alliance For Progress despite the much publicized pro-Castro riots in the University of Mexico 18 months ago.

European Market Bright Hope Of The Future

By Joseph Alsop

LONDON

Here in London, as in Paris, you can all but see the future being molded into a wholly new shape.

The outcome is not sure as yet. The hopeful process can be stopped dead in its tracks if Nikita S. Khrushchev manages to bully the Western Allies into retreating at Berlin — which is — precisely why Khrushchev has been trying so hard. Or this process may perhaps be aborted by a final failure of Gen. de Gaulle's Algerian policy or by some major, unforeseen accident of British domestic politics, or by some other peripheral piece of bad luck.

But the fact remains that the British and the six nations of the European Common Market are for the first time negotiating with evident determination to reach eventual agreement. The French have the largest responsibility among the Europeans; and the French leaders who are in charge of the negotiations told this reporter, "This is one time when we cannot afford to fail." Their British counterparts use almost the identical language.

The practical problems the negtiators must solve are thorny in the extreme. It will be very difficult indeed to hammer out the compromises by which Britain will enter the new European association, without absolutely breaking the historic links with the Commonwealth.

Furthermore, even the smallest of the practical problems that have to be solved sometimes have inordinate importance. British imports from Cyprus are a tiny item in pounds sterling, for instance. But if the British cut Cyprus adrift economically, the Soviets will soon see that a good bargain is going begging. And since the Cypriot Communist party is already dangerously strong, the Soviets may then be able to make their bargain, with unpleasant results in the Mediterranean.

Nonetheless, one should not be misled by the difficulty, multiplicity, and importance of the problems that have to be solved or compromised before Britain can enter the European Community. The key facts are that the British want to join at last, and the Europeans, including the often prickly French, very much want the British to join. The will to reach agreements on both sides is a pretty good guarantee that agreement will eventually be reached.

Saying that this event will mold the future into a wholly new shape is a simple statement of fact, containing no trace of exaggeration or hyperbole.

As everyone now recognizes, the formation of the European Common Market was an event of the greatest economic significance. It rapidly promoted an economic forward surge in Europe. By its success, it soon exerted severe pressure on the British to join the club. It is now beginning to put severe pressure on the U. S., as well, to begin thinking about new kinds of world trading relationships.

But as long as Britain stands aside, the effects of the Common Market are bound to be largely limited to the economic sphere. Without Britain, the Common Market is not big enough and diverse enough and representative enough to transform itself into a true European community. Leaders of the six member nations often boast of their success in forming a European community. But in reality, the main political role of the existing Common Market has been to strengthen and cement the informal Franco-German partnership established by President de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer.

Every prospect will be altered, however, if and when Britain joins the European club. Automatically, the enlarged Common Market will then become the germ of a European Community; and it will take a great deal of ill will and bad luck to prevent the germ from growing into a full-scale politically united Europe.

This does not mean that the British decision to join foretells the future formation of a United States of Europe, or anything of that elaborate, Utopian sort. As long as Gen. de Gaulle holds power in Paris, he will bitterly oppose any development that dims the national identity of France. The British, who have a rooted aversion to constitution-making, will carry on where de Gaulle leaves off.

But complex political institutions are not needed to transform the new European economic community into a political community. The needs are simply a sense of common interest and a knowledge of shared purpose, which will lead the member nations to act together in the political sphere as well as in the economic sphere. That is what is important.

If economic union leads on to united European political action, as is only natural, the importance of the result will be difficult to over-state. In Western Europe, fifteen years ago in ruins, not many years ago still bitterly disunited, a wholly new grouping will take shape. And even if this new grouping is not a true nation, it will be a true power.

Thus the count of the earth's giant powers will be increased from two — the U. S. and the U. S. S. R. — to three — America, Europe, and the Soviet Union. Thus the whole world balance will also be altered. Sometimes, in truth, the world balance may be altered in ways that will inconvenience both of the existing giants. But this promised emergence of another giant power within the Western Alliance is still a great and hopeful event.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

LEARNING FAST — Margery Michelmore, the Peace Corps volunteer whose lost postcard from Nigeria catapulted her onto the front pages and out of that country, has now reported to work at her new job in the headquarters of the corps.

While her postcard describing the squalor she found on her mission to Nigeria caused great embarrassment to the Kennedy administration, she seems to have emerged from the crisis with all flags flying.

But she's learning the ways of public life fast. In particular, she says, writing postcards is out! And she's pretty careful about writing letters, as well.

When she reported for work in Washington, she received what she described as a "perfectly wonderful" letter from President Kennedy. But once burned, twice cautious.

She asked her superiors if it would be all right for her to write a letter to the President replying to his. The answer was an unqualified "yes."

Miss Michelmore, replying to questions about her present attitude toward the Peace Corps, said, "I feel more than ever that the Peace Corps is a wonderful thing. I am proud to be able to stay on in this field."

The Tremendous Waste Of Human Lives

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most of us cringe when we hear of a serious airplane accident or an entire family wiped out on the highway. The total number of people killed in such mishaps is insignificant compared with the daily dribble involving one, two, or three persons. For example, from 1941 to 1960, there were 200 catastrophic air transportation accidents in which 3,504 died.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company defines a major catastrophe or disaster as an accident taking 100 or more lives. (Ordinary catastrophes take five to nine lives).

According to the company's statistical bulletin, there have been 23 major disasters in the last two decades. The death toll was in excess of 4,300 lives. Two-fifths were caused by fires and explosions and an equal number resulted from natural disasters including tornadoes, hurricanes, and floods.

The Texas City fire and explosion 14 years ago took a toll of 561. This was our worst disaster, excluding war casualties. The fire in the Boston night club in 1942 was next, with a loss of 492 lives. Then came hurricane Audrey (395) and the explosion of two ammunition ships in Port Chicago, Cal., (322).

Catastrophic accidents of all types in the period 1941-60 cost 27,000 lives. The majority took five to nine lives each but the total never exceeded 2,000 in any year. Fires and explosions led the list with 7,600 deaths, followed by motor vehicle casualties with slightly more than 6,000 fatalities. Tornadoes, floods, and hurricanes rank third, with those involving civil air transportation, fourth.

Catastrophic motor vehicle accidents have increased in the last two decades, going from 916 in 1941-45 to 2,305 in the 1956-60 period. The death toll on highways from noncatastrophic accidents has exceeded 30,000 annually; this is roughly 600,000 deaths in the last two decades.

These figures serve to emphasize the tremendous waste of human lives brought on through accidents. Many are unavoidable but others could have been prevented. A man killed in an auto or drowned in a flood is just as dead as the one who succumbs to cancer, pneumonia, or a heart attack.

RETIREMENT OFFERS SLEEP

E. F. writes: I sleep well at night but after breakfast become drowsy and have to go back to bed for an hour or so. I retired three years ago. Do you think I sleep so much because of having nothing to do?

REPLY

Possibly but having the opportunity to sleep after breakfast is one of the joys of retirement.

KIDNEY DISEASES

V. S. writes: Can you ever get cured of Bright's disease?

REPLY

Yes. Ninety per cent of victims of the usual form of nephritis are cured. But the term, Bright's disease, includes a variety of kidney disorders and the outcome varies with different conditions.

CHLORINE IRRITATION

E. N. writes: Would daily swimming in a chlorinated pool, affect the eyes?

REPLY

Too much chlorine irritates the eyes. There are other causes for eye disorders and swimming could aggravate infections of the lids and tear ducts.

PIGEON DISEASES

E. L. T. writes: My windows, which I keep open all day, have ledges where pigeon droppings cover the sills. Is this a hazard to health?

REPLY

Yes. Psittacosis, histoplasmosis, and other diseases may be transmitted in this way.

GOUT AND URIC ACID

O. B. writes: Is arthritis caused by too much uric acid?

REPLY

Yes—gouty arthritis.

OLIVE OIL AND STONES

H. K. writes: Is the use of olive oil helpful in gallstones?

REPLY

Olive oil stimulates the gall bladder to contract and force bile into the intestinal tract. This is helpful when the structure is sluggish and needs a boost. But the treatment may backfire if increased activity aggravates an infection or pushes out a stone, causing colic.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Two gabby matrons in a New England town were gossiping endlessly on a party-line telephone, when they were suddenly interrupted by the unmistakable sound of a receiver being slammed down on the hook. "Well, how do you like that?" snorted one of the talkers indignantly. "Somebody's hung up on us!"

A customer beckoned the bartender in a Las Vegas gaming room. "Can you change a fifty dollar bill?" he inquired. "My wife's playing the slot machines." "Sure thing," nodded the bartender. "How do you want it?"

"Humph," mused the customer, "Shall we say two bucks in quarters — and the rest in drinks?"

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Three years ago, Fidel Castro sat in the Sierra Maestra writing. Overhead, the big pines flicked their branches at the trade wind. In the woods, the little band of bearded revolutionaries crouched around the fires. Castro wrote his credo for Cuba in pencil, and handed it to his American friend, Andrew St. George.

Mr. St. George was a writer for Coronet. It was he who induced Fidel to tell America and the world what Cuba would be like when Castro assumed power. It was the only magazine article ever written by Castro, and is now reprinted in a book called "Fabulous Yesterday."

Excerpts:

"The single word most expressive of our aim and spirit is simply — freedom. First of all and most of all, we are fighting to do away with dictatorship in Cuba and to establish the foundations of genuine representative government.

"To replace the unconstitutional Batista regime, we will set up a provisional government to be nominated by a special convention made up of the delegates of our various civic organizations. Once appointed, the provisional government's chief task will be to prepare and conduct truly honest general elections within twelve months.

"The question has presented itself whether I aspire to the presidential office of this provisional government or the elected government which will succeed it. The truth is that, quite apart from my personal reluctance to enter the presidential competition so soon, our constitution, as it now stands, would prohibit it. Under its age requirements I am, at 31, far too young to be eligible for the presidency, and will remain so, for another ten years.

"We do have, however, a number of program points which might serve as a basis for action by the provisional government. They are the following:

1. Immediate freedom of all political prisoners.
2. Full and untrammeled freedom of public information.
3. Re-establish for all citizens the personal and political rights set forth in our much-ignored constitution.
4. Wipe out corruption in Cuban public life.
5. Sponsor an intensive campaign against illiteracy.
6. Land reform, but we will support no bill which does not provide for the just compensation of expropriated owners.
7. Speedy industrialization of our national economy and the raising of employment levels.

"Apart from political misconceptions about my own ambitions and those of our movement—we have been often accused of plotting to replace military dictatorship with revolutionary dictatorship — nothing has been so frequently misunderstood as our economic program. Let me say for the record that we have no plans for the expropriation or nationalization of foreign investments here . . . Foreign investments will always be welcome and secure here.

"Something must be done about the staggering mass of over one million unemployed who cannot find jobs during eight months out of twelve. They can hope to work only during the four months of the cane harvest. A million unemployed in a nation of six million bespeaks a terrible economic sickness which must be cured without delay, lest it fester and become a breeding ground for communism . . ."

A year and a half ago, Mr. St. George wrote an article entitled: A Revolution Gone Wrong. This was, in effect, the sad awakening of a man who had trusted a cobra. "This is not to say," he wrote, "that Castro and I are no longer fond of each other. The chief of police has orders to turn me loose whenever I'm arrested for taking pictures—six times during February and March . . .

"During the revolution, when dictator Fulgencio Batista was still on top, my reports—and the reports of others—were reprinted time and again and became the rebels' most important publicity. I had freedom to go where I wanted and to write what I pleased. But when the revolution triumphed, its leaders had no further use for foreign newsmen . . .

"Overnight I became an 'imperialist agent' instead of an honored hero of the revolution. Today, newsmen from the other side —Russians, Czechs, Bulgarians, Red Chinese—are inaugurating a new cycle as the 'Heroic Correspondents of Our Anti-Imperialist Struggle.'"

St. George should not feel bad. Others have misjudged Castro. When he swept into Havana, I asked the auxiliary bishop if the revolution was Red. "Ah, no," he said. "The Castros are not Communists, and the people of Cuba would not permit Communism here."

That so? . . .

"If this policy was followed in other Latin-American countries, there would be no danger of Communism. Unfortunately, in many Latin countries, those who have the power to govern, also own the land. So it is difficult to bring about land reform."

"I noticed that you were also giving the farmers checks," I said. "What were they for?"

"They were payments on the use of the forest land and the mountains," Lopez Mateos explained. "Under our Mexican law, the people also own the forest land around them and the mountains. So if the timber is cut or minerals extracted from the mountains they receive a royalty. I was paying them their royalty."

"How often are they paid?"

"Once a year."

Alliance For Progress

President Kennedy's proposed "Alliance For Progress" is aimed at bringing about identical land and social reforms in other Latin-American countries; and since Mexico has been ahead of the Alliance For Progress, I asked President Lopez Mateos whether any of his Latin neighbors had asked Mexico for advice.

"Venezuela and Honduras have asked us for agrarian advisers, and we have sent them," was the reply.

"We will be delighted to share our experiences with any country interested in land reform. This is the best way to prevent Communism."

Lopez Mateos is a former schoolteacher who hasn't let high office go to his head. He still has a sense of humor. "How do you like our toy train?" he asked at one point, referring to the Presidential Special, which is not exactly a toy. When we were about to have our pictures taken, he told the photographer: "Stand back, or all you will get will be our navels."

When I complimented him on how well he looked, he replied: "I wish that were true. But I was reading a Tijuana newspaper the other day which noted that two young statesmen had come on the Latin-American scene at the same time — Janio Quadros of Brazil and Lopez Mateos of Mexico.

"'Now,' said the editorial, 'Quadros has gone and Lopez Mateos has gray hair.'"

Recalling his early career as a schoolteacher, I asked what he was doing about promoting better schools for Mexico.

"Our educational budget is 22 per cent of our entire national expenditure compared with only 6 per cent for the military," he replied.

"I doubt if any other country is spending as much proportionately on education and as little proportionately on the military. I believe we have the smallest army per capita of any country in the world. The fact that we save on the cost of our army is why we can spend money on education and agrarian reform."

The fact that Mexico needs no large army is in itself a tribute to trust in the United States, to the new era of Mexican-American friendship, and to the 1,600 miles of border with not one sentry on guard.

I came away from the interview feeling that Mexico, under Lopez Mateos, would continue to be a leader in the Alliance For Progress despite the much publicized pro-Castro riots in the University of Mexico 18 months ago.

European Market Bright Hope Of The Future

By Joseph Alsop

LONDON

Here in London, as in Paris, you can all but see the future being molded into a wholly new shape.

The outcome is not sure as yet. The hopeful process can be stopped dead in its tracks if Nikita S. Khrushchev manages to bully the Western Allies into retreating at Berlin — which is — precisely why Khrushchev has been trying so hard. Or this process may perhaps be aborted by a final failure of Gen. de Gaulle's Algerian policy or by some major, unforeseen accident of British domestic politics, or by some other peripheral piece of bad luck.

But the fact remains that the British and the six nations of the European Common Market are for the first time negotiating with evident determination to reach eventual agreement. The French have the largest responsibility among the Europeans; and the French leaders who are in charge of the negotiations told this reporter, "This is one time when we cannot afford to fail." Their British counterparts use almost the identical language.

The practical problems the negtiators must solve are thorny in the extreme. It will be very difficult indeed to hammer out the compromises by which Britain will enter the new European association, without absolutely breaking the historic links with the Commonwealth.

Furthermore, even the smallest of the practical problems that have to be solved sometimes have inordinate importance. British imports from Cyprus are a tiny item in pounds sterling, for instance. But if the British cut Cyprus adrift economically, the Soviets will soon see that a good bargain is going begging. And since the Cypriot Communist party is already dangerously strong, the Soviets may then be able to make their bargain, with unpleasant results in the Mediterranean.

Nonetheless, one should not be misled by the difficulty, multiplicity, and importance of the problems that have to be solved or compromised before Britain can enter the European Community. The key facts are that the British want to join at last, and the Europeans, including the often prickly French, very much want the British to join. The will to reach agreements on both sides is a pretty good guarantee that agreement will eventually be reached.

Saying that this event will mold the future into a wholly new shape is a simple statement of fact, containing no trace of exaggeration or hyperbole.

As everyone now recognizes, the formation of the European Common Market was an event of the greatest economic significance. It rapidly promoted an economic forward surge in Europe. By its success, it soon exerted severe pressure on the British to join the club. It is now beginning to put severe pressure on the U. S., as well, to begin thinking about new kinds of world trading relationships.

But as long as Britain stands aside, the effects of the Common Market are bound to be largely limited to the economic sphere. Without Britain, the Common Market is not big enough and diverse enough and representative enough to transform itself into a true European community. Leaders of the six member nations often boast of their success in forming a European community. But in reality, the main political role of the existing Common Market has been to strengthen and cement the informal Franco-German partnership established by President de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer.

Every prospect will be altered, however, if and when Britain joins the European club. Automatically, the enlarged Common Market will then become the germ of a European Community; and it will take a great deal of ill will and bad luck to prevent the germ from growing into a full-scale politically united Europe.

This does not mean that the British decision to join foretells the future formation of a United States of Europe, or anything of that elaborate, Utopian sort. As long as Gen. de Gaulle holds power in Paris, he will bitterly oppose any development that dims the national identity of France. The British, who have a rooted aversion to constitution-making, will carry on where de Gaulle leaves off.

But complex political institutions are not needed to transform the new European economic community into a political community. The needs are simply a sense of common interest and a knowledge of shared purpose, which will lead the member nations to act together in the political sphere as well as in the economic sphere. That is what is important.

If economic union leads on to united European political action, as is only natural, the importance of the result will be difficult to over-state. In Western Europe, fifteen years ago in ruins, not many years ago still bitterly disunited, a wholly new grouping will take shape. And even if this new grouping is not a true nation, it will be a true power.

Thus the count of the earth's giant powers will be increased from two — the U. S. and the U. S. S. R. — to three — America, Europe, and the Soviet Union. Thus the whole world balance will also be altered. Sometimes, in truth, the world balance may be altered in ways that will inconvenience both of the existing giants. But this promised emergence of another giant power within the Western Alliance is still a great and hopeful event.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

LEARNING FAST — Margery Michelmore, the Peace Corps volunteer whose lost postcard from Nigeria catapulted her onto the front pages and out of that country, has now reported to work at her new job in the headquarters of the corps.

While her postcard describing the squalor she found on her mission to Nigeria caused great embarrassment to the Kennedy administration, she seems to have emerged from the crisis with all flags flying.

But she's learning the ways of public life fast. In particular, she says, writing postcards is out! And she's pretty careful about writing letters, as well.

When she reported for work in Washington, she received what she described as a "perfectly wonderful" letter from President Kennedy. But once burned, twice cautious.

She asked her superiors if it would be all right for her to write a letter to the President replying to his. The answer was an unqualified "yes."

Miss Michelmore, replying to questions about her present attitude toward the Peace Corps, said, "I feel more than ever that the Peace Corps is a wonderful thing. I am proud to be able to stay on in this field."

The Tremendous Waste Of Human Lives

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most of us cringe when we hear of a serious airplane accident or an entire family wiped out on the highway. The total number of people killed in such mishaps is insignificant compared with the daily dribble involving one, two, or three persons. For example, from 1941 to 1960, there were 200 catastrophic air transportation accidents in which 3,504 died.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company defines a major catastrophe or disaster as an accident taking 100 or more lives. (Ordinary catastrophes take five to nine lives).

According to the company's statistical bulletin, there have been 23 major disasters in the last two decades. The death toll was in excess of 4,300 lives. Two-fifths were caused by fires and explosions and an equal number resulted from natural disasters including tornadoes, hurricanes, and floods.

The Texas City fire and explosion 14 years ago took a toll of 561. This was our worst disaster, excluding war casualties. The fire in the Boston night club in 1942 was next, with a loss of 492 lives. Then came hurricane Audrey (395) and the explosion of two ammunition ships in Port Chicago, Cal., (322).

Catastrophic accidents of all types in the period 1941-60 cost 27,000 lives. The majority took five to nine lives each but the total never exceeded 2,000 in any year. Fires and explosions led the list with 7,600 deaths, followed by motor vehicle casualties with slightly more than 6,000 fatalities. Tornadoes, floods, and hurricanes rank third, with those involving civil air transportation, fourth.

Catastrophic motor vehicle accidents have increased in the last two decades, going from 916 in 1941-45 to 2,305 in the 1956-60 period. The death toll on highways from noncatastrophic accidents has exceeded 30,000 annually; this is roughly 600,000 deaths in the last two decades.

These figures serve to emphasize the tremendous waste of human lives brought on through accidents. Many are unavoidable but others could have been prevented. A man killed in an auto or drowned in a flood is just as dead as the one who succumbs to cancer, pneumonia, or a heart attack.

RETIREMENT OFFERS SLEEP

E. F. writes: I sleep well at night but after breakfast become drowsy and have to go back to bed for an hour or so. I retired three years ago. Do you think I sleep so much because of having nothing to do?

REPLY

Possibly but having the opportunity to sleep after breakfast is one of the joys of retirement.

KIDNEY DISEASES

V. S. writes: Can you ever get cured of Bright's disease?

REPLY

Yes. Ninety per cent of victims of the usual form of nephritis are cured. But the term, Bright's disease, includes a variety of kidney disorders and the outcome varies with different conditions.

CHLORINE IRRITATION

E. N. writes: Would daily swimming in a chlorinated pool, affect the eyes?

REPLY

Too much chlorine irritates the eyes. There are other causes for eye disorders and swimming could aggravate infections of the lids and tear ducts.

PIGEON DISEASES

E. L. T. writes: My windows, which I keep open all day, have ledges where pigeon droppings cover the sills. Is this a hazard to health?

REPLY

Yes. Psittacosis, histoplasmosis, and other diseases may be transmitted in this way.

GOUT AND URIC ACID

O. B. writes: Is arthritis caused by too much uric acid?

REPLY

Yes—gouty arthritis.

OLIVE OIL AND STONES

H. K. writes: Is the use of olive oil helpful in gallstones?

REPLY

Olive oil stimulates the gall bladder to contract and force bile into the intestinal tract. This is helpful when the structure is sluggish and needs a boost. But the treatment may backfire if increased activity aggravates an infection or pushes out a stone, causing colic.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Two gabby matrons in a New England town were gossiping endlessly on a party-line telephone, when they were suddenly interrupted by the unmistakable sound of a receiver being slammed down on the hook. "Well, how do you like that?" snorted one of the talkers indignantly. "Somebody's hung up on us!"

A customer beckoned the bartender in a Las Vegas gaming room. "Can you change a fifty dollar bill?" he inquired. "My wife's playing the slot machines." "Sure thing," nodded the bartender. "How do you want it?"

"Humph," mused the customer, "Shall we say two bucks in quarters — and the rest in drinks?"

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Three years ago, Fidel Castro sat in the Sierra Maestra writing. Overhead, the big pines flicked their branches at the trade wind. In the woods, the little band of bearded revolutionaries crouched around the fires. Castro wrote his credo for Cuba in pencil, and handed it to his American friend, Andrew St. George.

Mr. St. George was a writer for Coronet. It was he who induced Fidel to tell America and the world what Cuba would be like when Castro assumed power. It was the only magazine article ever written by Castro, and is now reprinted in a book called "Fabulous Yesterday."

Excerpts:

"The single word most expressive of our aim and spirit is simply — freedom. First of all and most of all, we are fighting to do away with dictatorship in Cuba and to establish the foundations of genuine representative government.

"To replace the unconstitutional Batista regime, we will set up a provisional government to be nominated by a special convention made up of the delegates of our various civic organizations. Once appointed, the provisional government's chief task will be to prepare and conduct truly honest general elections within twelve months.

"The question has presented itself whether I aspire to the presidential office of this provisional government or the elected government which will succeed it. The truth is that, quite apart from my personal reluctance to enter the presidential competition so soon, our constitution, as it now stands, would prohibit it. Under its age requirements I am, at 31, far too young to be eligible for the presidency, and will remain so, for another ten years.

"We do have, however, a number of program points which might serve as a basis for action by the provisional government. They are the following:

1. Immediate freedom of all political prisoners.
2. Full and untrammeled freedom of public information.
3. Re-establish for all citizens the personal and political rights set forth in our much-ignored constitution.
4. Wipe out corruption in Cuban public life.
5. Sponsor an intensive campaign against illiteracy.
6. Land reform, but we will support no bill which does not provide for the just compensation of expropriated owners.
7. Speedy industrialization of our national economy and the raising of employment levels.

"Apart from political misconceptions about my own ambitions and those of our movement—we have been often accused of plotting to replace military dictatorship with revolutionary dictatorship — nothing has been so frequently misunderstood as our economic program. Let me say for the record that we have no plans for the expropriation or nationalization of foreign investments here . . . Foreign investments will always be welcome and secure here.

"Something must be done about the staggering mass of over one million unemployed who cannot find jobs during eight months out of twelve. They can hope to work only during the four months of the cane harvest. A million unemployed in a nation of six million bespeaks a terrible economic sickness which must be cured without delay, lest it fester and become a breeding ground for communism . . ."

A year and a half ago, Mr. St. George wrote an article entitled: A Revolution Gone Wrong. This was, in effect, the sad awakening of a man who had trusted a cobra. "This is not to say," he wrote, "that Castro and I are no longer fond of each other. The chief of police has orders to turn me loose whenever I'm arrested for taking pictures—six times during February and March . . .

"During the revolution, when dictator Fulgencio Batista was still on top, my reports—and the reports of others—were reprinted time and again and became the rebels' most important publicity. I had freedom to go where I wanted and to write what I pleased. But when the revolution triumphed, its leaders had no further use for foreign newsmen . . .

"Overnight I became an 'imperialist agent' instead of an honored hero of the revolution. Today, newsmen from the other side —Russians, Czechs, Bulgarians, Red Chinese—are inaugurating a new cycle as the 'Heroic Correspondents of Our Anti-Imperialist Struggle.'"

St. George should not feel bad. Others have misjudged Castro. When he swept into Havana, I asked the auxiliary bishop if the revolution was Red. "Ah, no," he said. "The Castros are not Communists, and the people of Cuba would not permit Communism here."

That so? . . .

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD. — All Rome is talking about Rod Taylor's mad romance with Anita Ekberg. He's crazy for her. Whether the sexy Ekberg returns it, I don't know. I can't believe Anita is in any hurry to marry anyone.

Rod will return after he finishes "Sir Francis Drake," which he's making in Rome, to discuss playing the heavy in "Celebrity" for Jerry Wald. Jerry told me that he sees Taylor as a young Humphrey Bogart. Rod's wanted for Ricky, a real heavy, but I don't agree with Jerry that he's a bogart type.

Elsa Martinelli, who has been hoping to get an annulment from Count Mancinelli-Scotti, to marry Willy Rizzo of Paris Match Magazine, is back in our midst again. She's working at Paramount for Mel Shavelson where she's doing some of the interiors in "The Pigeon That Took Rome."

I talked to Elsa, whom I knew when she first came here as a Universal-International star. She's very much in love with Rizzo, now here for his magazine. I asked her when she is getting married.

"I'm not divorced," she said.

"But you are trying to get an annulment?" I queried.

This she didn't deny or confirm.

When Eddie Ames opens in the West Coast road company of "Carnival," he'll have pretty Susan Watson in the role of Lili. Eddie's been wishing all along he could have the Broadway star, Anna Maria Alberghetti. He couldn't say enough nice things about the way Anna coached him in his role.

Speaking of Anna Maria, she called to tell me she had the thrill of a lifetime when Ingrid Bergman and Ingrid's husband, Lars Schmidt, came back stage to pay her a visit.

"I was so excited, I could hardly say her name," said Anna Maria. "She's been my idol since I was a little girl."

Lars may arrange with David Merrick to take "Carnival" to Paris and Sweden, where he produces so many of our American plays. Anna and Merrick are again on good terms.

How wrong can you be? I said glamorous Rosalind Russell should never play the middle-aged woman from Brooklyn, with the kosher accent in "Majority of One." I'm here to eat my words, and to say I didn't reckon with Roz's ability as a fine actress, one who can play any type role. Fortunately, director Mervyn Leroy had the sense not to pay any attention to what other people said.

I had seen the play in New York with Gertrude Berg and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, and while I don't think Sir Alec Guinness looked as Japanese as Sir Cedric, he's such a good actor, his performance left nothing to be desired.

I thoroughly enjoyed the movie as I did the play, and it teaches a great lesson in tolerance. I recommend it as a must on your list of movies to see.

My favorite gentleman caller of the week was John Clark Gable whose mother, Kay Gable, brought him to see me. Seems John Clark has grown a foot since I saw him last.

He is such a happy, friendly baby, and laughs all the time. He has Clark's dimples, but his hair is growing blonde like Kay's beautiful blonde hair, although Kay doesn't want to admit the baby in any way resembles her.

To call on me, he wore his Paris outfit, a coat and hat sent him by Olivia de Havilland. He had been to see his pediatrician, who pronounces him in perfect health.

I've just heard that Norma Crane, who was Shirley Maclaines girlfriend in "All in a Night's Work," is a secret bride. She has been married since Oct. 19 to write Herb Sargent.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 77 A soldier may lose a high place as quickly as he gains it. In April 1861, Maj. Robert Anderson was a headline hero in the North. Chance had placed him in command of Fort Sumter at Charleston, S.C., when the Secession crisis was fomented.

Unfortunately, the expiring Buchanan administration and the new Lincoln administration failed to reinforce him or replenish his supplies effectively during all of January, February and March. On Saturday, April 13th, some 34 hours after the Rebels began their determined bombardment of Sumter, Anderson raised a flag of truce and discussed terms of surrender. On Sunday, April 14, he evacuated his garrison by steamer to New York.

When all the banquets of honor had been held and the medals and gifts had been bestowed by civilians, the Army gave him a command with the rank of brigadier general, in his home state, Kentucky. After ten weeks without favorable results, Anderson was shifted to the Department of the Cumberland. His tenure there was equally short. On Oct. 8, 1861, the 56-year-old Anderson was superseded by his second in command, a man 15 years his junior who had remained relatively obscure in April, May, June, July, 1861. That was William Tecumseh Sherman, the Ohioan who had been out of the Army, engaged in banking, law and teaching, while Anderson was plodding along in the Army. In the next two years, Sherman's fame was to rise as fast as Anderson's was to decline. The latter was retired from the Army in 1863. He returned to the limelight briefly in 1865, being present when the Stars and Stripes were raised anew over Fort Sumter.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Get too wrapped up in Christmas shopping and, next thing you know, you're liable to be wrapped in bandages.

Persons who end the Christmas buying tour in the hospital — or the cold earth—are pegged by police as "suicidal pedestrians."

They wander in front of moving vehicles, turning the season of joy into a season of sorrow.

Now who says so is Carrie Dickey, national president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Police.

Mrs. Dickey, of Lexington, Ky., says the wives of police officers know because their husbands have told them the suicidal pedestrian makes Christmas the most difficult time of year.

"While keeping people from wandering in front of moving vehicles is primarily a law enforcement problem," she said, "we women definitely can do something about the factors contributing to such accidents."

"The pushing, the shoving, the almost incredible rudeness that becomes commonplace at this time of the year not only takes much of the joy from the joyous season but arouses a strong impulse to retaliate in kind.

"Admittedly some of us do, but most of us keep our resentment locked inside, and leave the store or the bus with our heads full of anything but thoughts for our own safety. That is the frame of mind that produces the spine - chilling screech of brakes that usually signals a season of sorrow for another family."

Mrs. Dickey proposes three C's —courtesy, caution and coffee — to help curb the holiday pedestrian accidents.

She doesn't pretend that any one of the C's will be a cure-all.

"But it would certainly be a blessing in many ways if we all made a special effort to be considerate of those around us during the Christmas season," she said.

Clearings Drop

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bank clearings in the nation's 26 leading cities dropped sharply in the holiday week ended Wednesday but remained well above the year ago level, Dun & Bradstreet Inc. reported today.

Clearings dropped 22.5 per cent to $24,617,886,000 from $31,762,939,000 a week earlier but remained 8.3 per cent above the $22,732,340,000 in the same week last year.

Including parishes and like governmental units, there are 3,098 counties in the United States.

Non-Residents Try To Evade W. Va. Tuition

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Some out-of-state students at West Virginia colleges probably do try to avoid paying higher, non-resident tuition, but it's difficult to get by with, according to the secretary of the State Board of Education.

"I don't think the practice is as prevalent as some legislators have indicated," Baer said Wednesday. His observation followed a legislative subcommittee's order for an investigation.

An interim subcommittee on higher education told Legislative Auditor C. H. Koontz to make a check of enrollment records at West Liberty, Shepherd and Concord Colleges, all three of which are located near the state's borders.

Baer said it would be difficult for most out-of-state students to get away with falsely listing addresses as being in West Virginia because they must submit their high school transcripts to the college of their choice. "When a registrar sees an out-of-state transcript," Baer said, "he immediately is alerted to check the residency of the applicant."

Baer said the only case where some difficulty might arise would occur when a student graduated from a West Virginia high school while his parents were living outside the state.

West Virginia residents are charged $50 per year tuition and non-residents $350 per year. All students pay a $100 registration fee annually.

Baer said that in 1959 the board defined a resident as one whose parents established a permanent home in the state 12 consecutive months immediately prior to a student's registration.

Baer said the number of non-resident students in West Virginia colleges and universities has more than doubled since 1953 and now totals about 6,000 out of a total of 25,000 students.

West Virginia To Consider Point System

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The State Motor Vehicles Department can go ahead and set up a so-called point system for West Virginia motorists to keep close check on habitual violators, the state attorney general's office said Wednesday.

However, an opinion by Asst. Atty. Gen. Claude A. Joyce for Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack Nuckols said the system could not be so devised as to call for automatic suspension or refocation of a driver's license when he compiles a certain number of "demerit" points.

Joyce said it would really be better to set up such a plan by law rather than by regulation, although two states — Kentucky and Washington — and the District of Columbia operate it by regulation. Ohio, California and Nebraska have point systems established by law.

The opinion emphasized that the point system, whereby a motorist would be black - marked for traffic violations, should be used only as a guide for assessing possible penalties. Joyce said it should contain provisions calling for a hearing for a license, a full explanation of charges and right to appeal.

"We fully realize that the point system is not a game to be played but is a serious attempt by authorities to promote traffic safety," Joyce said. "...The point system affords an opportunity to make the driver of a motor vehicle more conscious of his obligation to society."

Nuckols indicated some time ago he would like to set up a point system but asked the attorney general's office first whether he could do it without legislative approval.

3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♠

South put on a real virtuoso performance in his treatment of today's hand. His bidding was highly imaginative, and his play revealed a canniness that completely foiled his adversaries.

North opened with one club and South chose one diamond as his response. This was not in the nature of psychic bid but rather a matter of convenience. Obviously the hand is too good for a single raise in clubs but it does not contain sufficient high cards for a double raise. The temporizing call is therefore the best choice. After North rebid one spade, again a bidding problem was presented. South finally chose two no trump as the least of evils and North carried on to game. Holding a reasonably good heart stopper himself, South felt that North might not be able to proceed in no trump if he raised clubs vigorously.

West opened the nine of spades and declarer made a crafty play when he ducked. Going up with an honor might expose him to the loss of four spades and the ace of hearts. East won with the ten of spades and returned the eight of hearts. If declarer plays low, the hand is lost for when East gets in with the ace of spades another heart return will net three tricks in the suit. But, reading the situation correctly, South went up with the queen and the contract was assured. If West returns a heart it runs to declarer's ten. If he returns anything else, South is assured of at least nine tricks, six clubs, a spade, a heart, and a diamond.

South had the satisfaction of making in succession two winning plays at tricks one and two. He pointed out subsequently that he might have had a somewhat more difficult decision to make if East at trick two had returned the four of hearts.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD. — All Rome is talking about Rod Taylor's mad romance with Anita Ekberg. He's crazy for her. Whether the sexy Ekberg returns it, I don't know. I can't believe Anita is in any hurry to marry anyone.

Rod will return after he finishes "Sir Francis Drake," which he's making in Rome, to discuss playing the heavy in "Celebrity" for Jerry Wald. Jerry told me that he sees Taylor as a young Humphrey Bogart. Rod's wanted for Ricky, a real heavy, but I don't agree with Jerry that he's a bogart type.

Elsa Martinelli, who has been hoping to get an annulment from Count Mancinelli-Scotti, to marry Willy Rizzo of Paris Match Magazine, is back in our midst again. She's working at Paramount for Mel Shavelson where she's doing some of the interiors in "The Pigeon That Took Rome."

I talked to Elsa, whom I knew when she first came here as a Universal-International star. She's very much in love with Rizzo, now here for his magazine. I asked her when she is getting married.

"I'm not divorced," she said.

"But you are trying to get an annulment?" I queried.

This she didn't deny or confirm.

When Eddie Ames opens in the West Coast road company of "Carnival," he'll have pretty Susan Watson in the role of Lili. Eddie's been wishing all along he could have the Broadway star, Anna Maria Alberghetti. He couldn't say enough nice things about the way Anna coached him in his role.

Speaking of Anna Maria, she called to tell me she had the thrill of a lifetime when Ingrid Bergman and Ingrid's husband, Lars Schmidt, came back stage to pay her a visit.

"I was so excited, I could hardly say her name," said Anna Maria. "She's been my idol since I was a little girl."

Lars may arrange with David Merrick to take "Carnival" to Paris and Sweden, where he produces so many of our American plays. Anna and Merrick are again on good terms.

How wrong can you be? I said glamorous Rosalind Russell should never play the middle-aged woman from Brooklyn, with the kosher accent in "Majority of One." I'm here to eat my words, and to say I didn't reckon with Roz's ability as a fine actress, one who can play any type role. Fortunately, director Mervyn Leroy had the sense not to pay any attention to what other people said.

I had seen the play in New York with Gertrude Berg and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, and while I don't think Sir Alec Guinness looked as Japanese as Sir Cedric, he's such a good actor, his performance left nothing to be desired.

I thoroughly enjoyed the movie as I did the play, and it teaches a great lesson in tolerance. I recommend it as a must on your list of movies to see.

My favorite gentleman caller of the week was John Clark Gable whose mother, Kay Gable, brought him to see me. Seems John Clark has grown a foot since I saw him last.

He is such a happy, friendly baby, and laughs all the time. He has Clark's dimples, but his hair is growing blonde like Kay's beautiful blonde hair, although Kay doesn't want to admit the baby in any way resembles her.

To call on me, he wore his Paris outfit, a coat and hat sent him by Olivia de Havilland. He had been to see his pediatrician, who pronounces him in perfect health.

I've just heard that Norma Crane, who was Shirley Maclaines girlfriend in "All in a Night's Work," is a secret bride. She has been married since Oct. 19 to write Herb Sargent.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 77 A soldier may lose a high place as quickly as he gains it. In April 1861, Maj. Robert Anderson was a headline hero in the North. Chance had placed him in command of Fort Sumter at Charleston, S.C., when the Secession crisis was fomented.

Unfortunately, the expiring Buchanan administration and the new Lincoln administration failed to reinforce him or replenish his supplies effectively during all of January, February and March. On Saturday, April 13th, some 34 hours after the Rebels began their determined bombardment of Sumter, Anderson raised a flag of truce and discussed terms of surrender. On Sunday, April 14, he evacuated his garrison by steamer to New York.

When all the banquets of honor had been held and the medals and gifts had been bestowed by civilians, the Army gave him a command with the rank of brigadier general, in his home state, Kentucky. After ten weeks without favorable results, Anderson was shifted to the Department of the Cumberland. His tenure there was equally short. On Oct. 8, 1861, the 56-year-old Anderson was superseded by his second in command, a man 15 years his junior who had remained relatively obscure in April, May, June, July, 1861. That was William Tecumseh Sherman, the Ohioan who had been out of the Army, engaged in banking, law and teaching, while Anderson was plodding along in the Army. In the next two years, Sherman's fame was to rise as fast as Anderson's was to decline. The latter was retired from the Army in 1863. He returned to the limelight briefly in 1865, being present when the Stars and Stripes were raised anew over Fort Sumter.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♠

South put on a real virtuoso performance in his treatment of today's hand. His bidding was highly imaginative, and his play revealed a canniness that completely foiled his adversaries.

North opened with one club and South chose one diamond as his response. This was not in the nature of psychic bid but rather a matter of convenience. Obviously the hand is too good for a single raise in clubs but it does not contain sufficient high cards for a double raise. The temporizing call is therefore the best choice. After North rebid one spade, again a bidding problem was presented. South finally chose two no trump as the least of evils and North carried on to game. Holding a reasonably good heart stopper himself, South felt that North might not be able to proceed in no trump if he raised clubs vigorously.

West opened the nine of spades and declarer made a crafty play when he ducked. Going up with an honor might expose him to the loss of four spades and the ace of hearts. East won with the ten of spades and returned the eight of hearts. If declarer plays low, the hand is lost for when East gets in with the ace of spades another heart return will net three tricks in the suit. But, reading the situation correctly, South went up with the queen and the contract was assured. If West returns a heart it runs to declarer's ten. If he returns anything else, South is assured of at least nine tricks, six clubs, a spade, a heart, and a diamond.

South had the satisfaction of making in succession two winning plays at tricks one and two. He pointed out subsequently that he might have had a somewhat more difficult decision to make if East at trick two had returned the four of hearts.

Woman To Woman

NEW YORK (UPI) — Get too wrapped up in Christmas shopping and, next thing you know, you're liable to be wrapped in bandages.

Persons who end the Christmas buying tour in the hospital — or the cold earth—are pegged by police as "suicidal pedestrians."

They wander in front of moving vehicles, turning the season of joy into a season of sorrow.

Now who says so is Carrie Dickey, national president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Police.

Mrs. Dickey, of Lexington, Ky., says the wives of police officers know because their husbands have told them the suicidal pedestrian makes Christmas the most difficult time of year.

"While keeping people from wandering in front of moving vehicles is primarily a law enforcement problem," she said, "we women definitely can do something about the factors contributing to such accidents."

"The pushing, the shoving, the almost incredible rudeness that becomes commonplace at this time of the year not only takes much of the joy from the joyous season but arouses a strong impulse to retaliate in kind.

"Admittedly some of us do, but most of us keep our resentment locked inside, and leave the store or the bus with our heads full of anything but thoughts for our own safety. That is the frame of mind that produces the spine - chilling screech of brakes that usually signals a season of sorrow for another family."

Mrs. Dickey proposes three C's —courtesy, caution and coffee — to help curb the holiday pedestrian accidents.

She doesn't pretend that any one of the C's will be a cure-all.

"But it would certainly be a blessing in many ways if we all made a special effort to be considerate of those around us during the Christmas season," she said.

Clearings Drop

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bank clearings in the nation's 26 leading cities dropped sharply in the holiday week ended Wednesday but remained well above the year ago level, Dun & Bradstreet Inc. reported today.

Clearings dropped 22.5 per cent to $24,617,886,000 from $31,762,939,000 a week earlier but remained 8.3 per cent above the $22,732,340,000 in the same week last year.

Including parishes and like governmental units, there are 3,098 counties in the United States.

Non-Residents Try To Evade W. Va. Tuition

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Some out-of-state students at West Virginia colleges probably do try to avoid paying higher, non-resident tuition, but it's difficult to get by with, according to the secretary of the State Board of Education.

"I don't think the practice is as prevalent as some legislators have indicated," Baer said Wednesday. His observation followed a legislative subcommittee's order for an investigation.

An interim subcommittee on higher education told Legislative Auditor C. H. Koontz to make a check of enrollment records at West Liberty, Shepherd and Concord Colleges, all three of which are located near the state's borders.

Baer said it would be difficult for most out-of-state students to get away with falsely listing addresses as being in West Virginia because they must submit their high school transcripts to the college of their choice. "When a registrar sees an out-of-state transcript," Baer said, "he immediately is alerted to check the residency of the applicant."

Baer said the only case where some difficulty might arise would occur when a student graduated from a West Virginia high school while his parents were living outside the state.

West Virginia residents are charged $50 per year tuition and non-residents $350 per year. All students pay a $100 registration fee annually.

Baer said that in 1959 the board defined a resident as one whose parents established a permanent home in the state 12 consecutive months immediately prior to a student's registration.

Baer said the number of non-resident students in West Virginia colleges and universities has more than doubled since 1953 and now totals about 6,000 out of a total of 25,000 students.

West Virginia To Consider Point System

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The State Motor Vehicles Department can go ahead and set up a so-called point system for West Virginia motorists to keep close check on habitual violators, the state attorney general's office said Wednesday.

However, an opinion by Asst. Atty. Gen. Claude A. Joyce for Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack Nuckols said the system could not be so devised as to call for automatic suspension or refocation of a driver's license when he compiles a certain number of "demerit" points.

Joyce said it would really be better to set up such a plan by law rather than by regulation, although two states — Kentucky and Washington — and the District of Columbia operate it by regulation. Ohio, California and Nebraska have point systems established by law.

The opinion emphasized that the point system, whereby a motorist would be black - marked for traffic violations, should be used only as a guide for assessing possible penalties. Joyce said it should contain provisions calling for a hearing for a license, a full explanation of charges and right to appeal.

"We fully realize that the point system is not a game to be played but is a serious attempt by authorities to promote traffic safety," Joyce said. "...The point system affords an opportunity to make the driver of a motor vehicle more conscious of his obligation to society."

Nuckols indicated some time ago he would like to set up a point system but asked the attorney general's office first whether he could do it without legislative approval.

Kuwait Moving Toward Federation With Saudi Arabia

By DAVID BISHAI

KUWAIT (UPI)—Gradually but steadily, the oil-rich Sheikhdom of Kuwait is moving toward federation with the oil-rich Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

Such a merger will be strong enough to provide the tiny gulf Sheikhdom with the necessary protection of a bigger and a more powerfu. neighbor.

With independence, and the almost spontaneous threat of engulfment by Iraq Kuwait realized it was not possible for pocket sheikhdoms to be totally independent, particularly when surrounded by powerful neighbors.

Iran is non-Arab and has diplomatic relations with Israel. Iraq has its designs against Kuwait. Saudi Arabia was the logical and practical choice.

Against a determined Iraqi attack Kuwait alone would be defenseless, even with the representative force sent in by the Arab League to replace British troops that came after the Iraqi threats. From Basra in the south of Iraq to the heart of the city of Kuwait, it is slightly more than an hour by car and the road is fine.

An armored column with air cover could start from Basra at midnight and would have secured all strategic points in Kuwait before dawn.

Kuwait does not have an air force and is not likely to have one for some time. Even when it does, it will hardly be a match for the veteran Iraqi air force now equipped with Soviet-made Mig-17 jet fighters.

Kuwait also cannot hope to raise an army of more than 20,000 combat troops. There are less than 150,000 Kuwaitis and the rest of the Sheikhdom's population are Jordanian, Palestinian, Lebanese, Indian, Irani, Iraqi and UAR subjects who outnumber the Kuwaitis two to one. When independence came, and with it the threats from Iraqi Prime Minister Abdel Karim Kassem, Kuwait had an army of 2,000, of which more than half were Iraqis.

Even an army of 20,000 would be no match for Iraq's armed forces.

All this adds impetus to the move toward a federation with Saudi Arabia.

The Kuwaitis and Saudis always have regarded themselves as cousins. When disputes occur among members of either ruling family, the tradition calls for the other side to intervene and attempt a reconciliation.

Kuwaiti ruler Sheikh Abdullah Al Salem Al Sabbah has on several occasions mediated between King Saud and his brother and political foe, Crown Prince and former Premier Emir Feisal. King Saud also mediates in disputes arising between Al Sabbah and other members of his family.

Saud and Al Sabbah also have declared on various occasions their determination to follow a united policy and to defend each other against any aggression. Whenever Al Sabbah or Saud visit each other, the official announcement says the ruler is visiting "his second homeland."

But there are serious problems facing such a federation. The most important is the economic aspect of it. Although both are rich with oil revenues, poverty prevails in Saudi Arabia outside the royal family and the economy of the Saudi state can hardly be called sound.

In Kuwait, it is different. Medical care and education are free for everybody. The state gives each citizen a house to live in at a nominal rent. Nearly every Kuwaiti drives his own car and spends his leave vacationing in Beirut or Cairo. Even mosques in Kuwait are air-conditioned.

No federation between two states though, can be effective unless there is some form of economic unity between them. To leave economic standards with such a gap between them would mean one eventually dominating the other and it usually is the wealthier state that takes over.

Another handicap is the struggle for power in Saudi Arabia. For the moment, Saud is in the saddle, rather firmly. But his authority is seriously challenged by Crown Prince Feisal, with the support of some royal family princes.

Rec Director Takes Post With "Dry" Forces

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The appointment of Robert E. Kresge, 42, Charleston, city recreation director for nearly nine years, as new West Virginia Temperance League superintendent was announced Wednesday.

Kresge will assume the post Jan. 1, succeeding Stanley B. Niles who resigned last June. Kresge, a native of Butler, Pa., said he considered his appointment as "an honor and a responsibility of which I am not worthy."

He said he accepted, however, because the post offers a "chance to lend my energy and talents to whatever will lessen the use" of whisky.

Kresge observed that he has has never before been engaged in any anti-liquor campaigns but realizes he will be among the leaders in the "dry" battle aimed at defeating next November a proposed constitutional amendment aimed at legalizing sale of whisky by the drink in West Virginia.

Forest Land Holds Key To Destiny

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A lumber industry spokesman said Thursday West Virginia's forest lands, in large measure, hold the key to the state's "destiny."

Mortimer B. Doyle, executive vice president of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, also advised participants at a so-called wood utilization conference called by Gov. W. W. Barron to shy away from accepting federal programs that he said would "usurp state responsibilities and opportunities" in the lumbering field.

Doyle made it clear that one of the federal proposals his organization opposes is possible creation of a national park in the New River Gorge area of southern West Virginia.

Wheeling Steel Cuts Quarterly Dividend

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Directors of Wheeling Steel Corp. Wednesday slashed the quarterly dividend on the common stock to 50 from 75 cents a share with a declaration at the reduced rate payable Jan. 2 to holders of record Dec. 8.

William A. Steele, Wheeling chairman and president, said the action was taken to maintain the company's "strong financial position," in the face of a major capital improvement program now in the blueprint stage.

Wheeling's earnings this year are expected to fall below $2 per common share. Last year the company covered its $3 dividend payout for 1960 by 14 cents a share.

For the ninth month ended Sept. 30 this year, Wheeling Steel had net income equal to $1.20 a common share, of which 78 cents was earned in the third quarter.

Sells Mines

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Debardeleben Coal Corp., one of Alabama's largest and oldest coal producing companies, Wednesday sold two of its mines to Peabody Coal Co. of St. Louis. The purchase price was not disclosed but it was believed to involve several million dollars. The affected mines were the Waterside coal mine in Walker County and the Riverbank coal mine in Tuscaloosa County.

Hopes To Say On

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Raymond Clapper said Thursday she had submitted her resignation as cochairman of President Kennedy's Food for Peace Council, but had been asked to reconsider her action.

"I hope to stay on," she added, but told a reporter that in working with a government agency bound by strict rules "the citizens begin to feel completely left out."

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A lumber industry spokesman said Thursday West Virginia's forest lands, in large measure, hold the key to the state's "destiny."

Mortimer B. Doyle, executive vice president of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, also advised participants at a so-called wood utilization conference called by Gov. W. W. Barron to shy away from accepting federal programs that he said would "usurp state responsibilities and opportunities" in the lumbering field.

Doyle made it clear that one of the federal proposals his organization opposes is possible creation of a national park in the New River Gorge area of southern West Virginia.

Wheeling Steel Cuts Quarterly Dividend

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Directors of Wheeling Steel Corp. Wednesday slashed the quarterly dividend on the common stock to 50 from 75 cents a share with a declaration at the reduced rate payable Jan. 2 to holders of record Dec. 8.

William A. Steele, Wheeling chairman and president, said the action was taken to maintain the company's "strong financial position," in the face of a major capital improvement program now in the blueprint stage.

Wheeling's earnings this year are expected to fall below $2 per common share. Last year the company covered its $3 dividend payout for 1960 by 14 cents a share.

For the ninth month ended Sept. 30 this year, Wheeling Steel had net income equal to $1.20 a common share, of which 78 cents was earned in the third quarter.

Sells Mines

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Debardeleben Coal Corp., one of Alabama's largest and oldest coal producing companies, Wednesday sold two of its mines to Peabody Coal Co. of St. Louis. The purchase price was not disclosed but it was believed to involve several million dollars. The affected mines were the Waterside coal mine in Walker County and the Riverbank coal mine in Tuscaloosa County.

Hopes To Say On

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Raymond Clapper said Thursday she had submitted her resignation as cochairman of President Kennedy's Food for Peace Council, but had been asked to reconsider her action.

"I hope to stay on," she added, but told a reporter that in working with a government agency bound by strict rules "the citizens begin to feel completely left out."

PEARL HARBOR--DEC. 7, 1941

Smoke and flames shroud the Naval Air Station following the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

---AND AMERICA ON THE EVE

President Roosevelt, talking from White House several weeks before Pearl Harbor, warns Axis powers that they would enter U. S. waters "at their own peril." He wears armband mourning for his mother.

Japan's special envoy Saburo Kurusu, left, and Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura talk peace as they wait to see Secretary Hull two days before Pearl Harbor.

First Army's mock battle, involving this capture of scout car by cavalry, marked North Carolina maneuvers in October.

Twenty years ago America was still an oasis of peace in a world of war. Hitler's legions were cutting into Russia; France lay prostrate; besieged Britain was gasping with wounds from the air blitz; Japan's armies were spreading over the rice fields of China.

The year, 1941, was drawing to a close. Then on December 7 came the horrible shock that was to end the peace and plunge the nation into war. The Japanese without warning attacked Pearl Harbor.

What was the nation like until that fateful Sunday morning?

For weeks there were portents of things to come. U.S. freighters were rushing lend-lease supplies to the Allies and the torpedoing of the destroyer Kearny in the Atlantic aroused a storm of anger. On Navy Day in October, President Roosevelt reported: "We stand ready in the defense of our nation."

The American people were not entirely at peace among themselves. There were camps of interventionists and isolationists. In Congress, a close battle—a victory by one vote—kept the draft alive. Young men started drifting from CCC camps into army posts.

Despite the rumblings, people were enjoying themselves. They flocked to the fall football games and went to see such films as "Sergeant York," "How Green Was My Valley," and "A Yank in the RAF." The housewife could buy leg of lamb for 27 cents, two pounds of coffee for 45 cents and 10 pounds of potatoes for 29 cents. A New York newspaper advertised five and six rooms houses for $5,000.

Pearl Harbor, and the days just before, are pictured here.

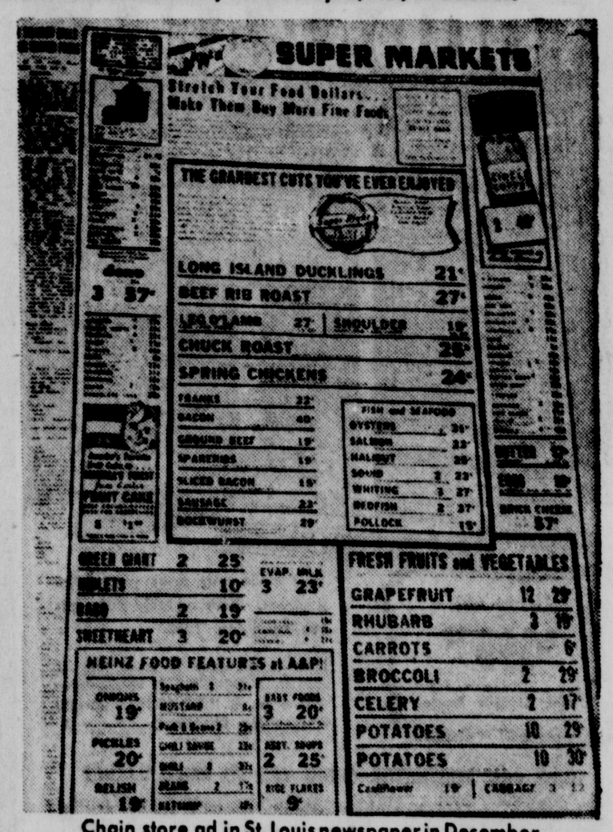
These rugged youths at Civilian Conservation Corps camp in Wisconsin soon found their way into army posts after Pearl Harbor.

An isolationist bloc leader, Charles Lindbergh acknowledges applause at America First rally in Fort Wayne, Ind., in October.

War pictures like "Sergeant York" and "A Yank in the RAF" were popular. Late Gary Cooper, center, portrays York, with buddies, in scene from film about the World War I hero.

Staunch defender of U. S. aid to Britain, Wendell Willkie, who lost 1940 election as Republican candidate for President, addresses freedom rally in New York.

Some fashions adopted a martial look, like this white crepe dinner gown with military jacket.



Chain store ad in St. Louis newspaper in December, 1941. Prices of grocery items speak for themselves.

Personal Income Exceeds $12 Million In Pendleton

FRANKLIN, W. Va.—According to the West Virginia Chamber of Commerce, Pendleton County residents in 1960 received $12,436,000 in personal income for a per capita annual income of $1,537.00. The chamber also reported that retail stores in the county rang up a total of $4,408,000.

The chamber released the figures in its annual Report of Personal Income and Retail Sales in West Virginia. The report includes detailed economic data for all 55 West Virginia counties, 1954-1960.

Earle L. Elmore, managing director of the chamber, said that personal income as used in the report includes wages and salaries, fringe benefits, proprietors' income including net business earnings of farmers, unincorporated enterprises and cooperatives, property income, transfer payments and other income.

Pendleton retailers accounted for .25 per cent of total retail sales in the state last year. Retail trade in Pendleton County has remained stable in the past seven years.

Based on the chamber's county index of retail trade in West Virginia, Pendleton County ranks fifteenth in the state. Since the index is based on a 1947-1949 average of 100 this ranking represents, primarily, the relative degree of increased retail activity in the county since the base period.

Legion Units Make Plans For 1962 Program

MIDLAND — The program for the coming year was discussed recently during a joint meeting of Midland Post 169, American Legion, and its auxiliary unit at the post home.

Legionnaires donated to the Christmas street lighting for the town and to the Christmas treat for children of the community.

The treat is sponsored by organizations here and held in the fire hall.

Commander James Ricker of the legion post, and Mrs. Agnes Roberson, auxiliary president, were in charge of the meeting which was followed by a covered dish supper.

The two units decided to meet once every three months, the next meeting to be held on the fourth Sunday in February.

Miners Hospital Auxiliary Meets

FROSTBURG—Miners Hospital Auxiliary, Inc., met at First Methodist Church with Mrs. Robert Wilson presiding.

A Christmas program was presented under the direction of Miss Mabel Myers. The group participated in the singing carols. "Sleep in Peace, O Holy Baby," was sung by William Plummer. "The Christmas Story" was offered by Mrs. Reford Aldridge.

Mrs. Wilson and her committee submitted reports on medical aid for the aged. A white elephant sale will be conducted at the January business session. There will not be a meeting in December.

Refreshments were served.

Auxiliary To Hold Christmas Party

BARTON — The Ladies Auxiliary to the Barton Hose Co. will hold its Christmas Party Tuesday at 6 p.m., in the form of a turkey dinner. Games will be played and jingle gifts exchanged. The Auxiliary will hold a grocery games party Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the new fire hall.

It is the custom for the president to take the oath of office in Washington, but there is no law to that effect.

Mt. Savage Cub Scouts Plan Projects

MT. SAVAGE — Cub Pack 50, St. George's Episcopal Church, held a charter review and leaders' planning meeting a recent evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rice. Dr. John Dunkle, Frostburg, reviewed the new charter application and commended the pack on projects and progress achieved.

The pack will have three goodwill projects during December. They are collecting toys for the Marines, gathering pine and laurel for the sponsor's Christmas decorations and donating a gift to the pediatrics ward of Sacred Heart Hospital.

The program planned for the December pack meeting on December 18 is "Carol Dramatization". Den 2 will sing and portray "Silent Night,"; Den 3 will be the shepherds playing "Away in a Manger' on flutephones and Den 1 will sing "We Three Kings of the Orient Are." Santa Claus will come to the Christmas party with a gift for each Cub Scout and Boy Scout who has gone from Pack 50 to Troop 50.

Others attending the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long, Stewart Church, Olin Robertson and Joanne Logsdon. The next planning meeting will be held Wednesday, December 13, at 7 p. m. at the home of Howard Rice, committee chairman.

Circle Members To Attend Tea

KEYSER—Several members of Iota Pi and Alpha Alpha Theta chapters, Tau Phi Lambda sorority, Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, are planning to attend a tea sponsored by Iota Epsilon chapter of Cumberland, Sunday.

Mrs. Janet Jean Amtower, chairman of the arrangements committee here, said the event is being held in honor of the new chapter at Oakland. Members interested in attending may contact either Mrs. Lavada Fanto or Mrs. Maureen Marsh.

The next business meeting will be held December 6 at 7:30 p.m. at 119 Center Street with Mrs. Maureen Marsh and Mrs. Phyllis Harman serving as co-hostesses.

Street Yule Display To Be Lighted

MOOREFIELD — Moorefield's community lights for Christmas street decorations will be turned on Saturday at 7 p. m., according to L. L. McConnell, president of the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company, and Jan Schmutz, commander of the CAP squadron.

Firemen have been working for the past ten days assembling the strings of lights, installing permanent cables and making decorations. They are being assisted by the Old Fields Farm Women's Club and others. The CAP squadron will erect and decorate the community tree in front of the Presbyterian Church.

A ceremony will be held for the throwing of the switch to turn on the lights, massed this year from the corner of Winchester and Main Streets. Santa Claus will be present to give candy to all children in attendance.

Barton Personals

Mrs. Alda Green, Butcher Run, is a medical patient in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

Mrs. Richard Keyes Jr. and Mrs. Robert Keyes visited Robert Keyes, a medical patient at Baker VA Center, Martinsburg.

Calvary Church In Keyser To Mark 58th Anniversary

KEYSER — Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church has completed plans for the observance of its fifty-eighth anniversary.

Open house is scheduled for Saturday from 3 to 7 p. m. at both the church and parsonage. Services will be conducted Sunday at 11 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. with Dr. W. A. Wilt, Annville, Pa., and Dr. J. Paul Gruver, Staunton, Va., as speaker.

Dr. Wilt was pastor of the local church from 1916 to 1928 and led the congregation in the building of the present church building in 1922. Dr. Gruver was pastor during 1931-34.

The Adult Choir and the Men's Chorus will sing for the morning service. The Youth Choir and Children's Choir will sing for evening devotions. Rev. Millard R. Floyd, pastor, will be in charge and conduct the services.

Plans are underway by the board of trustees to install a complete new heating system in the church in the near future. An architect will be employed to draw up plans for a new unit to the educational building.

According to Rev. Floyd, "The church school is 'busting at the seams' in the children's and youth departments, and one adult class is now meeting in the recreation room of the parsonage." A year ago the educational building was remodeled to secure more space for these departments at a cost of $15,000, but this is proving inadequate to take care of the current needs, he said.

The new parsonage was built in 1958 during the pastorate of Rev. Robert L. Bridgers.

Announce Birth

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Lavin, Mt. Savage, a daughter, Tuesday in Miners Hospital.

Fire Auxiliary Meets At Shaft

FROSTBURG — The Shaft Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary met a recent evening, at which time the following were chosen to attend the District 16 Christmas party December 11: Della Wade, Simone Buskirk, Clara Blake, Mildred Landefeld and Adah Philpot.

Plans were made for another party December 17 in the new fire hall at 6 p. m. Mrs. Wade, chairman, will be assisted by Ada Philpot, Gertrude Carder, Muriel McNeil. The annual jingle party will follow dinner.

Mrs. Janet Jean Amtower, chairman of the arrangements committee here, said the event is being held in honor of the new chapter at Oakland. Members interested in attending may contact either Mrs. Lavada Fanto or Mrs. Maureen Marsh.

The next business meeting will be held December 6 at 7:30 p.m. at 119 Center Street with Mrs. Maureen Marsh and Mrs. Phyllis Harman serving as co-hostesses.

Street Yule Display To Be Lighted

MOOREFIELD — Moorefield's community lights for Christmas street decorations will be turned on Saturday at 7 p. m., according to L. L. McConnell, president of the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company, and Jan Schmutz, commander of the CAP squadron.

Firemen have been working for the past ten days assembling the strings of lights, installing permanent cables and making decorations. They are being assisted by the Old Fields Farm Women's Club and others. The CAP squadron will erect and decorate the community tree in front of the Presbyterian Church.

A ceremony will be held for the throwing of the switch to turn on the lights, massed this year from the corner of Winchester and Main Streets. Santa Claus will be present to give candy to all children in attendance.

Calvary Church In Keyser To Mark 58th Anniversary

KEYSER — Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church has completed plans for the observance of its fifty-eighth anniversary.

Open house is scheduled for Saturday from 3 to 7 p. m. at both the church and parsonage. Services will be conducted Sunday at 11 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. with Dr. W. A. Wilt, Annville, Pa., and Dr. J. Paul Gruver, Staunton, Va., as speaker.

Dr. Wilt was pastor of the local church from 1916 to 1928 and led the congregation in the building of the present church building in 1922. Dr. Gruver was pastor during 1931-34.

The Adult Choir and the Men's Chorus will sing for the morning service. The Youth Choir and Children's Choir will sing for evening devotions. Rev. Millard R. Floyd, pastor, will be in charge and conduct the services.

Plans are underway by the board of trustees to install a complete new heating system in the church in the near future. An architect will be employed to draw up plans for a new unit to the educational building.

According to Rev. Floyd, "The church school is 'busting at the seams' in the children's and youth departments, and one adult class is now meeting in the recreation room of the parsonage." A year ago the educational building was remodeled to secure more space for these departments at a cost of $15,000, but this is proving inadequate to take care of the current needs, he said.

The new parsonage was built in 1958 during the pastorate of Rev. Robert L. Bridgers.

Piedmont Presbyterian Dedication Set Sunday

PIEDMONT — The Piedmont Presbyterian Church will dedicate the renovated sanctuary on Sunday at the 11 a.m. service, Rev. Robert M. Campbell, pastor, announces.

This marks the completion of the second major step in the church's construction program since 1956 when the educational building was erected.

The Board of Deacons appointed two committees including the building committee comprised of Robert E. Kimmel Jr., chairman, Robert C. Kilroy, Carleton P. Bell, Foster Daniels, Donald Knotts, Q. J. Baughman, R. Calvin Arnold Jr., Albert Holler, John A. Price, Edward R. Barnard, Victor Harvey, William B. Smith, Jr., Gerald McCombs and Elmer J. Shaver.

The finance committee includes Norman B. Baughman, chairman, Howard E. Hutchinson, Ernest C. Hitt, W. Rex Chilcote, Dr. James H. Wolverton Jr., James E. McCutcheon, William G. McIntyre, W. Harold Fredlock, V. Browne Kooken, Joseph Sarfino, James Chapman, Arnold Fink, George Robertson, John Dranley, Dr. Paul R. Wilson, and Dr. Robert W. Bess Sr. The chairman of the Board of Deacons, C. Bonner Hardegan Jr., was ex-officio member of both committees.

Plans for the work were approved by the congregation and a campaign was held for pledges to the building fund. The work was started June 19.

The church now is completely new from the main entrance hall to the balcony and the ceiling of the sanctuary. There is a new tile floor in the entrance hall. New doors to the assembly room and the two offices off the assembly room have been provided. New stairways of a safer design with iron railings lead to the sanctuary entrance and the balcony. A beamed type of ceiling replaces the old ceiling. Eight cathedral type lanterns provide light for the sanctuary.

The floors of the landings, the sanctuary entrance, the aisles, the pulpit, and the balcony have been carpeted. The floor of the sanctuary is hardwood in a parquet design. There are two blocks of pews with a center aisle and two side aisles.

The pulpit has a separate reading desk to the right of the congregation and a pulpit to the left. A new communion table is prominently located on the pulpit.

Choir stalls have been provided at both sides of the pulpit with the organ console at the left of the congregation.

Appropriate symbols appear on the two doors to the chancel, the lectern, and the pulpit. Two stained glass windows in the wall under the balcony bear the seal of the Presbyterian Church in the United States in which a dove symbolizes the Holy Spirit descending upon a shield which bears a star at the top and figures of a burning bush and a shining light at the bottom.

The wood work is light oak, the walls are sandalwood and the panel back of the Communion table is light blue with gold emblems and the carpet is red.

Representatives of the church who supervised the work were C. Bonner Hardegan Jr., chairman of the Board of Deacons and Robert E .Kimmel Jr., chairman of the building committee.

Four Dens Are Organized By Cub Pack In Frostburg

FROSTBURG — Cub Pack 44, sponsored by Hill Street School P.T.A., held its monthly meeting in the school auditorium recently. W. E. Lawyer, Cumberland magician, was guest of honor and Den 3, under the supervision of Mrs. Glyn Geis, presented the skit.

Taking part were Thomas Langley, Dixon Tranum, Edward Geis, Gary Hanna, Ronald Conway and William Bernard.

Four dens have been organized and they are: Den 1—Mrs. Clarice Neighbor, den mother; George Broadwater, Randy Grimes, Gregory Groves, Charles Neighbor, Keith Neighbor, Gary Shurg and Russell Wolfe; Den 2—Mrs. Edith Plummer, den mother, Stephen Durr, Mark McKenzie, Thomas Plummer, Robert Simpson, and Dean Wiland; Den 3—Mrs. LaVerne Geis, den mother, Dixon Tranum, Thomas Langley, Gary Hanna, William Bernard, Ronald Conway and Edward Geis; Den 4 —Mrs. Anna Harden, den mother, Edward Harbel, David Harden, Brent Ritchie, Glenn Sperry and Gary Warne.

The following boys were admitted into the pack as new members and received their Bobcat pins: Thomas Plummer, Gary Shurg, Keith Neighbor, Stephen Durr, and Randy Grimes. Den 3 won the Attendance Banner. Awards were as follows: Silver Arrow for Wolf Badge—Gary Hanna and Brent Ritchie; Gold Arrow for Bear Patch — Charles Neighbor.

Officers for the Pack are Melvin Dye, cubmaster; Charles Neighbor, assistant cubmaster; Leonard Ritchie, treasurer; Robert Harden, achievement chairman; Glenn Hanna, pack chairman; and Glyn Geis, institutional representative.

The next executive meeting will be held December 7 and will be a Charter Review with John Dunkle. It was announced that each cub should bring either a new or used toy to be given to the Family Service group for distribution during the Christmas holidays.

To Cut Ceiling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Small Business Administration (SBA) announced Thursday that its loan ceiling will be cut temporarily from $350,000 to $200,000 except for defense-oriented industries. The move is effective Friday.

Administrator John E. Horne said substantial increases in applications since February has necessitated the step. He reported that the increased loan activity has made a sizable dent in the agency's revolving fund.

Suit Is Filed To Disqualify City Manager

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—A Clarksburg couple filed suit in Circuit Court Thursday challenging City Council's right to appoint an out-of-state resident as city manager. The suit could have statewide repercussions.

The declaratory judgment petition by E. E. (Chick) Evans and Rose Linda Evans said a section of the city charter permitting such appointments violates the state Constitution.

It cited Section 4 of Article IV which provides that "No person, except citizens entitled to vote, shall be elected or appointed to any State, county or municipal office." The same article said no person may vote unless he has lived for one year in the state and 60 days in the county.

Clarksburg's charter provides that "At the time of appointment, the city manager need not be a resident of the city or state, but thereafter he must be a resident of the city."

The Evans asked Harrison County Circuit Judge Karl B. Kyle to declare the charter provision unconstitutional.

City Council recently appointed Lewis B. Shallcross of Scotts Plains, N. J., as city manager to succeed Orville F. Over who is moving to Battle Creek, Mich., as city manager. Shallcross has not yet taken over the job.

A number of other West Virginia cities also have appointed out-of-staters as city managers, some of whom might be affected by the suit.

The Evans' suit climaxed a long - standing factional dispute here over the merits of hiring local persons as opposed to out-of-state residents as city manager.

WESTERNPORT — Mrs. May Adams, Philos Avenue, who has been a patient at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, is convalescing at St. Peter's Rectory, where she is employed.

There are more than 35,000 swimming pools in the United States.

Ike's Angus Entered In Show

The animal belongs to former President Eisenhower, who also had a blue ribbon entry in the senior bull calf division.

West Virginia Sales Tax Rate Might Be Retained

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. W. W. Barron was reported Thursday to have decided he must ask the Legislature to retain the "temporary" 3 per cent sales tax rate, scheduled to revert to 2 per cent next June 30.

The alternative, informed sources said, would be to eliminate the new medical care for the aged program and the administration's public works program to provide work for jobless family heads.

Unless the sales tax is retained at its present rate through the fiscal year starting next July 1, or the medicare and public works programs are dropped, the 1962-63 budget will be about $10 million out of balance.

The "reluctant" decision to ask for a continuance of the 3 per cent consumers sales tax — voted by the Legislature last January—was reportedly made at Barron's conference Wednesday with Democratic leaders of the Senate and House.

An informant said the situation may change by the end of December when Barron issues his formal call of the 30-day budget session starting Jan. 10, by which time later revenue estimates will be available. But as of now, the leadership sees no alternative to seeking continuance of the 3 per cent sales tax.

Before completing details of the administration's program, Barron also plans to hold another "non-Partisan Citizens' Conference" Dec. 15.

It was also reported that Barron plans to include in the "call" what amounts to an item permitting almost unrestricted introduction of proposed amendments to the State Constitution.

Among those reported ready for introduction is one to allow sheriffs to serve successive terms. Others are expected to be proposed by the state Commission on Constitutional Revision.

The state program of medical care for the aged, financed partly by the federal government, is already suffering financial troubles. A cut-back in benefits was announced only Wednesday, and it will expire completely unless some means is found to finance it next year.

Barron also wants to expand the public works program to provide jobs for the unemployed who do not qualify for work under the present federal-state program, designed mainly to help unemployed fathers.

Frostburg State Teachers Quint Loses Opener To Shepherd, 77-59

Everly, Dean Head Attack In Rams Win

Victors Score 33 Goals; Thompson, Lauder Garner 28

Shepherd College's basketball team opened its season on a winning note last night by turning back Frostburg State Teachers College by the score of 77-59 at Frostburg.

The Rams jumped off to a 7-0 lead before Roy Sigler scored from the charity line for the Bobcats and held the upper hand throughout the contest.

The West Virginians collected a total of 33 field goals and meshed 11 of 19 free throws.

Wayman Everly and Roscoe Dean, former Romney High player, sparked the Rams' offensive with 22 and 19 points, respectively, while Scott Douglass garnered 13 points and Bill Wills had eleven to his credit.

Jim Thompson headed Frostburg's scorers with 15 tallies while Capt. George Lauder was the runner-up with 13.

In their initial start of the season, the Bobcats scored 21 goals from the field and converted 17 of 27 shots at the free throw line.

Dean and George Connolly, Frostburg center, fouled out.

Shepherd held a 35-25 lead at halftime.

Royals Score Over Celtics

Cincinnati Tops Boston, 133-130

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—A determined Cincinnati Royals team, led by Oscar Robertson and Jack Twyman, overtook the overconfident Boston Celtics Thursday night to defeat the National Basketball Association defending champions, 133-130.

The Celts and Royals tangled on the "neutral" Rhode Island Auditorium court here in a game that saw the lead change hands four times in the last 3½ minutes of play.

Robertson was top scorer for the Royals and for the game with 33 points while teammate Twyman notched 30.

Minors Pass Bonus Rule To Halt Wild Spending

Back Measure 21-1; Makes Untried Kids Eligible For Draft

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Baseball tightened its purse strings and took the biggest step yet toward eliminating extravagant payments to untried youngsters Thursday when the minor leagues approved a new bonus rule by an overwhelming 21-to-1 vote.

The rule automatically will be written into baseball law if approved by the major leagues at their meeting in Miami Beach later this week, and although clubs like the Dodgers, Giants and Angels are against the proposal, it is expected to pass.

Under the present rule, which actually amounts to no rule at all, major league clubs shelled out upwards of $8-million this year in bonuses to young player prospects throughout the land.

The rule which was approved by the minors Thursday reduces the draft price on first-year players from $12,000 to $8,000. That in itself wouldn't necessarily discourage bonus spending, but there are added stipulations to the proposal which most certainly would.

One of those stipulations is that a major league club would be permitted to farm out only one first-year player and even he would count in the club's player limit. No other first-year bonus players could be farmed out until all other major league clubs had a chance to claim him at the $8,000 waiver price.

And all players farmed out after going through this waiver process could not be recalled until after the next draft.

In effect, the new rule would make it a tremendous risk for any club to shell out lavish bonuses to kids fresh off the sandlots and the college campuses.

Salem Tigers Beat Shenandoah ,85-64

SALEM, W. Va. (UII) — The Salem Tigers opened their basketball season Thursday night with an 85-64 victory over Shenandoah (Va.) College.

Harold Smith had 20 points to lead four Salem players in double figures. Cecil Parkins got 18, Joe Craig 11 and John Prichett 10. Irwin Dieterle led Shenandoah with 18 followed by Jerry Spadetti with 15 and Al Trombetta with 13.

Al Blatnik Will Quit Coaching

WEST LIBERTY, W. Va. (UPI) — Al Blatnik is stepping down as head football coach at West Liberty State College to devote more time to his duties as athletic director.

Blatnik said Thursday George Kovalick, his former assistant, would take over as head coach.

Kovalick, 38, and Blatnik were high school teammates at Bridgeport, Ohio. Both later coached at that school.

College Track Coaches Favor New Federation

NCAA Threatens To Boycott AAU

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association and the college track coaches took turns Thursday battering away at the Amateur Athletic Union.

First, the NCAA threatened to boycott AAU events unless it is given more power over amateur sports.

Later, the National Collegiate Track Coaches Association proposed a new federation to rule over track and field affairs in the United States, now governed by the AAU.

AAU Will Fight

"They want either to destroy the AAU, or make it so impotent it can't operate," said AAU President N.J. Barack. "If the AAU is ever going to die, it's going to die fighting."

Barack said a boycott as threatened by the NCAA would prevent development of athletes to help America win the cold war propaganda battle of the Olympis and other international competition.

The AAU president, who is rec-Ohio, said this sort of action by the NCAA would "stifle competition just when competition is needed in order to develop athletes for international events. The American people will not put up with this attitude."

The AAU is holding its annual confention here.

Proposes New Setup

Don Canham, Michigan coach and executive vice president of the college track coaches, said in Ann Arbor, Mich., he would present a statement about the proposed track federation to the AAU convention this weekend.

As outlined by Canham, the federation would be similar to the body already proposed by college basketball coaches, dividing control of teams for international competition among several organizations instead of leaving it as it is now, centered in the AAU.

Players Seek Two All-Star Games In 1962

American League Undecided On Plan

MIAMI (AP)—The major league players asked the club owners Thursday for two All-Star games again in 1962 after voting overwhelmingly in favor of the dream doubleheader, 491-49.

The National and American league executives, who will meet in separate sessions Friday promied to give their decisions to the players' committee, represented by Gene Woodling of Washington, Bob Friend of Pittsburgh, Judge Robert Cannon of Milwaukee and Frank Scott of New York.

Cannon is the players' legal advisor and Scott is the manager of their central office.

The National League reportedly was in favor of two All-Star games after exacting a promise from the players to co-operate in the scheduling of twi-night doubleheaders in 1962.

"Right now I would say it is nip and tuck," said Woodling. "The National League is in favor but the American League is undecided."

Should the two-game spectacle, begun in 1959, be continued the first game will be played in Washington on July 10 and the other in Chicago's Wrigley Field on July 30.

The second All-Star game would bring an additional $225,000 in radio and TV money.

The players, in a private meeting, voted to increase their pension benefits by about $50 a month for five-year men to about $125 a month for 20-year men. The players also voted to include all managers, dating back to 1947, who previously had been ineligible.

The new plan would include such former managers as Frankie Frisch, Rogers Hornsby, Leo Durocher, Joe Cronin, Charlie Grimm, Bucky Harris, Ben Chapman, Eddie Dyer, Billy Southworth and Muddy Ruel. Benefits also would be based on their years as players. Hornsby, for instance, becomes eligible to receive the full benefits for 20 years service as a player, coach and manager. That amounts to $650 a month when he becomes 65.

The players also agreed to make all who were active in 1952 beneficiaries of the pension increase. This group, according to Scott, numbers 111.

The increased benefits range from $175 a month for five-year players at age 50 to $350 a month for playes with 20 years of service. If the player waits until he is 65 to collect his benefits he will receive $300 a month if he spent five years in the majors, $400 if he was a 10-year man and $650 as a 20-year player.

Patterson Scoffs At 10-1 Odds

Ingo, 4-1 Underdog, Knocked Out Floyd

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

TORONTO (AP) — It was 2½ years ago when heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson was stopped in a seven-knockdown third round by Ingemar Johansson, but the debacle still burns in his mind like it only happened yesterday.

So it was no surprise when the 26-year-old champion disagreed with some critics who refer to challenger Tom McNeeley Jr., as a palooka and a humpty-dumpty heading for a quick fall.

"I have high respect for him," said Patterson Thursday when asked for his opinion of his Monday night title opponent at Maple Leaf Gardens. "He is big and strong and his record shows no one has beaten him yet."

What about the 10-1 odds in the champ's favor?

"I'm not interested in odds," replied Patterson, who entered his final day of heavy training. "Remember Johansson in the first fight? That was the only fight I've ever had when I went in looking for a quick knockout. I got knocked out myself."

The big Swede was a 4-1 underdog the night he dethroned Patterson in New York, June 26, 1959. Patterson became the first heavyweight champion to regain the crown when he knocked Ingo cold in the fifth round the following year. Then last March 13 in Miami Beach, in his rubber bout with Johansson, Floyd came back after two knockdowns in the first round to flatten Ingo in the sixth.

For the 24-year-old challenger from Arlington, Mass., the champ said he plans to weigh between 189 and 192 pounds.

Pipers Top Steers

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Pipers held on to their first place spot in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball League Thursday night with a 109-102 win over the Kansas City Steers. The victory gave the Pipers a 10-5 record.

Rookie Rossi Johnson of the Pipers made six straight outside shots in the third period to pace them to an 81-70 lead in the third period. Captain Roger Taylor led Cleveland's scorers with 26 points while Barnhill added 18 and Jack Adams had 17.

West Virginia Plays Indians In Cage Opener

King Now Uncertain About "Red-Shirting"

By JOHN T. KADY
United Press International

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia's basketball opener here Saturday night against William & Mary is "a natural from a psychological standpoint," Coach George King said Thursday.

"The boys have in mind what happened last March," said King. He referred to the semifinals of the Southern Conference Tournament in Richmond, Va., when William & Mary trounced the Mountaineers 88-76.

"I don't think I'll have much to do to get them ready for this one," King mused.

The Mountaineers are "pretty anxious" for some game competition, he added.

"You know, it's been a long and strenuous practice. It gets tiring for the boys just bumping heads with each other."

Tough Without Cohen

King said it gets to a point where "they know each other's moves so well, they anticipate them."

William & Mary, despite the loss of 6-foot-7 center Jeff Cohen, is still expected to be tough.

Three regulars are back from last season—6-foot-6 Kirk Gooding, Roger Bergey and Kenny Roberts.

3 To Be Red-Shirted

King said Thorn and Jimmy McCormick would start at guards, Dave Shuck at center and Kenny Ward and Paul Miller at forwards.

He also said he now tentatively plans to hold sophomores Bill Maphis, Mike Barger and Bob Camp out of action this season. King said it is not definite yet that he will "red-shirt" them although they will not suit up for Saturday's game.

"If we feel after the first game that we can use one or more of them, we'll certainly bring them back," King said.

The Mountaineers' second game will be against VMI in the Charleston Civic Center Tuesday.

KEYSER High School leads Ridgeley, 6 to 5, in championships won as the Potomac Valley Conference opens its 25th basketball campaign tonight.

Piedmont has won four titles, Parsons, no longer a member of the circuit, has finished on top thrice, Romney and Moorefield, twice each, and the West Virginia School for the Deaf, Beall and Davis once each.

Nineteen schools are in the race for the 1961-62 title.

A PROPOSAL to change the scoring of duckpin bowling, offered earlier this season at a meeting of officials of The Duckpin Bowling Council and the National Duckpin Congress, has run into a storm of protest.

Basically, the system would double your score on marks and 10-count frames. Hence a perfect score was to be 600 instead of 300.

Proponents of the system claim something is needed to make the duckpin game more attractive. They reason that since most sports are turning toward the offense or greater scoring, duckpin bowling should do the same.

Little effort is being expended to "sell" the new scoring system. And reaction from the bowlers is virtually all negative.

It seems that bowlers do not want a score which they did not earn.

THE HOT STOVE Baseball League, one of the most interesting of the circuits operating here, may add more teams by the time the 1962 season rolls around.

LaVale has made inquiries about entering the 1962 race and several other promoters have shown an interest in the circuit.

Ten teams started and finished the 1961 season, the eleventh year of operation.

DURING the special antlerless deer season of three days in mid-November, a Somerset county (Md.) hunter shot a large doe deer bearing Maryland ear tag number 86.

The Game and Inland Fish Commission records show that this deer was live-trapped and ear-tagged at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Harford county and released on a farm in Somerset county on March 8, 1950.

This elderly doe, at least 11 years of age, was shot about five miles from where it was released.

This longevity is a record in the department files and is very unusual for deer in the wild, according to Chester M. Kerns, chief of game management.

TWO former Romney High School athletes coached undefeated high school football teams this year.

Don Maphis' Clarke County eleven of Berryville, Va., was 10-0 and Roger Parker's Romney High Pioneers posted a 9-0 record.

Other records for the 1961 season include:

Handley, Winchester, Va., coached by Eddie Seibert, Fort Hill grad, 8-1-1, Hedgesville 5-1-2, Boonsboro 7-2, Shepherdstown 4-2, Waynesboro, Pa., 5-5, James Wood, Winchester, 4-5, Charles Town 2-5-1, Harpers Ferry 1-6-2 and Musselman 1-6, Parsons 2-7 and Mountaineer of Thomas 1-8.

BASKETBALL officials' fees have been increased for the 1961-62 season in the tri-state area.

The arbiters will receive an increase of $1.50 over the rate of last season.

For teams from schools with an enrollment of 115 or more in the upper three grades the fee will be $12.50 per game instead of $11 as charged last season. This applies to all WMI League games.

For schools under 115 enrollment the fee is being upped from $8.50 to $10 per game.

The officials receive seven cents a mile additional for traveling.

KENNETH BABCOCK, who turns out good soccer teams at Frostburg State, should feel pleased now that Howard University of Washington is the Atlantic regional champion in the NAIA's small college eliminations.

The Bobcats gave Howard one of its toughest battles before going down 2-1 at Frostburg, October 14.

Udall Says Draft Time For Marshall To Show Good Faith

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall said Thursday he regards the National Football League draft session as the time for owner George Preston Marshall of the Washington Redskins to show his good faith that he intends to try to hire Negro football players.

Udall was asked at a news conference how much time Marshall has in which to hire Negro players under a Udall notice that this must be done if the Redskins are to play their games in the new stadium on National Park Service land here. The Secretary replied: "I don't think there is any thought other than that the draft is the showdown. We have been proceeding on the basis that Mr. Marshall's representations of some time ago were made in good faith. We mean business and believe he knows we mean business.

"The place for him to show his colors is on the draft."

Victors Score 33 Goals; Thompson, Lauder Garner 28

Shepherd College's basketball team opened its season on a winning note last night by turning back Frostburg State Teachers College by the score of 77-59 at Frostburg.

The Rams jumped off to a 7-0 lead before Roy Sigler scored from the charity line for the Bobcats and held the upper hand throughout the contest.

The West Virginians collected a total of 33 field goals and meshed 11 of 19 free throws.

Wayman Everly and Roscoe Dean, former Romney High player, sparked the Rams' offensive with 22 and 19 points, respectively, while Scott Douglass garnered 13 points and Bill Wills had eleven to his credit.

Jim Thompson headed Frostburg's scorers with 15 tallies while Capt. George Lauder was the runner-up with 13.

In their initial start of the season, the Bobcats scored 21 goals from the field and converted 17 of 27 shots at the free throw line.

Dean and George Connolly, Frostburg center, fouled out.

Shepherd held a 35-25 lead at halftime.

Cannon is the players' legal advisor and Scott is the manager of their central office.

The National League reportedly was in favor of two All-Star games after exacting a promise from the players to co-operate in the scheduling of twi-night doubleheaders in 1962.

"Right now I would say it is nip and tuck," said Woodling. "The National League is in favor but the American League is undecided."

Should the two-game spectacle, begun in 1959, be continued the first game will be played in Washington on July 10 and the other in Chicago's Wrigley Field on July 30.

The second All-Star game would bring an additional $225,000 in radio and TV money.

The players, in a private meeting, voted to increase their pension benefits by about $50 a month for five-year men to about $125 a month for 20-year men. The players also voted to include all managers, dating back to 1947, who previously had been ineligible.

The new plan would include such former managers as Frankie Frisch, Rogers Hornsby, Leo Durocher, Joe Cronin, Charlie Grimm, Bucky Harris, Ben Chapman, Eddie Dyer, Billy Southworth and Muddy Ruel. Benefits also would be based on their years as players. Hornsby, for instance, becomes eligible to receive the full benefits for 20 years service as a player, coach and manager. That amounts to $650 a month when he becomes 65.

The players also agreed to make all who were active in 1952 beneficiaries of the pension increase. This group, according to Scott, numbers 111.

The increased benefits range from $175 a month for five-year players at age 50 to $350 a month for playes with 20 years of service. If the player waits until he is 65 to collect his benefits he will receive $300 a month if he spent five years in the majors, $400 if he was a 10-year man and $650 as a 20-year player.

Patterson Scoffs At 10-1 Odds

Ingo, 4-1 Underdog, Knocked Out Floyd

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

TORONTO (AP) — It was 2½ years ago when heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson was stopped in a seven-knockdown third round by Ingemar Johansson, but the debacle still burns in his mind like it only happened yesterday.

So it was no surprise when the 26-year-old champion disagreed with some critics who refer to challenger Tom McNeeley Jr., as a palooka and a humpty-dumpty heading for a quick fall.

"I have high respect for him," said Patterson Thursday when asked for his opinion of his Monday night title opponent at Maple Leaf Gardens. "He is big and strong and his record shows no one has beaten him yet."

What about the 10-1 odds in the champ's favor?

"I'm not interested in odds," replied Patterson, who entered his final day of heavy training. "Remember Johansson in the first fight? That was the only fight I've ever had when I went in looking for a quick knockout. I got knocked out myself."

The big Swede was a 4-1 underdog the night he dethroned Patterson in New York, June 26, 1959. Patterson became the first heavyweight champion to regain the crown when he knocked Ingo cold in the fifth round the following year. Then last March 13 in Miami Beach, in his rubber bout with Johansson, Floyd came back after two knockdowns in the first round to flatten Ingo in the sixth.

For the 24-year-old challenger from Arlington, Mass., the champ said he plans to weigh between 189 and 192 pounds.

Don Hoak's Wife Granted Divorce

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Mrs. Phyllis Hoak, 30, was granted a divorce Thursday from Pittsburgh Pirates third baseman Don Hoak.

Mrs. Hoak, of Coudersport, Pa., charged her husband with indignities. The couple has two children.

Hoak, 33, reportedly plans to wed singer Jill Corey of Avonmore.

Pipers Top Steers

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Pipers held on to their first place spot in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball League Thursday night with a 109-102 win over the Kansas City Steers. The victory gave the Pipers a 10-5 record.

Rookie Rossi Johnson of the Pipers made six straight outside shots in the third period to pace them to an 81-70 lead in the third period. Captain Roger Taylor led Cleveland's scorers with 26 points while Barnhill added 18 and Jack Adams had 17.

West Virginia Plays Indians In Cage Opener

King Now Uncertain About "Red-Shirting"

By JOHN T. KADY
United Press International

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia's basketball opener here Saturday night against William & Mary is "a natural from a psychological standpoint," Coach George King said Thursday.

"The boys have in mind what happened last March," said King. He referred to the semifinals of the Southern Conference Tournament in Richmond, Va., when William & Mary trounced the Mountaineers 88-76.

"I don't think I'll have much to do to get them ready for this one," King mused.

The Mountaineers are "pretty anxious" for some game competition, he added.

"You know, it's been a long and strenuous practice. It gets tiring for the boys just bumping heads with each other."

Tough Without Cohen

King said it gets to a point where "they know each other's moves so well, they anticipate them."

William & Mary, despite the loss of 6-foot-7 center Jeff Cohen, is still expected to be tough.

Three regulars are back from last season—6-foot-6 Kirk Gooding, Roger Bergey and Kenny Roberts.

3 To Be Red-Shirted

King said Thorn and Jimmy McCormick would start at guards, Dave Shuck at center and Kenny Ward and Paul Miller at forwards.

He also said he now tentatively plans to hold sophomores Bill Maphis, Mike Barger and Bob Camp out of action this season. King said it is not definite yet that he will "red-shirt" them although they will not suit up for Saturday's game.

"If we feel after the first game that we can use one or more of them, we'll certainly bring them back," King said.

The Mountaineers' second game will be against VMI in the Charleston Civic Center Tuesday.

Will Name Opponent For UCLA Saturday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Announcement of the visiting Rose Bowl team was postponed until Saturday night with all local indications pointing to Minnesota as the most probable selection.

Tom Hamilton, executive officer of the Big Five Conference, announced Thursday that selection of the team to play UCLA is expected Saturday.

KEYSER High School leads Ridgeley, 6 to 5, in championships won as the Potomac Valley Conference opens its 25th basketball campaign tonight.

Piedmont has won four titles, Parsons, no longer a member of the circuit, has finished on top thrice, Romney and Moorefield, twice each, and the West Virginia School for the Deaf, Beall and Davis once each.

Nineteen schools are in the race for the 1961-62 title.

Past winners:

A PROPOSAL to change the scoring of duckpin bowling, offered earlier this season at a meeting of officials of The Duckpin Bowling Council and the National Duckpin Congress, has run into a storm of protest.

Basically, the system would double your score on marks and 10-count frames. Hence a perfect score was to be 600 instead of 300.

Proponents of the system claim something is needed to make the duckpin game more attractive. They reason that since most sports are turning toward the offense or greater scoring, duckpin bowling should do the same.

Little effort is being expended to "sell" the new scoring system. And reaction from the bowlers is virtually all negative.

It seems that bowlers do not want a score which they did not earn.

THE HOT STOVE Baseball League, one of the most interesting of the circuits operating here, may add more teams by the time the 1962 season rolls around.

LaVale has made inquiries about entering the 1962 race and several other promoters have shown an interest in the circuit.

Ten teams started and finished the 1961 season, the eleventh year of operation.

DURING the special antlerless deer season of three days in mid-November, a Somerset county (Md.) hunter shot a large doe deer bearing Maryland ear tag number 86.

The Game and Inland Fish Commission records show that this deer was live-trapped and ear-tagged at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Harford county and released on a farm in Somerset county on March 8, 1950.

This elderly doe, at least 11 years of age, was shot about five miles from where it was released.

This longevity is a record in the department files and is very unusual for deer in the wild, according to Chester M. Kerns, chief of game management.

TWO former Romney High School athletes coached undefeated high school football teams this year.

Don Maphis' Clarke County eleven of Berryville, Va., was 10-0 and Roger Parker's Romney High Pioneers posted a 9-0 record.

Other records for the 1961 season include:

Handley, Winchester, Va., coached by Eddie Seibert, Fort Hill grad, 8-1-1, Hedgesville 5-1-2, Boonsboro 7-2, Shepherdstown 4-2, Waynesboro, Pa., 5-5, James Wood, Winchester, 4-5, Charles Town 2-5-1, Harpers Ferry 1-6-2 and Musselman 1-6, Parsons 2-7 and Mountaineer of Thomas 1-8.

BASKETBALL officials' fees have been increased for the 1961-62 season in the tri-state area.

The arbiters will receive an increase of $1.50 over the rate of last season.

For teams from schools with an enrollment of 115 or more in the upper three grades the fee will be $12.50 per game instead of $11 as charged last season. This applies to all WMI League games.

For schools under 115 enrollment the fee is being upped from $8.50 to $10 per game.

The officials receive seven cents a mile additional for traveling.

Udall Says Draft Time For Marshall To Show Good Faith

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall said Thursday he regards the National Football League draft session as the time for owner George Preston Marshall of the Washington Redskins to show his good faith that he intends to try to hire Negro football players.

Udall was asked at a news conference how much time Marshall has in which to hire Negro players under a Udall notice that this must be done if the Redskins are to play their games in the new stadium on National Park Service land here. The Secretary replied:

"I don't think there is any thought other than that the draft is the showdown. We have been proceeding on the basis that Mr. Marshall's representations of some time ago were made in good faith. We mean business and believe he knows we mean business.

"The place for him to show his colors is on the draft."

Green Bay, Giants Meet Sunday At Milwaukee In Top NFL Contest

Packers Need Win To Take Western Title

Browns, Steelers Tangle; Houston Tests San Diego

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

The Green Bay Packers can clinch their second straight Western Division championship in the National Football League Sunday and at the same time find out just how tough the New York Giants are, in case these two teams should meet in the championship playoff.

Green Bay was a slim 1-point favorite for this game to be played before a sellout crowd of about 48,000 at County Stadium in Milwaukee.

A Packers victory would not only decide the Western Division title but also might throw the Eastern Division race wide open again. The Giants presently lead with a 9-2 record, with the Philadelphia Eagles 8-3 and the Cleveland Browns 7-4.

Eagles Are Favored

The Eagles also faced tough going, although they were 3-point favorites over the Steelers at Pittsburgh. Cleveland was picked by 14 points over the Cowboys at Dallas.

Here is the "line" on other Sunday games:

Detroit Lions favored by 1 point over Bears at Chicago; Colts 7 at home over San Francisco Forty-Niners; Los Angeles Rams 7 over the Vikings at Minnesota; St. Louis Cardinals 12 at home over Washington Redskins.

Teams Rated Even

The American Football League also had a game pitting its division leaders at Houston. The Houston Oilers and San Diego Chargers were rated even. In other Sunday games, the Boston Patriots were 7 over the Broncos at Denver; the Dallas Texans 4 over the Titans at New York, and the Buffalo Bills 6 over the Oakland Raiders at San Francisco.

Packers coach Vince Lombardi welcomed the news from Fort Riley, Kan., that Paul Hornung will be given a three-day weekend pass to play. It was expected that flanker Boyd Dowler and linebacker Ray Nitschke also would be given Sunday liberty at Fort Lewis, Wash., although that would not be determined until Saturday.

As for the Packers' "cripples," Tom Moore, who is Hornung's understudy, and defensive back Hank Gremminger have recovered from hip injuries and will be in shape to play. The same holds true for center Jim Ringo, hospitalized with boils, and fullback Jim Taylor and end Max McGee, bedded with flu early in the week.

New York does have the incentive, the momentum of a "big" 37-21 victory over Cleveland last weekend and is in good shape except perhaps for one of the defensive safety positions.

Eagles Could Tie

If the Giants lose, the Eagles could move into a tie for the Eastern Division lead by winning at Pittsburgh. This would set up another first - place showdown between the Giants and Eagles the following Sunday at Philadelphia.

EXPLORERS OPEN SEASON TOMORROW — LaSalle High School will launch its 1961-62 basketball campaign Saturday night with Fort Ashby in a Potomac Valley Conference game at SS. Cubs' Williams Named NL Rookie-Of-The-Year

Braves' Joe Torre 2nd And Curtis 3d

By LEO H. PETERSEN

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Outfielder Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs was named the National League's Rookie - of-the-Year Thursday by the Baseball Writers' Association to become the first member of the Cubs to receive the award since its inauguration in 1949.

Williams, a 23-year-old native of Whistler, Ala., was picked on 10 of the 16 ballots cast by writers from each of the National League cities. Catcher Joe Torre of the Milwaukee Braves received five votes and left - handed pitcher Jack Curtis of the Cubs got the remaining ballot.

Playing in 146 games, Williams batted .278, hit 25 home runs and batted in 86 runs. Williams, who bats and throws right-handed, was recalled to the Cubs after hitting .323 and 26 home runs for Houston of the American Association in 1960.

Torre, who took over capably for the injured Del Crandall, appeared in 113 games and compiled a .278 batting average with 10 homers and 42 RBI's. Curtis won 10 and lost 13 and had a 4.90 earned run average.

Williams, who stands 6-1 and weighs 175 pounds, started his baseball career with Ponca City of the Sooner State League.

The selection of Williams, who previously had been named National League Rookie of the Year by the United Press International board of baseball experts, was announced by Hy Hurwitz, secretary of the Baseball Writers Association of America, here.

Minor Loops Pick Convention Sites

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—San Diego, Calif., was selected Thursday as the site of the National Association (Minors) convention in 1963, by the Minors' Executive Committee. The 1962 convention already has been awarded to Rochester, N.Y.

Sam Smith, president of the South Atlantic League, was renamed to the executive committee and Frank Shaughnessy, retired president of the International League, was continued as chairman. The other member is J.C. (Bill) Jessup, president of the Carolina League.

Romney Opens At Ridgeley, Piedmont Hosts Elk Garden

West Virginia High Schools Play Eight Cage Games Tonight

High school teams from seven nearby West Virginia counties will figure in eight contests tonight as the 1961-62 basketball season officially gets under way.

Heading the program are a pair of Potomac Valley Conference games in which Elk Garden plays at Piedmont and Romney's Pioneers engage the Blackhawks at Ridgeley High School.

Elk Garden was the runner-up to Beall's championship team in the P.V.C. last season, winning 11 of 14 games. Piedmont was 7-7 for the campaign. Ridgeley wound up with a 4-10 mark and Romney was 2-12.

Coaches Start 19th Year

Paul Kalbaugh will be starting his 19th season as coach of the Elks, while William "Huck" Miers begins his 19th at the helm in Piedmont. This is Tom O'Connor's sixth season at Ridgeley while Roger Parker begins his second year as head coach at Romney.

Beall's defending champions (9-1) open their conference season with Fort Ashby next week. LaSalle, which finished third with 7-2 last season, tackles Fort Ashby here tomorrow night.

Six other P.V.C. quints are slated to kick off the lid tonight in non-conference games.

Coach "Eck" Miers' Keyser High cagers host the Alumni, Aurora plays at Bayard, Capon Bridge visits Musselman, Circleville's Indians invade Tucker county to play Mountaineer High at Thomas and Paw Paw's Pirates entertain Harpers Ferry High School.

Burkhart Makes Debut

Coach Charles "Pete" Vance's Wardensville Warriors are scheduled to do battle with Berkeley Springs on the latter's court. Varnell Burkhart will be making his debut as head coach at Berkeley Springs, as successor to Max Stackhouse.

Shepherd College, which played at Frostburg State last night, plays D.&E. at Elkins tonight and tackles Salem College's Tigers at Salem Saturday night.

Basketball Tonight

Elk Garden at Piedmont (PVC)
Romney at Ridgeley (PVC)
Harpers Ferry at Paw Paw
Aurora at Bayard
Circleville at Mountaineer
Wardensville at Berkeley Springs
Alumni at Keyser
Capon Bridge at Musselman
Shepherd at Davis & Elkins (WVC)

Corle Scores With Basking

Defeats Allchain In Pimlico Race

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 30 (AP)—Basking, a 3-year-old filly racing for the Four Way Ranch, sped to a mild upset victory in the $4,000 Dulaney Valley Purse, seventh race here at Pimlico today, when she returned $14.60 for $2 to scattered backers in the crowd of 8,375 fans.

Carrying only 106 pounds, Basking was full of run through the stretch and scored by three parts of a length from Allchain, who placed over honeynob in a three-horse picture finish for the small shares.

Vir - Marie, who had beaten basking by six lengths in their previous meeting, was made the 7-to-5 favorite and finished only fourth to the dismay of the form players, who failed to cheer home a winning favorite in the first seven events.

Bobby Corle had Basking away from the gate with the leaders, took back to a rating position and then moved from third to first in the straightaway to go out the six furlongs in 1.13 2/5.

Charles Town Given Winter Racing Dates

47-Day Session To Open Dec. 15

CHARLES TOWN, W.Va. (AP) — The West Virginia Racing Commission granted permission Thursday for Charles Town Race Course to start a 47-day winter meeting Dec. 15.

William P. C. Perry, commission chairman, said the dates for Charles town were assigned in cooperation with the Maryland Racing Commission.

Maryland's last racing session, now under way at Pimlico in Baltimore, ends Dec. 14. The first meeting of 1962 starts at Bowie Race Course in Southern Maryland Feb. 9, the day after the Charles Town meeting ends. Pimlico management owns the Charles Town track.

Perry said the Charles Town dates also were arranged for the convenience of horse trainers.

"The Charles Town schedule should be very appropriate for eastern horsemen who wish to winter race and train in this area instead of going to Florida or elsewhere," Perry said.

Charles Town will offer daily double programs each day except Dec. 25, Christmas Day. The track's winter session will be its 65th meeting since the plant opened in 1933.

Service Classic Victor May Land Rose Bowl Tilt

Kennedy To Attend Army-Navy Contest

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — President Kennedy and a faint Rose Bowl tinge will lend added color to the 62nd Army-Navy football classic Saturday which is rated a toss-up.

Not since Harry Truman watched this intense service rivalry a dozen years ago has the presidential box been occupied in cavernous Philadelphia Stadium.

The President will not arrive in time for the parades by the brigade of midshipmen and corps of cadets but will paticipate in the coin toss with Army Captain Mike Casp and Navy's John Hewitt.

Bowl Game For Victor

Lurking in the background to the nationally televised (ABC, 1:30 p.m. EST) game, is the chance victory for Navy might land the Middies in the Rose Bowl Ohio State and Alabama already have ignored or rejected Pasadena feelers and Minnesota has not yet made a decision.

Traditionally Army has been against bowl game participation but the Cadets might be tempted if they accomplish a dedicated mission — beat Navy for the first time in three years under Coach Dale Hall and only the second time in six.

Coach Wayne Hardin at Annapolis feels Hall's statement: "We will beat Navy" offers fine ammunition for him to fire up his Middies.

Both Own 6-3 Record

Both teams have won six games, lost three and neither claims superstars like recent vintage Heisman Trophy winners Pete Dawkins of Army and Navy's Joe Bellino, who hanted the Cadets the past two years. In the series, Army holds a 30-26-5 edge.

Navy has the superior passing game, triggered by quarterback Ron Klemick and his relief men, Bob Hecht and Bruce Abel. Army, as expected, has the better foot soldiers led by fullback Al Bushatz who will bring the most productive rushing figures into the contest.

However, Navy's Johnny Sai, a skittering 18-year-old sophomore halfback from Oakland, Calif., has Army scouts worried. He is fast, tricky and hard to bring down. The Cadets have attempted to devise special defenses against him.

Savage Captures Batting Crown In INT With .325

NEW YORK (UPI) — Outfielder Ted Savage of the Buffalo Bisons won the International League batting championship this year with a .325 batting average that gave him the title by four points.

Savage, who will try to win a berth with the Philadelphia Phillies next spring, also led the league with 111 runs scored, 178 hits and 96 bases on balls.

First-baseman Johnny Powell of the Rochester Red Wings finished second to Savage with a .321 average and led the league with 32 homers and 288 total bases. Frank Leja, who played with both the Richmond Virginians and Syracuse Chiefs, led the circuit with 98 runs batted in.

Richmond's Tom Tresh, with a .315 average; Jersey City's Jim Pendleton, with .304 and Charleston's Fred Whitfield, with .301, were the only other players who batted more than .300.

Official figures compiled by the Elias Baseball Bureau also revealed that Pendleton led in doubles with 33, Lou Johnson of Toronto in triples with 18 and Savage in stolen bases with 31.

Toronto, Canadiens Battle To 1-1 Draw

MONTREAL (UPI) — Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion of the Montreal Canadiens and Bert Olmstead of the Toronto Maple Leafs scored the only goals Thursday night in a 1-1 tie that left the two clubs still tied for first place in the National Hockey League.

An excited Forum crowd of 14,568 watched two periods of scoreless but exciting hockey highlighted by the flawless goaltending of Jacques Plante and Johnnie Bower before Geoffrion and Olmstead tallied 30 seconds apart in the final period.

Hawks Buy Hatton

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—The St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association Thursday night announced the purchase of veteran guard Vern Hatton from the Philadelphia Warriors.

Hatton, a three-year veteran, started the season with the new Chicago Packers but was returned to the Warriors Wednesday.

To make room for Hatton, the Hawks said rookie guard Jimmy Darrow was placed on waivers, subsequent to giving him his unconditional release.

Green Bay, Giants Meet Sunday At Milwaukee In Top NFL Contest

Packers Need Win To Take Western Title

Browns, Steelers Tangle; Houston Tests San Diego

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

The Green Bay Packers can clinch their second straight Western Division championship in the National Football League Sunday and at the same time find out just how tough the New York Giants are, in case these two teams should meet in the championship playoff.

Green Bay was a slim 1-point favorite for this game to be played before a sellout crowd of about 48,000 at County Stadium in Milwaukee.

A Packers victory would not only decide the Western Division title but also might throw the Eastern Division race wide open again. The Giants presently lead with a 9-2 record, with the Philadelphia Eagles 8-3 and the Cleveland Browns 7-4.

Eagles Are Favored

The Eagles also faced tough going, although they were 3-point favorites over the Steelers at Pittsburgh. Cleveland was picked by 14 points over the Cowboys at Dallas.

Here is the "line" on other Sunday games:

Teams Rated Even

The American Football League also had a game pitting its division leaders at Houston. The Houston Oilers and San Diego Chargers were rated even. In other Sunday games, the Boston Patriots were 7 over the Broncos at Denver; the Dallas Teaxans 4 over the Titans at New York, and the Buffalo Bills 6 over the Oakland Raiders at San Francisco.

Packers coach Vince Lombardi welcomed the news from Fort Riley, Kan., that Paul Hornung will be given a three-day weekend pass to play. It was expected that flanker Boyd Dowler and linebacker Ray Nitschke also would be given Sunday liberty at Fort Lewis, Wash., although that would not be determined until Saturday.

As for the Packers' "cripples," Tom Moore, who is Hornung's understudy, and defensive back Hank Gremminger have recovered from hip injuries and will be in shape to play. The same holds true for center Jim Ringo, hospitalized with boils, and fullback Jim Taylor and end Max McGee, bedded with flu early in the week.

New York does have the incentive, the momentum of a "big" 37-21 victory over Cleveland last weekend and is in good shape except perhaps for one of the defensive safety positions.

Eagles Could Tie

If the Giants lose, the Eagles could move into a tie for the Eastern Division lead by winning at Pittsburgh. This would set up another first - place showdown between the Giants and Eagles the following Sunday at Philadelphia.

Cubs' Williams Named NL Rookie-Of-The-Year

Braves' Joe Torre 2nd And Curtis 3d

By LEO H. PETERSEN

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Outfielder Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs was named the National League's Rookie - of-the-Year Thursday by the Baseball Writers' Association to become the first member of the Cubs to receive the award since its inauguration in 1949.

Williams, a 23-year-old native of Whistler, Ala., was picked on 10 of the 16 ballots cast by writers from each of the National League cities. Catcher Joe Torre of the Milwaukee Braves received five votes and left - handed pitcher Jack Curtis of the Cubs got the remaining ballot.

Playing in 146 games, Williams batted .278, hit 25 home runs and batted in 86 runs. Williams, who bats and throws right-handed, was recalled to the Cubs after hitting .323 and 26 home runs for Houston of the American Association in 1960.

Torre, who took over capably for the injured Del Crandall, appeared in 113 games and compiled a .278 batting average with 10 homers and 42 RBI's. Curtis won 10 and lost 13 and had a 4.90 earned run average.

Williams, who stands 6-1 and weighs 175 pounds, started his baseball career with Ponca City of the Sooner State League.

The selection of Williams, who previously had been named National League Rookie of the Year by the United Press International board of baseball experts, was announced by Hy Hurwitz, secretary of the Baseball Writers Association of America, here.

Minor Loops Pick Convention Sites

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—San Diego, Calif., was selected Thursday as the site of the National Association (Minors) convention in 1963, by the Minors' Executive Committee. The 1962 convention already has been awarded to Rochester, N.Y.

Sam Smith, president of the South Atlantic League, was renamed to the executive committee and Frank Shaughnessy, retired president of the International League, was continued as chairman. The other member is J.C. (Bill) Jessup, president of the Carolina League.

Catholic A-A Grid Team Is Selected

CHICAGO (AP) — A 1961 all-Catholic, All-American college football team was named Thursday by Extension Magazine, national Catholic publication. The players were:

Ends — Tom Hall, Minnesota, and Jack Elwell, Minnesota; tackles—Paul Garvis, Missouri, and John Nelson, Xavier; guards —Nick Buoniconti, Notre Dame, and Stan Sczurek, Purdue; center —Dave Kristynik, Texas; quarterback—Jerry Gross, Detroit; halfbacks—Angelo Dabiero, Notre Dame, and Larry Glueck, Villanova; and fullback — Harry Crump, Boston College.

Romney Opens At Ridgeley, Piedmont Hosts Elk Garden

West Virginia High Schools Play Eight Cage Games Tonight

High school teams from seven nearby West Virginia counties will figure in eight contests tonight as the 1961-62 basketball season officially gets under way.

Heading the program are a pair of Potomac Valley Conference games in which Elk Garden plays at Piedmont and Romney's Pioneers engage the Blackhawks at Ridgeley High School.

Elk Garden was the runner-up to Beall's championship team in the P.V.C. last season, winning 11 of 14 games. Piedmont was 7-7 for the campaign. Ridgeley wound up with a 4-10 mark and Romney was 2-12.

Coaches Start 19th Year

Paul Kalbaugh will be starting his 19th season as coach of the Elks, while William "Huck" Miers begins his 19th at the helm in Piedmont. This is Tom O'Connor's sixth season at Ridgeley while Roger Parker begins his second year as head coach at Romney.

Beall's defending champions (9-1) open their conference season with Fort Ashby next week. LaSalle, which finished third with 7-2 last season, tackles Fort Ashby here tomorrow night.

Six other P.V.C. quints are slated to kick off the lid tonight in non-conference games.

Burkhart Makes Debut

Coach Charles "Pete" Vance's Wardensville Warriors are scheduled to do battle with Berkeley Springs on the latter's court. Varnell Burkhart will be making his debut as head coach at Berkeley Springs, as successor to Max Stackhouse.

Shepherd College, which played at Frostburg State last night, plays D.&E. at Elkins tonight and tackles Salem College's Tigers at Salem Saturday night.

Basketball Tonight

Elk Garden at Piedmont (PVC)
Romney at Ridgeley (PVC)
Harpers Ferry at Paw Paw
Aurora at Bayard
Circleville at Mountaineer
Wardensville at Berkeley Springs
Alumni at Keyser
Capon Bridge at Musselman
Shepherd at Davis & Elkins (WVC)

Corle Scores With Basking

Defeats Allchain In Pimlico Race

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 30 (AP)—Basking, a 3-year-old filly racing for the Four Way Ranch, sped to a mild upset victory in the $4,000 Dulaney Valley Purse, seventh race here at Pimlico today, when she returned $14.60 for $2 to scattered backers in the crowd of 8,375 fans.

Carrying only 106 pounds, Basking was full of run through the stretch and scored by three parts of a length from Allchain, who placed over honeynob in a three-horse picture finish for the small shares.

Vir - Marie, who had beaten basking by six lengths in their previous meeting, was made the 7-to-5 favorite and finished only fourth to the dismay of the form players, who failed to cheer home a winning favorite in the first seven events.

Bobby Corle had Basking away from the gate with the leaders, took back to a rating position and then moved from third to first in the straightaway to go out the six furlongs in 1.13 2/5.

Charles Town Given Winter Racing Dates

47-Day Session To Open Dec. 15

CHARLES TOWN, W.Va. (AP) — The West Virginia Racing Commission granted permission Thursday for Charles Town Race Course to start a 47-day winter meeting Dec. 15.

William P. C. Perry, commission chairman, said the dates for Charles town were assigned in cooperation with the Maryland Racing Commission.

Maryland's last racing session, now under way at Pimlico in Baltimore, ends Dec. 14. The first meeting of 1962 starts at Bowie Race Course in Southern Maryland Feb. 9, the day after the Charles Town meeting ends. Pimlico management owns the Charles Town track.

Perry said the Charles Town dates also were arranged for the convenience of horse trainers.

"The Charles Town schedule should be very appropriate for eastern horsemen who wish to winter race and train in this area instead of going to Florida or elsewhere," Perry said.

Charles Town will offer daily double programs each day except Dec. 25, Christmas Day. The track's winter session will be its 65th meeting since the plant opened in 1933.

Service Classic Victor May Land Rose Bowl Tilt

Kennedy To Attend Army-Navy Contest

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — President Kennedy and a faint Rose Bowl tinge will lend added color to the 62nd Army-Navy football classic Saturday which is rated a toss-up.

Not since Harry Truman watched this intense service rivalry a dozen years ago has the presidential box been occupied in cavernous Philadelphia Stadium.

The President will not arrive in time for the parades by the brigade of midshipmen and corps of cadets but will paticipate in the coin toss with Army Captain Mike Casp and Navy's John Hewitt.

Bowl Game For Victor

Lurking in the background to the nationally televised (ABC, 1:30 p.m. EST) game, is the chance victory for Navy might land the Middies in the Rose Bowl Ohio State and Alabama already have ignored or rejected Pasadena feelers and Minnesota has not yet made a decision.

Traditionally Army has been against bowl game participation but the Cadets might be tempted if they accomplish a dedicated mission — beat Navy for the first time in three years under Coach Dale Hall and only the second time in six.

Coach Wayne Hardin at Annapolis feels Hall's statement: "We will beat Navy" offers fine ammunition for him to fire up his Middies.

Both Own 6-3 Record

Both teams have won six games, lost three and neither claims superstars like recent vintage Heisman Trophy winners Pete Dawkins of Army and Navy's Joe Bellino, who hanted the Cadets the past two years. In the series, Army holds a 30-26-5 edge.

Navy has the superior passing game, triggered by quarterback Ron Klemick and his relief men, Bob Hecht and Bruce Abel. Army, as expected, has the better foot soldiers led by fullback Al Bushatz who will bring the most productive rushing figures into the contest.

However, Navy's Johnny Sai, a skittering 18-year-old sophomore halfback from Oakland, Calif., has Army scouts worried. He is fast, tricky and hard to bring down. The Cadets have attempted to devise special defenses against him.

Savage Captures Batting Crown In INT With .325

NEW YORK (UPI) — Outfielder Ted Savage of the Buffalo Bisons won the International League batting championship this year with a .325 batting average that gave him the title by four points.

Savage, who will try to win a berth with the Philadelphia Phillies next spring, also led the league with 111 runs scored, 178 hits and 96 bases on balls.

First-baseman Johnny Powell of the Rochester Red Wings finished second to Savage with a .321 average and led the league with 32 homers and 288 total bases. Frank Leja, who played with both the Richmond Virginians and Syracuse Chiefs, led the circuit with 98 runs batted in.

Richmond's Tom Tresh, with a .315 average; Jersey City's Jim Pendleton, with .304 and Charleston's Fred Whitfield, with .301, were the only other players who batted more than .300.

Official figures compiled by the Elias Baseball Bureau also revealed that Pendleton led in doubles with 33, Lou Johnson of Toronto in triples with 18 and Savage in stolen bases with 31.

Toronto, Canadiens Battle To 1-1 Draw

MONTREAL (UPI) — Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion of the Montreal Canadiens and Bert Olmstead of the Toronto Maple Leafs scored the only goals Thursday night in a 1-1 tie that left the two clubs still tied for first place in the National Hockey League.

An excited Forum crowd of 14,568 watched two periods of scoreless but exciting hockey highlighted by the flawless goaltending of Jacques Plante and Johnnie Bower before Geoffrion and Olmstead tallied 30 seconds apart in the final period.

Chicago White Sox Deal Pierce, Larsen To San Francisco Giants

Junior Loop Team Makes Fifth Trade

Chisox Receive Fisher, Zanni And Farley In Return

MIAMI (AP) — The Chicago White Sox Thursday night traded pitchers Billy Pierce and Don Larsen to the San Francisco Giants of the National League for pitchers Ed Fisher and Dom Zanni, first baseman-outfielder Bob Farley and a player to be announced later.

Pierce, 34, had a 10-9 record for the Sox last season, while Larsen was 7-1 after being obtained from Kansas City, where he won one game, and didn't lose.

Pierce Had 3.80 ERA

Larsen, who biggest claim to fame is his perfect game on Oct. 8, 1956 in the World Series against Brooklyn, is 32. He was traded by the Yankees to Kansas City in 1959.

Pierce had a 3.80 earned run average the past season, appearing in 39 games.

Farley spent last year with Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League, where hit hit .307 and clouted 20 home runs in 114 games. The 23-year old outfielder also drove in 71 runs.

Fisher and Zanni also spent most of last season with the Giants farm in Tacoma. Fisher had an 9-2 record with San Francisco while Zanni, 29, won 8 of 12 decisions for Tacoma.

Pilarcik Sent Back

In a separate deal, the White Sox also sent outfielder Al Pilarcik to Indianapolis of the American Association.

The transaction was the fifth trade since the inter-league swapping period opened Nov. 21.

Pilarcik hit .205 for the White Sox last season.

Don Massengale Leads Tourney

Posts 67 In West Palm Beach Open

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., (UPI) — Young Don Massengale, winding up his first full year on the PGA tour, fired a five-under-par 67 over a sopping course on Thursday to take the first round lead in the $20,000 West Palm Beach Open golf tournament.

The 24-year-old Jackboro, Tex., pro gattled through rain in the morning round, but nothing like the downpour that drenched most of the big-name pros and almost caused PGA officials to scratch the first round and start over again.

Harold Kneece of Aiken, S. C., was in second place with a 35-33—68, and there were five pros knotted at 69. They were Gordon Jones, Orlando, Fla.; Bert Weaver, Beaumont, Tex.; Gay Brewer Jr., Crystal River, Fla.; Herman Scharlau, Kansas City, Mo., and John Bustin, Gladwin, Pa.

Defending champion Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., was even par at 72, behind seven pros tied at 70 and 10 tied at 71. Perennial favorite Sam Snead was in the 70s, along with Tommy Bolt.

Two other favorites, Arnold Palmer of Miami and Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., were one-over at 73.

LOSES JOB — Bill Jennings, football coach at Nebraska for five years, was told yesterday his contract will not be renewed for the 1962 season. (AP Photofax)

Nebraska Will Not Renew Grid Contract Of Bill Jennings

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Football Coach Bill Jennings, after five losing seasons at Nebraska, got word Thursday he'll not be back next season.

Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin informed Jennings that the board of regents will not renew his appointment when Jennings' present three-year contract expires Jan. 15.

The stop was taken, Dr. Hardin said, so Nebraska's new athletic director, soon to be named, will have a free hand in developing the Cornhusker football program.

Jennings, 43, posted a record of 15 wins, 34 losses and one tie in his five years at Nebraska.

Manassa Mauler Cops Aqueduct Final Feature

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP) — Emil Dolce's Manassa Mauler made a big run along the rail in the stretch to win the 56th running of the $30,700 Queens County Handicap as Aqueduct ended a 50-day meeting that closed racing in New York until next March 20.

The 5-year-old son of Count Turf-Escalade, ridden by Braulio Baeza, leading rider at the meeting, who was completing a triple, stepped the mile in the good time of 1:36 1/5.

Manassa Mauler scored by two lengths over Alamode Farm's Mail Order, who took the place by a half length over Ledgemont Stable's Black Thumper, Peter Fuller's Hillsborough was three quarters of a length out of the money.

Favored by the crowd of 31,004, Manassa Mauler returned the across the board mutuels of $7.80, $5.40 and $3.40. Mail Order paid $8.00 and $5.30 and Black Thumper was $3.50 to show.

The victory was worth $19,955 net to Dolce, Valley Stream, N.Y. restaurateur.

Majors And Chiefs Trade Four Players

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Majors Thursday announced a four player trade with the Hawaii Chiefs of the American Basketball League and the Harlem Globetrotters.

The Majors received 6-foot-6 George Price from the Chiefs in exchange for Herb Lee, formerly of the University of Indiana. Tony Wilcox, a 6-9 cager, moved from the Globetrotters, who received Mel Davis from the Packers.

The trades were announced by owner Abe Saperstein. He also said waivers were being asked on Joe Scott, who captained the University of Missouri cage team last year.

Chicago White Sox Deal Pierce, Larsen To San Francisco Giants

Junior Loop Team Makes Fifth Trade

Chisox Receive Fisher, Zanni And Farley In Return

MIAMI (AP) — The Chicago White Sox Thursday night traded pitchers Billy Pierce and Don Larsen to the San Francisco Giants of the National League for pitchers Ed Fisher and Dom Zanni, first baseman-outfielder Bob Farley and a player to be announced later.

Pierce, 34, had a 10-9 record for the Sox last season, while Larsen was 7-1 after being obtained from Kansas City, where he won one game, and didn't lose.

Pierce Had 3.80 ERA

Larsen, who biggest claim to fame is his perfect game on Oct. 8, 1956 in the World Series against Brooklyn, is 32. He was traded by the Yankees to Kansas City in 1959.

Pierce had a 3.80 earned run average the past season, appearing in 39 games.

Farley spent last year with Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League, where hit hit .307 and clouted 20 home runs in 114 games. The 23-year old outfielder also drove in 71 runs.

Fisher and Zanni also spent most of last season with the Giants farm in Tacoma. Fisher had an 9-2 record with San Francisco while Zanni, 29, won 8 of 12 decisions for Tacoma.

Pilarcik Sent Back

In a separate deal, the White Sox also sent outfielder Al Pilarcik to Indianapolis of the American Association.

The transaction was the fifth trade since the inter-league swapping period opened Nov. 21.

Pilarcik hit .205 for the White Sox last season.

LOSES JOB — Bill Jennings, football coach at Nebraska for five years, was told yesterday his contract will not be renewed for the 1962 season. (AP Photofax)

Nebraska Will Not Renew Grid Contract Of Bill Jennings

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Football Coach Bill Jennings, after five losing seasons at Nebraska, got word Thursday he'll not be back next season.

Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin informed Jennings that the board of regents will not renew his appointment when Jennings' present three-year contract expires Jan. 15.

The stop was taken, Dr. Hardin said, so Nebraska's new athletic director, soon to be named, will have a free hand in developing the Cornhusker football program.

Jennings, 43, posted a record of 15 wins, 34 losses and one tie in his five years at Nebraska.

Manassa Mauler Cops Aqueduct Final Feature

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP) — Emil Dolce's Manassa Mauler made a big run along the rail in the stretch to win the 56th running of the $30,700 Queens County Handicap as Aqueduct ended a 50-day meeting that closed racing in New York until next March 20.

The 5-year-old son of Count Turf-Escalade, ridden by Braulio Baeza, leading rider at the meeting, who was completing a triple, stepped the mile in the good time of 1:36 1/5.

Manassa Mauler scored by two lengths over Alamode Farm's Mail Order, who took the place by a half length over Ledgemont Stable's Black Thumper, Peter Fuller's Hillsborough was three quarters of a length out of the money.

Favored by the crowd of 31,004, Manassa Mauler returned the across the board mutuels of $7.80, $5.40 and $3.40. Mail Order paid $8.00 and $5.30 and Black Thumper was $3.50 to show.

The victory was worth $19,955 net to Dolce, Valley Stream, N.Y. restaurateur.

Majors And Chiefs Trade Four Players

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Majors Thursday announced a four player trade with the Hawaii Chiefs of the American Basketball League and the Harlem Globetrotters.

The Majors received 6-foot-6 George Price from the Chiefs in exchange for Herb Lee, formerly of the University of Indiana. Tony Wilcox, a 6-9 cager, moved from the Globetrotters, who received Mel Davis from the Packers.

The trades were announced by owner Abe Saperstein. He also said waivers were being asked on Joe Scott, who captained the University of Missouri cage team last year.

Don Massengale Leads Tourney

Posts 67 In West Palm Beach Open

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., (UPI) — Young Don Massengale, winding up his first full year on the PGA tour, fired a five-under-par 67 over a sopping course on Thursday to take the first round lead in the $20,000 West Palm Beach Open golf tournament.

The 24-year-old Jackboro, Tex., pro gattled through rain in the morning round, but nothing like the downpour that drenched most of the big-name pros and almost caused PGA officials to scratch the first round and start over again.

Harold Kneece of Aiken, S. C., was in second place with a 35-33—68, and there were five pros knotted at 69. They were Gordon Jones, Orlando, Fla.; Bert Weaver, Beaumont, Tex.; Gay Brewer Jr., Crystal River, Fla.; Herman Scharlau, Kansas City, Mo., and John Bustin, Gladwin, Pa.

Defending champion Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., was even par at 72, behind seven pros tied at 70 and 10 tied at 71. Perennial favorite Sam Snead was in the 70s, along with Tommy Bolt.

Two other favorites, Arnold Palmer of Miami and Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., were one-over at 73.

Market Takes Its Worst Beating In Five Weeks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks took their worst pasting in five weeks Thursday with big losses appearing in nearly every major section of the list aside from steels and autos.

Trading volume remained fairly heavy at 4,210,000 shares but lagged well behind Wednesday's turnover of 4,550,000.

A loss of 0.38 in the comprehensive Standard & Poor's 500 Stock Index figured out to an aggregate drop in paper values of close to $4 billion.

Dow Jones industrials recorded their third consecutive loss, dipping 5.58 and featuring declines of 5¼ in DuPont and over a point in Alcoa, American Tobacco, American Telephone and Union Carbide.

A total of 1,318 issues were traded. Of these 646 declined, 15 to new lows and only 425 advanced, 56 to new highs.

Major chemicals were generally soft, steels narrowly mixed without exception and autos little changed with the exception of Ford which vaulted 3⅜ on a late flurry of unexplained buying. Auto production has been scheduled to hit a 21-month high this week, but there was little or no response in the other motors.

Market Takes Its Worst Beating In Five Weeks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks took their worst pasting in five weeks Thursday with big losses appearing in nearly every major section of the list aside from steels and autos.

Trading volume remained fairly heavy at 4,210,000 shares but lagged well behind Wednesday's turnover of 4,550,000.

A loss of 0.38 in the comprehensive Standard & Poor's 500 Stock Index figured out to an aggregate drop in paper values of close to $4 billion.

Dow Jones industrials recorded their third consecutive loss, dipping 5.58 and featuring declines of 5¼ in DuPont and over a point in Alcoa, American Tobacco, American Telephone and Union Carbide.

A total of 1,318 issues were traded. Of these 646 declined, 15 to new lows and only 425 advanced, 56 to new highs.

Major chemicals were generally soft, steels narrowly mixed without exception and autos little changed with the exception of Ford which vaulted 3⅜ on a late flurry of unexplained buying. Auto production has been scheduled to hit a 21-month high this week, but there was little or no response in the other motors.

The "little" Army-Navy football game will be held December 2 indoors at the Atlantic City Convention Hall, where football was played indoors 22 years ago. The event matches the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy and Penn Military College.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Proposals will be received by the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Cumberland, Maryland, until but not after December 11, 1961, at 10:00 o'clock A.M., Local Time. At 10:00 o'clock on said date, they will be publicly opened and read. Proposals must be submitted in duplicate, in a sealed envelope, plainly endorsed on the outside thereof, "PROPOSAL FOR REWIRING CITY HALL AND CITY HALL ANNEX."
The work includes furnishing all labor, equipment and material to rewire the City Hall and City Hall Annex in accordance with the plans and specifications which may be obtained at the office of the City Engineer.
The City will receive the right to waive any formalities and to reject any or all bids, and to accept any proposal which in its judgement is to the best interests of the City.
A performance bond in the full amount of the accepted bid will be required of the successful bidder.

Short-Skirted Girls Suspended By High School

BRENTWOOD, N.Y. (UPI) — Officials at Brentwood High School are telling teen-age girl students to come to school properly dressed or stay home.

The object of the officials' disaffection: Short skirts.

School officials revealed Thursday that they finally got tired of telling teen-age femmes fatale about hemlines above the knees and tight skirts. They suspended — for two days — 37 girls Tuesday and four more Thursday.

In each case, the girls' parents were called to the school to take their daughters home, and in all cases the parents agreed heartily with the school, officials said.

Rain Halts Strike

LONDON (AP) — A proposed strike by 3,000 London taxicab drivers flopped Thursday on account of rain.

The stoppage, not suported by union leaders, was supposed to begin at midnight and last 48 hours. But by midday there were plenty of cabs on the streets and it was obvious most drivers had elected to reap the usual wet weather harvest instead of joining the walkout.

Construction Up

NEW YORK (UPI)—Heavy construction contracts in the holiday week ended Nov. 30 bounced back to $449.8 million from the $304.8 million the week before and the $385 million in the similar 1960 period, the Engineering News-Record reported Thursday.

This brings the year-to-date to $20.6 billion or only 3 per cent short of the record year 1960.

The royal family of Britain lives in Buckingham Palace when it is in London.

CABBAGE JUICE FOUND RAPID ULCER HEALER

A remarkable speedup in the healing of peptic ulcers when treated with raw cabbage juice was reported by Dr. Garnett Cheney of the Stanford University Medical School. First test of this kind on human beings. 13 patients, some with ulcers of long standing, received the cabbage juice treatment. In 11 cases the ulcers disappeared in 6 to 9 days, Dr. Cheney said. He reported the test in the California Medicine, and official journal.

LaVale Lions To Sell Trees

Members of the LaVale Lions Club will team up this month and sell Christmas trees at two separate locations in that community — The LaVale Plaza Shopping Center and Super 40 Drive-In.

Joseph Dorsey and Paul Owens, co-chairmen of the fund-raising project, said the trees, freshly-cut in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, will go on sale Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December 15-17.

At the shopping center they will be sold on the back parking lot located parallel to Heinrich's Store to the rear of the storerooms.

Members of the club will begin selling trees at 9 a.m. on the three days and will be at the two locations during the afternoons and evenings.

The Lions promise the same quality trees as last year. They will include douglas fir, balsam fir, spruce, white and Scotch pine. Roping, wreaths and other yule decorations will be available.

Proceeds from the sales are used for the park and civic improvement program.

Exhausted "Rocky" Goes Into Seclusion

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, exhausted by a futile flying search for his son in New Guinea, secluded himself Thursday on his family's rambling Pocantico Hills estate in the suburbs north of here.

The son, Michael, 23, has been missing since Nov. 19 when he tried to swim 3½ miles to shore from a capsized raft off southern New Guinea. He had gone there earlier this year on an anthropological expedition.

Rockefeller arrived at Idlewild Airport Wednesday night after returning from New Guinea where he led the unsuccessful search for more than a week.

Escapee Arrested

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The FBI said Thursday it had arrested in Richmond an escapee from the Maryland House of Corrections at Jessup, Md.

He was identitifed as Robert Walton Harris, 42, a laborer.

The FBI said Harris was serving an eight-year sentence for breaking and entering when he escaped Nov. 3.

Short-Skirted Girls Suspended By High School

BRENTWOOD, N.Y. (UPI) — Officials at Brentwood High School are telling teen-age girl students to come to school properly dressed or stay home.
The object of the officials' disaffection: Short skirts.
School officials revealed Thursday that they finally got tired of telling teen-age femmes fatale about hemlines above the knees and tight skirts. They suspended — for two days — 37 girls Tuesday and four more Thursday.
In each case, the girls' parents were called to the school to take their daughters home, and in all cases the parents agreed heartily with the school, officials said.

Rain Halts Strike

LONDON (AP) — A proposed strike by 3,000 London taxicab drivers flopped Thursday on account of rain.
The stoppage, not suported by union leaders, was supposed to begin at midnight and last 48 hours. But by midday there were plenty of cabs on the streets and it was obvious most drivers had elected to reap the usual wet weather harvest instead of joining the walkout.

Construction Up

NEW YORK (UPI)—Heavy construction contracts in the holiday week ended Nov. 30 bounced back to $449.8 million from the $304.8 million the week before and the $385 million in the similar 1960 period, the Engineering News-Record reported Thursday.
This brings the year-to-date to $20.6 billion or only 3 per cent short of the record year 1960.

Paper Contract Is Negotiated

Membership To Act On New Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agreement on a new union contract with the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co. was announced late Thursday.

A company official said negotiators, after some 15 days of talks, agreed on a one-year contract to expire Nov. 17, 1962. The contract includes wage increases and other benefits.

The company official said the negotiating committee for the United Papermakers and Paperworkers will recommended ratification of the new contract by the three locals affected—at company plants in Luke, Md., Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa.

9 Cent Package

The agreement includes approximately 9 cents an hour increase in wages and other benefits, the official said.

A general wage increase, ranging from 4 to 5½ cents an hour, will become effective Dec. 4 if the contract is ratified by the union, he said.

He said improvements also were agreed upon for hospital and surgical benefits. These would include full company payment for life insurance, for accidental death and dismemberment and for accidents and sicknesses.

In the past these insurance programs were paid for in part by the worker.

The new agreement, he added, also would provide for improved weekly overtime pay arrangements in connection with holidays. Also provided would be four weeks' vacation for workers with 23 years' service, instead of the present 25-year minimum.

Vote Scheduled

The offical said that for the Covington plant only, the agreement calls for two weeks' vacation after three years employment in place of the present five-year requirement. He explained that plants at Luke and Williamsburg now hav. that provision in force.

Other changes, he said, pertain to contract language dealing with work opportunities during periods of slack employment.

Approximately 3,600 workers would be affected by the proposals. The workers have remained on the job since expiration of the old contract Nov. 17.

At least one of the locals, the one at Covington, will meet Friday to consider acceptance or rejection of the proposed contract.

Officials of Luke Local 676 are expected to schedule a similar meeting Sunday.

The company had made its offer on either a one-year or two-year basis.

Early Mailing For Christmas Is Stressed

Will Avoid Delays, Postmaster Says

Stressing the need for everyone to cooperate on his 1961 "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign, Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon said "Early mailing of all Christmas cards and gifts is the biggest single factor in getting everything delivered before Christmas."

The Post Office Department plans to expand its facilities and to provide extra help during the Christmas rush. Mr. Conlon said if everyone will follow three simple rules, friends and loved ones will not be disappointed on Christmas Day — wrap gifts securely, be sure they are addressed clearly and correctly, and mail all gifts and cards early.

The postmaster added, "I hate to see folks take chances on mailing poorly wrapped packages. Despite careful handling every year, too many packages break open in transit and too often we have to puzzle over names and addresses which are incomplete or simply cannot be read at all."

If articles are of unusual size or bulk, it is better to check with the Post Office before attempting to mail them. The limits on size and weight of packages varies, depending on from where they are mailed. As an extra precaution, Mr. Conlon advised placing both return address and recipient's address inside the carton or package before it is wrapped.

If Christmas seals or stickers are used, put them on the back of the Christmas cards and packages so they will not conflict with the address on front. Make sure that correct postage is firmly affixed to each card and package. When mailing gifts, it is a good idea to place a piece of transparent cellophane tape over the address portion of the label to prevent defacing it in transit. And always be sure to include the recipient's full name, street address, city, zone and state.

Because the entire Christmas mailing period is primarily a battle against time, "Do it now" is the slogan from here on in. Don't put off Christmas mailings while there is still ample time because this means that pile-ups will occur at the Post Office, causing unavoidable slowdowns in deliveries as the holiday approaches.

The Postmaster asks the cooperation of all business firms to delay mailing circulars and catalogs until after December 25, to keep the mails clear for the Christmas rush.

Mr. Conlon said he is most appreciative of the interest and cooperation shown by the mailing public so far, and reminds that all mail going long distances should be sent by December 10. Christmas packages for local delivery should be mailed not later than December 15 and Christmas cards for nearby destinations should be mailed at least a week before Christmas.

Fill Gift Boxes For Red Cross

Rev. August W. Peters, extreme right, assistant to the rector at Emmanuel Episcopal Church, assists members of the Junior Young Peoples Fellowship of the church in preparing gift boxes for the American Red Cross annual gift box program. The boxes are furnished by the Red Cross and filled with personal items to be distributed to children in disaster areas. Students of public and parachial schools also participate in the program. The above group was the first to complete its program.

Young People Aid Red Cross Program Here

The annual American Red Cross Gift Box is under way and the Junior Young Peoples Fellowship of Emmanuel Episcopal Church is the first participation group to complete its part of the program, according to Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary of Allegany County Chapter.

The event is sponsored by the local chapter each year at this time. Boxes are prepared by the National Red Cross Children's fund and distributed to public and parochial schools where the students fill them with personal items including toothbrushes, toothpaste, combs, pencils, soaps and others, for needy children in disaster areas.

This is the first time the Emmanuel Episcopal group has taken part. These young people used funds received from Friday night dances which the fellowship sponsors to purchase the gift items. Lee Helmer, Cindy Gunter and Rev. August W. Peters, assistant to the rector, were appointed a shopping committee to make the purchases.

Others participating were David Powers, president; Neenee Sykes, Barbara Syckes, Linda George, Maria Ebert, Mike Richardson, Mike Price, Beverly Canfield, Patrick Canfield and Tom Beyer.

When the boxes are filled by the students of public and parochial schools and other participants in the program, they are returned to the local chapter office and prepared for shipment to the Red Cross area office in Alexandria, Va., for distribution to children in distaster areas.

Eagles' National President Will Visit Cumberland

Paul Hoffman, Tiffin, Ohio, newly-elected grand worthy president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, will visit Cumberland Aerie 245 on Tuesday, said Alvin C. DeBouck, worthy president of the local lodge.

The occasion will be a regular membership meeting at 7:30 p.m. at which time a large class of new members will be initiated by the Aerie Past Worthy Presidents Degree Team.

Invited guests will include U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, long time member of Frostburg Aerie 1273; Mayor J. Edwin Keech, 30-year member of the local Aerie; Thomas J. Hopwood, city, state president of the Maryland-District of Columbia State Aerie; Herman L. Myers, city, state secretary, and Paul F. Lease, LaVale, Cresaptown Aerie, state chaplain.

Mr. Hoffman, who has just retired, was in the construction business since 1911 and for the past 20 years was associated with Basic Incorporated in Tiffin, as superintendent of all new construction and maintenance of buildings, property and plants.

Since joining the Eagles in Tiffin in 1915 he has been active in fraternal affairs on a local, state and national level. He served in all the offices of his home lodge, held state positions for 11 years including the office of president of Ohio.

He was elected grand worthy vice president in 1960 and to the top office in Eagledom at the 63d international convention in Minneapolis, Minn. this past August.

He also has served as national chairman of the Eagles Damon Runyon Cancer program and the "Jobs After 40" program which seeks through education, persuasion and legislation to ban job discrimination based on age.

Mr. Hoffman and his wife will travel all over the United States, Canada and Hawaii in the coming year to visit Eagles Aeries. The Eagles have 1,650 lodges and 1,350 auxiliaries.

Report Asked On Abuses In Blue Cross

BALTIMORE (AP) — A special committee studying abuses of Blue Cross benefits and hospital facilities was asked Thursday to "report what has been accomplished."

The request came from Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney and self-styled watchdog of public funds and government operations.

"In view of the fact that . . . almost a year has expired since the formation of your committee, the time has come when your committee ought to report what has been accomplished," Pressman wrote Reginald H. Dabney, director of the Maryland Blue Cross.

Pressman said he particularly wanted to know what changes there have been in the average number of impatient days, the average length of hospital stay and the average payment by Blue Cross for per patient day.

The attorney quoted Dr. James E. McClenahan, associate clinical professor of surgery at the University of Pittsburgh, who told the Hospital Council of Maryland Monday there is "excessive use of hospital beds."

If the use of hospitals and their services were limited to the actual requirements, 'Dr. McClenahan said, "I am convinced that in most areas of the country we would not need to build any new beds for hospitals."

Pressman's letter to Dabney said "the public is entitled to know whether your committee has been fully performing its intended functions and what results you have to show for it."

Allegany Will Get $105,067 In Tax Funds

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Baltimore City and eight Maryland counties will receive $4,669,193 Saturday as an advance distribution of their shares of the State income tax.

The money, covering tax withheld by employers in the second and third quarters of the calendar year, is being distributed by the comptroller's office to the subdivisions under an option they have for collecting shares early. Others will get theirs at the end of the State's fiscal year next June 30.

Baltimore City will receive $2,379,504 of the total amount being distributed. Other shares include Allegany County $105,067, Anne Arundel $429,587, Garrett $11,778, Harford $124,724, Kent $20,674, Montgomery $1,453,647, Queen Annes $21,267 and Washington $122,945.

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said all nine of the subdivisions applied for the early distribution and certified they needed the funds in advance of regular distribution.

Expect Resignation

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The newspaper Aftonbladet reported Thursday that Swedish Foreign Minister Oesten Unden would resign on New York's Day and the government would be reshuffled within a month. The Foreign Ministry refused to confirm or deny the report.

Safety Talks To Be Given At Schools

Mansfield Will Appear Here

Richard Mansfield, retired inspector of the Washington, D.C. Police Department, will conduct a series of talks on safety at several local elementary schools next week.

Mr. Mansfield's visit to Cumberland has been arranged by the West Side School PTA and the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission.

M. G. Thomas is the president of West Side PTA and members of the PTA safety committee are J. C. Slack, John W. Knowlton, H. K. Gummel and David Phillips.

Mr. Mansfield will present lessons, stories and guidance in safety habits of school children during his two-day visit.

He will be accompanied to Cumberland by Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, and Porter Trice, also of the MSTC.

On Monday at 9:15 a.m. Mr. Mansfield will be at Pennsylvania School for two sessions. Later the same day he will be at Gephart School at 1:15 and at Columbia School at 2:30 p.m.

He will be at West Side School Tuesday at 9:15 a.m. and then will go to Mount Royal for a program at 10:45 a.m.

Other PTA presidents who are assisting with arrangements at their respective schools are James Maphis, Pennsylvania Avenue; Mrs. E. W. Dove, Gephart; George Hughes, Columbia Street, and Milton Gerson, Mount Royal.

Local Travel Agent Flies To Germany

Thomas F. Conlon Jr. flew to Cologne, Germany last night to represent the Conlon Travel Agency on a familiarization visit of seven German cities sponsored by the German Tourist Association for North American travel sales people.

In addition to Cologne, Mr. Conlon, who is secretary of the Central Atlantic Chapter of the American Society of Travel Agents, will attend programs set up by civic officials of Frankfurt, Nuernberg, Hanover, Essen and Hamburg.

He is planning to present historical information on Cumberland and a letter of greetings from Mayor J. Edwin Keech to officials of each city.

All travel in West Germany will be by the German Federal Railroad during daylight and finally the group will depart Hamburg at 8 a.m. on December 10 by rail for West Berlin.

The highlight of the Berlin visit, Mr. Conlon said, should be the mammoth Christmas fair and Christmas tree sale occupying nine exhibition buildings where old Christmas customs are displayed from December 3-20.

This fair in the surrounded free city is noted for its Christmas music concerts and plays by night school students of the cities colleges.

An evening bus trip of about five hours duration through East Germany to Hanover will complete the trip and the group will arrive in New York the evening of December 12.

Planners Get Preliminary Highway Plan

Meeting Is Set For This Morning

Copies of a preliminary proposal for future highway construction work in Allegany County were distributed last night to members of the County Planning and Zoning Commission which met at the Court House.

The proposed plan which would attempt to determine the county needs in the next few decades, was prepared by Julian Tarrant, senior associate of Ladislas Segoe and Associates, consultants for the planning and zoning body.

This morning, C. Lee Renaud, county planner, and Harry T. Skelly, county roads supervisor, plan to sit down in Mr. Renaud's office at the Court House to confer on the proposed plan with Robert J. Hajzyk, chief of the planning and programming division of the State Roads Commission.

Land Use Considered

Land use, urban areas development and future industry in the county were all taken into consideration in the preliminary plan which eventually will become a final comprehensive plan for highways.

Mr. Tarrant pointed out that the plan is a proposed system of integrated roads within the county limits. He said that although many of the less traveled roads were not taken into consideration in the initial plans they would probably be included in future plans.

County Commissioner John T. Mason, a member of the group, agreed that the SRC is open to suggestions for future highway construction and the state unit does not have any idea of how the county will grow, which is

409 Smaller Dams Included In River Plans

Overshadowed by the proposed big dams on the Potomac River and its tributaries is the fact that the long-range water conservation program outlined for the Potomac River Basin by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers also includes some 409 smaller reservoirs to satisfy the local headwater requirements.

Col. Warren R. Johnson, Baltimore District engineer, told the Cumberland meeting Wednesday night that collectively these small reservoirs would cost about $106 million and will provide benefits for water supply, water quality control and recreation.

Alvin C. Watson of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who spoke after Col. Johnson, offered more details. He stressed that the plans for the major impoundments would be supplemented and complemented by the 409 smaller reservoirs.

"I would like to point out that 85 of these reservoirs have been included for water supply and water quality control in the upstream areas. Eighty-two additional reservoirs are included with multi-purpose use — that is water supply, water quality control and flood protection. These same sites will be needed to supply upstream needs in combination with each of the four alternative plans presented. The 237 other sites are for single purpose flood prevention and have been selected with the plan on the 'main stem and upper basin.' In addition thereare five reservoirs for recreation on National Forests," Mr. Watson said.

The next meeting to inform the public on the 50-year water conservation program will be held at the Moorefield Fire Hall tonight.

Garage Unit Is Burned

A flash fire raged through the maintenance building of a used car lot here yesterday afternoon.

Central and West Side fire companies were called after the fire broke out in the garage section of Bill's Used Car Lot at 443 North Mechanic Street at 3:07 p.m.

Firemen said the flash fire resulted as a worker was using a mixture of kerosene to clean a motor, and the vapor ignited from the flame of a nearby hot water heater.

Nobody was injured, firemen were told, by the blaze which damaged the car which was being repaired and set fire to the roof of the building.

Proceeds from the play will be used for the Optimist Club's "Boys Work Fund."

Railroad To Fight Coal Pipeline

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The railroad will fight construction of a pipeline to carry coal from the northern West Virginia fields to East Coast markets, an official said Thursday.

George F. Parrish, executive secretary of the West Virginia Railroad Association, made public his organization's opposition to the pipeline endorsed Wednesday by Gov. W. W. Barron.

"It will be desperately and aggressively opposed by the railroads," Parrish emphasized.

The pipeline would carry a slurry of 70 per cent coal and 30 per cent water for use in boilers through a process recently developed in New Jersey.

Barron said Wednesday he would ask the 1962 legislature to give the builders land condemnation rights for the proposed 400-mile, $100 million line.

Barron and other administration officials expressed the belief it would boost the state's economy and provide 2,400 more mining jobs.

Parish disputed that point. "It will be ad for the total economy of the state," he said, "and if pipelines become prevalent it will mean the loss of jobs for 3,000 employes."

Hit Litterbugs

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Police said Thursday they have arrested 179 persons so far under West Virginia's new "litterbug" law. The law provides penalties ranging from $20 to $500 for persons found guilty of throwing garbage or other waste materials along roads.

Westvaco Declares 30 Cent Dividend

The Board of Directors of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at a meeting held in New York this week declared a regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents per share on the company's common stock.

This dividend is payable January 2, 1962, to stockholders of record at 3 p. m. December 11, 1961.

Queen City Girls' Chorus Will Meet

The Queen City Girls' Chorus, sponsored by the City Recreation Department, will meet today at 8 p. m. in City Hall.

Members, under the direction of R. Monroe Harris, are scheduled to practice Christmas carols.

All girls who are interested in group singing are invited to attend, according to Mrs. Shirley Tindal, president.

Paper Contract Is Negotiated

Membership To Act On New Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agreement on a new union contract with the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co. was announced late Thursday.

A company official said negotiators, after some 15 days of talks, agreed on a one-year contract to expire Nov. 17, 1962. The contract includes wage increases and other benefits.

The company official said the negotiating committee for the United Papermakers and Paperworkers will recommended ratification of the new contract by the three locals affected—at company plants in Luke, Md., Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa.

9 Cent Package

The agreement includes approximately 9 cents an hour increase in wages and other benefits, the official said.

A general wage increase, ranging from 4 to 5½ cents an hour, will become effective Dec. 4 if the contract is ratified by the union, he said.

He said improvements also were agreed upon for hospital and surgical benefits. These would include full company payment for life insurance, for accidental death and dismemberment and for accidents and sicknesses.

In the past these insurance programs were paid for in part by the worker.

The new agreement, he added, also would provide for improved weekly overtime pay arrangements in connection with holidays. Also provided would be four weeks' vacation for workers with 23 years' service, instead of the present 25-year minimum.

Vote Scheduled

The offical said that for the Covington plant only, the agreement calls for two weeks' vacation after three years employment in place of the present five-year requirement. He explained that plants at Luke and Williamsburg now hav- that provision in force.

Other changes, he said, pertain to contract language dealing with work opportunities during periods of slack employment.

Approximately 3,600 workers would be affected by the proposals. The workers have remained on the job since expiration of the old contract Nov. 17.

At least one of the locals, the one at Covington, will meet Friday to consider acceptance or rejection of the proposed contract.

Officials of Luke Local 676 are expected to schedule a similar meeting Sunday.

The company had made its offer on either a one-year or two-year basis.

Early Mailing For Christmas Is Stressed

Will Avoid Delays, Postmaster Says

Stressing the need for everyone to cooperate on his 1961 "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign, Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon said "Early mailing of all Christmas cards and gifts is the biggest single factor in getting everything delivered before Christmas."

The Post Office Department plans to expand its facilities and to provide extra help during the Christmas rush. Local Travel Agent Flies To Germany

Thomas F. Conlon Jr. flew to Cologne, Germany last night to represent the Conlon Travel Agency on a familiarization visit of seven German cities sponsored by the German Tourist Association for North American travel sales people.

In addition to Cologne, Mr. Conlon, who is secretary of the Central Atlantic Chapter of the American Society of Travel Agents, will attend programs set up by civic officials of Frankfurt, Nuernberg, Hanover, Essen and Hamburg.

He is planning to present historical information on Cumberland and a letter of greetings from Mayor J. Edwin Keech to officials of each city.

All travel in West Germany will be by the German Federal Railroad during daylight and finally the group will depart Hamburg at 8 a.m. on December 10 by rail for West Berlin.

The highlight of the Berlin visit, Mr. Conlon said, should be the mammoth Christmas fair and Christmas tree sale occupying nine exhibition buildings where old Christmas customs are displayed from December 3-20.

This fair in the surrounded free city is noted for its Christmas music concerts and plays by night school students of the cities colleges.

An evening bus trip of about five hours duration through East Germany to Hanover will complete the trip and the group will arrive in New York the evening of December 12.

Railroad To Fight Coal Pipeline

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The railroad will fight construction of a pipeline to carry coal from the northern West Virginia fields to East Coast markets, an official said Thursday.

George F. Parrish, executive secretary of the West Virginia Railroad Association, made public his organization's opposition to the pipeline endorsed Wednesday by Gov. W. W. Barron.

"It will be desperately and aggressively opposed by the railroads," Parrish emphasized.

The pipeline would carry a slurry of 70 per cent coal and 30 per cent water for use in boilers through a process recently developed in New Jersey.

Barron said Wednesday he would ask the 1962 legislature to give the builders land condemnation rights for the proposed 400-mile, $100 million line.

Barron and other administration officials expressed the belief it would boost the state's economy and provide 2,400 more mining jobs.

Parish disputed that point. "It will be ad for the total economy of the state," he said, "and if pipelines become prevalent it will mean the loss of jobs for 3,000 employes."

Hit Litterbugs

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Police said Thursday they have arrested 179 persons so far under West Virginia's new "litterbug" law. The law provides penalties ranging from $20 to $500 for persons found guilty of throwing garbage or other waste materials along roads.

Planners Get Preliminary Highway Plan

Meeting Is Set For This Morning

Copies of a preliminary proposal for future highway construction work in Allegany County were distributed last night to members of the County Planning and Zoning Commission which met at the Court House.

The proposed plan which would attempt to determine the county needs in the next few decades, was prepared by Julian Tarrant, senior associate of Ladislas Segoe and Associates, consultants for the planning and zoning body.

This morning, C. Lee Renaud, county planner, and Harry T. Skelly, county roads supervisor, plan to sit down in Mr. Renaud's office at the Court House to confer on the proposed plan with Robert J. Hajzyk, chief of the planning and programming division of the State Roads Commission.

Land Use Considered

Land use, urban areas development and future industry in the county were all taken into consideration in the preliminary plan which eventually will become a final comprehensive plan for highways.

Mr. Tarrant pointed out that the plan is a proposed system of integrated roads within the county limits. He said that although many of the less traveled roads were not taken into consideration in the initial plans they would probably be included in future plans.

County Commissioner John T. Mason, a member of the group, agreed that the SRC is open to suggestions for future highway construction and the state unit does not have any idea of how the county will grow, which is

409 Smaller Dams Included In River Plans

Overshadowed by the proposed big dams on the Potomac River and its tributaries is the fact that the long-range water conservation program outlined for the Potomac River Basin by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers also includes some 409 smaller reservoirs to satisfy the local headwater requirements.

Col. Warren R. Johnson, Baltimore District engineer, told the Cumberland meeting Wednesday night that collectively these small reservoirs would cost about $106 million and will provide benefits for water supply, water quality control and recreation.

Alvin C. Watson of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who spoke after Col. Johnson, offered more details. He stressed that the plans for the major impoundments would be supplemented and complemented by the 409 smaller reservoirs.

"I would like to point out that 85 of these reservoirs have been included for water supply and water quality control in the upstream areas. Eighty-two additional reservoirs are included with multi-purpose use — that is water supply, water quality control and flood protection. These same sites will be needed to supply upstream needs in combination with each of the four alternative plans presented. The 237 other sites are for single purpose flood prevention and have been selected with the plan on the 'main stem and upper basin.' In addition thereare five reservoirs for recreation on National Forests," Mr. Watson said.

The next meeting to inform the public on the 50-year water conservation program will be held at the Moorefield Fire Hall tonight.

Paper Contract Is Negotiated

Membership To Act On New Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agreement on a new union contract with the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co. was announced late Thursday.

A company official said negotiators, after some 15 days of talks, agreed on a one-year contract to expire Nov. 17, 1962. The contract includes wage increases and other benefits.

The company official said the negotiating committee for the United Papermakers and Paperworkers will recommended ratification of the new contract by the three locals affected—at company plants in Luke, Md., Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa.

9 Cent Package

The agreement includes approximately 9 cents an hour increase in wages and other benefits, the official said.

A general wage increase, ranging from 4 to 5½ cents an hour, will become effective Dec. 4 if the contract is ratified by the union, he said.

He said improvements also were agreed upon for hospital and surgical benefits. These would include full company payment for life insurance, for accidental death and dismemberment and for accidents and sicknesses.

In the past these insurance programs were paid for in part by the worker.

The new agreement, he added, also would provide for improved weekly overtime pay arrangements in connection with holidays. Also provided would be four weeks' vacation for workers with 23 years' service, instead of the present 25-year minimum.

Vote Scheduled

The offical said that for the Covington plant only, the agreement calls for two weeks' vacation after three years employment in place of the present five-year requirement. He explained that plants at Luke and Williamsburg now hav. that provision in force.

Other changes, he said, pertain to contract language dealing with work opportunities during periods of slack employment.

Approximately 3,600 workers would be affected by the proposals. The workers have remained on the job since expiration of the old contract Nov. 17.

At least one of the locals, the one at Covington, will meet Friday to consider acceptance or rejection of the proposed contract.

Officials of Luke Local 676 are expected to schedule a similar meeting Sunday.

The company had made its offer on either a one-year or two-year basis.

Early Mailing For Christmas Is Stressed

Will Avoid Delays, Postmaster Says

Stressing the need for everyone to cooperate on his 1961 "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign, Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon said "Early mailing of all Christmas cards and gifts is the biggest single factor in getting everything delivered before Christmas."

The Post Office Department plans to expand its facilities and to provide extra help during the Christmas rush. Mr. Conlon said if everyone will follow three simple rules, friends and loved ones will not be disappointed on Christmas Day — wrap gifts securely, be sure they are addressed clearly and correctly, and mail all gifts and cards early.

The postmaster added, "I hate to see folks take chances on mailing poorly wrapped packages. Despite careful handling every year, too many packages break open in transit and too often we have to puzzle over names and addresses which are incomplete or simply cannot be read at all."

If articles are of unusual size or bulk, it is better to check with the Post Office before attempting to mail them. The limits on size and weight of packages varies, depending on from where they are mailed. As an extra precaution, Mr. Conlon advised placing both return address and recipient's address inside the carton or package before it is wrapped.

If Christmas seals or stickers are used, put them on the back of the Christmas cards and packages so they will not conflict with the address on front. Make sure that correct postage is firmly affixed to each card and package. When mailing gifts, it is a good idea to place a piece of transparent cellophane tape over the address portion of the label to prevent defacing it in transit. And always be sure to include the recipient's full name, street address, city, zone and state.

Because the entire Christmas mailing period is primarily a battle against time, "Do it now" is the slogan from here on in. Don't put off Christmas mailings while there is still ample time because this means that pile-ups will occur at the Post Office, causing unavoidable slowdowns in deliveries as the holiday approaches.

The Postmaster asks the cooperation of all business firms to delay mailing circulars and catalogs until after December 25, to keep the mails clear for the Christmas rush.

Mr. Conlon said he is most appreciative of the interest and cooperation shown by the mailing public so far, and reminds that all mail going long distances should be sent by December 10. Christmas packages for local delivery should be mailed not later than December 15 and Christmas cards for nearby destinations should be mailed at least a week before Christmas.

Fill Gift Boxes For Red Cross

Rev. August W. Peters, extreme right, assistant to the rector at Emmanuel Episcopal Church, assists members of the Junior Young Peoples Fellowship of the church in preparing gift boxes for the American Red Cross annual gift box program. The boxes are furnished by the Red Cross and filled with personal items to be distributed to children in disaster areas. Students of public and parachial schools also participate in the program. The above group was the first to complete its program.

Young People Aid Red Cross Program Here

The annual American Red Cross Gift Box is under way and the Junior Young Peoples Fellowship of Emmanuel Episcopal Church is the first participation group to complete its part of the program, according to Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary of Allegany County Chapter.

The event is sponsored by the local chapter each year at this time. Boxes are prepared by the National Red Cross Children's fund and distributed to public and parochial schools where the students fill them with personal items including toothbrushes, toothpaste, combs, pencils, soaps and others, for needy children in disaster areas.

This is the first time the Emmanuel Episcopal group has taken part. These young people used funds received from Friday night dances which the fellowship sponsors to purchase the gift items. Lee Helmer, Cindy Gunter and Rev. August W. Peters, assistant to the rector, were appointed a shopping committee to make the purchases.

Others participating were David Powers, president; Neenee Sykes, Barbara Syckes, Linda George, Maria Ebert, Mike Richardson, Mike Price, Beverly Canfield, Patrick Canfield and Tom Beyer.

When the boxes are filled by the students of public and parochial schools and other participants in the program, they are returned to the local chapter office and prepared for shipment to the Red Cross area office in Alexandria, Va., for distribution to children in distaster areas.

Eagles' National President Will Visit Cumberland

Paul Hoffman, Tiffin, Ohio, newly-elected grand worthy president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, will visit Cumberland Aerie 245 on Tuesday, said Alvin C. DeBouck, worthy president of the local lodge.

The occasion will be a regular membership meeting at 7:30 p.m. at which time a large class of new members will be initiated by the Aerie Past Worthy Presidents Degree Team.

Invited guests will include U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, long time member of Frostburg Aerie 1273; Mayor J. Edwin Keech, 30-year member of the local Aerie; Thomas J. Hopwood, city, state president of the Maryland-District of Columbia State Aerie; Herman L. Myers, city, state secretary, and Paul F. Lease, LaVale, Cresaptown Aerie, state chaplain.

Mr. Hoffman, who has just retired, was in the construction business since 1911 and for the past 20 years was associated with Basic Incorporated in Tiffin, as superintendent of all new construction and maintenance of buildings, property and plants.

Since joining the Eagles in Tiffin in 1915 he has been active in fraternal affairs on a local, state and national level. He served in all the offices of his home lodge, held state positions for 11 years including the office of president of Ohio.

He was elected grand worthy vice president in 1960 and to the top office in Eagledom at the 63d international convention in Minneapolis, Minn. this past August.

He also has served as national chairman of the Eagles Damon Runyon Cancer program and the "Jobs After 40" program which seeks through education, persuasion and legislation to ban job discrimination based on age.

Mr. Hoffman and his wife will travel all over the United States, Canada and Hawaii in the coming year to visit Eagles Aeries. The Eagles have 1,650 lodges and 1,350 auxiliaries.

Allegany Will Get $105,067 In Tax Funds

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Baltimore City and eight Maryland counties will receive $4,669,193 Saturday as an advance distribution of their shares of the State income tax.

The money, covering tax withheld by employers in the second and third quarters of the calendar year, is being distributed by the comptroller's office to the subdivisions under an option they have for collecting shares early. Others will get theirs at the end of the State's fiscal year next June 30.

Baltimore City will receive $2,379,504 of the total amount being distributed. Other shares include Allegany County $105,067, Anne Arundel $429,587, Garrett $11,778, Harford $124,724, Kent $20,674, Montgomery $1,453,647, Queen Annes $21,267 and Washington $122,945.

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said all nine of the subdivisions applied for the early distribution and certified they needed the funds in advance of regular distribution.

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The newspaper Aftonbladet reported Thursday that Swedish Foreign Minister Oesten Unden would resign on New York's Day and the government would be reshuffled within a month. The Foreign Ministry refused to confirm or deny the report.

Report Asked On Abuses In Blue Cross

BALTIMORE (AP) — A special committee studying abuses of Blue Cross benefits and hospital facilities was asked Thursday to "report what has been accomplished."

The request came from Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney and self-styled watchdog of public funds and government operations.

"In view of the fact that . . . almost a year has expired since the formation of your committee, the time has come when your committee ought to report what has been accomplished," Pressman wrote Reginald H. Dabney, director of the Maryland Blue Cross.

Pressman said he particularly wanted to know what changes there have been in the average number of impatient days, the average length of hospital stay and the average payment by Blue Cross for per patient day.

The attorney quoted Dr. James E. McClenahan, associate clinical professor of surgery at the University of Pittsburgh, who told the Hospital Council of Maryland Monday there is "excessive use of hospital beds."

If the use of hospitals and their services were limited to the actual requirements, 'Dr. McClenahan said, "I am convinced that in most areas of the country we would not need to build any new beds for hospitals."

Pressman's letter to Dabney said "the public is entitled to know whether your committee has been fully performing its intended functions and what results you have to show for it."

To Hold Supper

The Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company will hold a steak supper tomorrow from 5 to 7:30 p.m. at the fire hall.

Garage Unit Is Burned

A flash fire raged through the maintenance building of a used car lot here yesterday afternoon.

Central and West Side fire companies were called after the fire broke out in the garage section of Bill's Used Car Lot at 443 North Mechanic Street at 3:07 p.m.

Firemen said the flash fire resulted as a worker was using a mixture of kerosene to clean a motor, and the vapor ignited from the flame of a nearby hot water heater.

Nobody was injured, firemen were told, by the blaze which damaged the car which was being repaired and set fire to the roof of the building.
